Dunne heads Dems; suburbs stymied

by KURT BAER

Suburban Democrats emerged without a clear-cut spokesman and unsure of their next move following the election of Cook County Board Pres. George W. Dunne as chairman of the powerful Cook County Democratic Central Committee Wednesday.

Suburban committeemen caucused several hours before Dunne was elected. But the closed-door meeting reportedly broke up in disagreement over the choice of a leader for the suburban bloc.

And Dunne, 63, cast new doubts on whether a position of party vice chairman will be created for the suburbs by announcing the formation of a 40-member executive board that will have 25 Chicago and 15 suburban members.

HE ALSO DECLINED to say whether he will run for mayor of Chicago in a special election to be held within the next six months.

Suburban committeeman, in particular, oppose the same person being party chairman and mayor.

Suburban committeemen generally reacted favorably to Dunne's chairmanship and the creation of an executive committee to direct party affairs. But they said they needed more time to consider its full implications.

"I don't know yet what impact Chairman Dunne's announcement of the executive committee may have on the idea of a (suburban) vice chairman," said Donald F. Eslick, Northfield Township Democratic committeeman and one of the suburban leaders.

"THE EXECUTIVE committee idea is a different approach than we have had in the past. It seems to represent a real opportunity for suburban participation, including the 5 to 3 ratio of city to suburban members that we had sought," Eslick said.

"Whether our 15 member representation on the executive committee might substitute for a vice chairman — I don't know," he said.

In talking to reporters, Dunne said he was not sure what advantages a suburban vice chairman would have for the party organization and he repeated that state law recognizes only a party chairman and secretary.

But in accepting his party's top job, Dunne made several comments obviously intended to reassure suburban Democrats that they will have full status in the party, something they never really had under the former county chairman, the late Mayor Richard J. Daley.

"I RECOGNIZE 80 integral party members (30 from the suburbs and 50 from Chicago) and I promise to work with each committeeman to assist in any way I can," Dunne said.

"I pledge to use what skills I have to fulfill the responsibility of this office to the end of meeting your desires."

Dunne was unopposed in his bid for leadership of the county organization. Edmund L. Kelly, Chicago Park District superintendent, withdrew as a candidate shortly before Wednesday's

Prompt, polite service goal of cab company

A campaign to provide prompt and polite cab service has been started by the owner of the Arlington City Cab Co. who faces a 30-day deadline to improve service or possibly lose his license to operate in Arlington Heights.

Robert Birks, owner of the firm, has fired one driver this month for being impolite and promised others the same fate. He also plans to add 15 taxicabs to his fleet by April and is paying four people to ride his taxicabs and report to him about cleanliness and driver courtesy. The firm is the only licensed cab company in the village.

"The problems are with equipment and human beings," he said. "One will be solved by buying more cabs. The other one I'm working on.

"I have 60 full-time and part-time drivers, and when you've got that many you're going to get some bad apples," Birks said. "I put a note in the drivers' last paychecks telling them I cannot afford to jeopardize good service because of a rude driver. I've promised the village that any drivers reported as being rude will be dismissed."

HE HAS FIRED one man who made "a nasty remark" to a woman paid to spot-check taxicabs for the company.

Birks began his improvement program after reading a November soty in The Herald documenting long tax-

THOMAS URLACHER, left, sought by police since the Aug. 21 disappearance of Barbara Glueckert, is brought handcuffed into the Mount Prospect police station shortly before dawn Wednesday by Det. Sgt. Patrick Hallihan who has been leading the search for the missing girl. Little information was given out during the day. Officials would only say that Urlacher was being questioned.

Numb fingers and stalled auto engines were the main results of bitter cold temperatures that are expected to continue in the Chicago area through the New Year's weekend.

High temperatures of zero to 15 degrees were all the weatherman could offer after a night of sub-zero temperatures in the Chicago suburbs. A spokesman for the National Weather Service said "there's no relief in sight," with high temperatures ranging from zero to 20 through Sunday.

The mercury dipped to 8 below in Chicago, and winds from Lake Michigan whipped up the snow Wednesday to create a wind chill factor of 30 to 40 below, prompting an official warning from the National Weather Service.

THE WEATHER service advised Chicago area residents to wear several layers of loose fitting clothes and to cover the mouth to protect the lungs from the cold winds.

The cold weather has been the biggest problem to automobile drivers, as evidenced by the large number of

by DANN GIRE

A letter allegedly written to friends by Thomas Urlacher in which he reportedly discusses overpowering sex drives and putting a girl in the ground is among key elements in the investigation into the Aug. 21 disappearance of 14-year-old Barbara Glueckert of Mount Prospect.

Urlacher, 24, of Algonquin Shores, Ill., is being held on $10,000 bond for contributing to the delinquency of a minor. He is believed to be the last person to have seen Miss Glueckert before her disappearance.

Urlachear was found in a San Francisco apartment and returned to the Mount Prospect police station by local investigators shortly before dawn Wednesday.

MOUNT PROSPECT Det. Jack Gniot brought Urlacher from San Francisco. Urlacher was arrested by police who found him hiding in an apartment using the name of Barton J. Deem.

San Francisco police reportedly located Urlacher by tracing a letter he allegedly wrote from the San Francisco apartment to friends in the Elgin area.

In a letter filled with rambling and vague language, Urlacher reportedly says he put a girl in the ground because he was afraid she would tell police he had forced her to have sexual relations.

In the letter, apparently written Dec. 20 and 21, Urlacher reportedly told friends he has had problems coping with sexual desires and drugs.

URLACHER, Mount Prospect investigators, Cook County Assistant State's Atty. Terry Sullivan, a Kane County assistant state's attorney, and Urlacher's attorney from Elgin spent most of Wednesday crowded into the office of Mount Prospect Police Chief Ralph J. Doney where it was reported Urlacher underwent questioning in connection with Miss Glueckert's disappearance.

One witness said "a constant stream of people" went in and out of the office throughout the day, but

Fourth in a series

Dr. Leonard Berlin never started out to be a hero. But that's what he is in the eyes of many doctors, some lawyers and a part of the general public too.

Berlin is an affable radiologist at Skokie Valley Community Hospital who made headlines June 1 when a Circuit Court judge awarded him $8,000 damages for a countersuit he filed against a Wilmette woman, her lawyer-husband and two other lawyers who earlier had sued him for medical malpractice.

The case marked the first time an Illinois attorney had been sued successfully by a third party for legal negligence, and it has become a landmark in the medical malpractice crisis.

THE CIRCUIT Court's decision is being reviewed by the Illinois Appeals Court and could go to the U.S. Supreme Court. But whatever the outcome, Berlin says he believes he has helped arrest the runaway course of malpractice lawsuits.

"If we win all the appeals, fine. If we ultimately lose, I shall be disappointed but not defeated," he says.

Berlin decided to file the countersuit because he was angry. He had been named in what he knew was a groundless malpractice suit, and he didn't like it.

"I didn't realize the full implications of it at the outset, that an attorney had never been sued before for legal negligence. In fact, that is the basis for their appeal — the law has never held, either by statute or precedent, that a lawyer has any responsibility to anyone but his client."

Berlin argues that lawyers do have a responsibility to doctors, as well as to the public, not to file groundless malpractice suits.

"SOMETHING HAD to be done. In the future more frivolous suits would be filed, only the next time, it wouldn't be me . . . it would be someone else," he says.

There has been a 30 per cent drop in the number of medical malpractice suits filed in Cook County since the jury's decision in Berlin's case.

"The impact of the case has been fantastic," he says. "In all due respect, I can't say the dropoff is all because of my case. I think that public opinion has changed somewhat, and I think the lawyers are being more careful.

"But I do know the drop in Cook County has been larger than in the rest of the country," he says.

Two hurt in chase through 5 suburbs

A high-speed chase through five suburbs early Wednesday ended in a fiery two-car crash in Elk Grove Village that sent two drivers to the hospital. Douglas F. Ellison, 18, of Northlake, sped past a Franklin Park police car at 1 a.m., triggering a chase involving Ellison's auto and a battery of police cars through Franklin Park, Northlake, Bensenville and Wood Dale before the crash at Busse Road and Oakton Street in Elk Grove Village, police said. Injured when Ellison's auto rammed the rear of another car at more than 90 m.p.h. was Ellison and Peter Kourtis, 44, of 205 Miner St., Arlington Heights, driver of the second car. Ellison and Kourtis were taken to Alexian Brothers Medical Center, Elk Grove Village, where they were admitted and reported in good condition Wednesday afternoon. Charges ranging from disobeying traffic signals to reckless driving were filed against Ellison.

Panel urges vote on home rule

A referendum on granting home-rule powers for Wheeling has been recommended by a village citizens' committee. Ida V. O'Reilly, a committee member, said Wednesday a referendum with the April municipal election "is an excellent idea." She said the panel probably will ask the board to limit bonding and taxing powers that could be granted under home rule. She said the village board will receive the committee's final recommendation Jan. 15. Ordinances of home-rule communities supersede all but federal law. All local ordinances must comply with state, federal and county law.

Woman, 66, injured in home fire

A 66-year-old resident of unincorporated Maine Township suffered minor injuries early Wednesday when fire broke out in the living room of her home 10075 Potter Rd. Martha McMullen was treated and released at Lutheran General Hospital, Park Ridge, for smoke inhalation after a fire that broke out near an electrical outlet and heater caused about $2,000 damage to the floor and carpeting in her one-story frame home. Capt. Richard Holtz of the North Maine Fire Protection District said the cause of the fire is being investigated.

Health officials drop swine flu program

ATLANTA (UPI) — Federal health officials, citing evidence that swine flu vaccine is associated with an unusual form of paralysis, Wednesday decided to drop the national immunization program.

They indicated the $35 million program begun in October and suspended two weeks ago won't resume unless flu reaches epidemic proportions around the nation.

The 13-member Advisory Committee on Immunization Practice voted to maintain the moratorium on public flu vaccinations because of evidence linking it to an unusual form of paralysis called Guillain-Barre syndrome.

A consultant to the committee suggested the paralysis might be related not only to flu vaccinations, but to all forms of vaccine.

At a press briefing following the meeting, Dr. David Sencer, director of the Center for Disease Control, said the committee found "significant evidence of association between influenza vaccinations and the Guillain-Barre syndrome."

SENCER SAID a detailed questionnaire would be circulated to physicians and health departments around the country to get more detailed information on the paralysis.

There appeared to be private agreement among the committee that the vaccination program was finished.

The committee did agree, however, to allow private physicians to vaccinate their patients, provided the patients signed a consent form detailing the possible associations with the paralysis.

"We do not think that every many physicians will want to do this," Sencer said.

Sencer reiterated that the dangers of flu are statistically far greater than the danger of contracting Guillain-Barre syndrome. But he said it has been "an extremely dry year for influenza and we hope it will stay that way."

Virtually no influenza has been reported yet this winter, which is quite unusual, Sencer said.

DR. JOHN FOX, epidemiologist at the University of Washington and a consultant to the committee, told the group at one point that "It's quite conceivable that we are looking at an effect of all immunological procedures."

Asked about this later, Sencer said, "I think immunizations will continue to be one of the keystones of our medical efforts."

The questionnaire asks if Guillain-Barre victims had received other vaccinations and if so, when.

The committee was told before making its decision that of the more than 41 million persons who have received the swine flu vaccine, 160 died some within minutes of their vaccination.

In addition to the 160 fatalities, the national Center for Disease Control said 1,600 cases of persons having nonfatal reactions to the swine influenza vaccine have been reported.

"With the possible exception of the Guillain-Barre syndrome and anaphylaxis, investigation to date has not clearly linked vaccine with any of the serious health events or deaths reported," Dr. Michael Hattwick, head of the center's surveillance system, said.

GUILLAIN-BARRE syndrome is a type of paralysis, from which most victims recover within a period of weeks. Anaphylaxis is the name given to a sudden severe physical reaction which sometimes results in death.

The center said, however, only two cases of anaphylaxis have been reported, and neither was fatal.

The center said 52 of the fatalities were heart attack victims who died in periods ranging from inutes after the shots to several weeks after.

The center survey shows there have been at least 496 cases of Guillain-Barre syndrome reported to health authorities since the start of the swine influenza program.

Statistics presented to the committee also showed a significantly higher attack rate of the paralysis among persons vaccinated against influenza compared with those who were not vaccinated.

Dr. Alexander Langmuir, a consultant to the committee and a former center director, said the Guillain-Barre syndrome appears to be some sort of "tissue-cell reaction. I think it is terribly important to find out if there is a lag phase," between the time of a flu vaccination and the onset of the ailment.

He posed the possibility only "genetically susceptible people" contract the paralysis.

Langmuir said he favored a one-month suspension of the swine flu inoculation program. "I think it is a damn shame to be forced to come to a conclusion before we have this data," he said.

calls answered by northwest suburban towing and service stations Wednesday.

Erickson's Auto Service in Palatine had answered 46 calls and was "still going" by late afternoon Wednesday, an employee said.

Gary Raday of Arlington Northwest Towing Service in Des Plaines predicted calls for towing would "be worse" Thursday morning following Wednesday night's below zero temperatures.

Gasoline antifreeze is a fast-selling item with the bitter cold temperatures, said Henry Lorsch of Sears Automobile Dept. at the Woodfield Shopping Center.

"IT'S AN INEXPENSIVE item so people will buy it," Lorsch said. "People are scared now with the cold weather. It's the kind of thing that sells only in the bitter cold."

The freezing weather caused some damage to water pipes in Mount Prospect Wednesday.

David Creamer, Mount Prospect public works director, said the freezing temperatures may have contributed to breaks in water mains in the 300 block of Hatlen Avenue and near the intersection of Sunset Road and Tower Lane. Creamer said the breaks were discovered Wednesday morning, and the mains were shut off for two or three hours for repairs.

No other Northwest suburban public works departments reported problems because of the cold Wednesday.

STATE POLICE said roads in northern Illinois were in good winter driving condition, with a few scattered icy spots in the central part of the state.

Travelers heading north for the New Year's weekend will find even colder temperatures.

In Upper Michigan Wednesday the mercury fell to 32 degrees below zero at Iron River. Roads are reported snow-covered and slippery in upper Wisconsin and Michigan, while heavily traveled roads in the rest of Wisconsin are in good driving condition.

Even in Europe, living is chilling

LONDON (UPI) — Britain reported temperatures colder than Iceland Wednesday and bore the brunt of a wintry blast that dumped snow, ice and freezing fog across Europe.

Only ski resort operators were happy. Holiday crowds flocked to resorts in France, Italy, Switzerland and Austria where the Alpine village of Radstatt reported Austria's coldest night of the season — 13 degrees fahrenheit.

Britain, which only a few months earlier was sweltering in its hottest and driest summer on record, was just as cold in places. The sea froze for a mile on the English Channel near Ramsgate as the mercury in central London dropped to below freezing.

IT WAS DOWN to 12 degrees in Oxfordshire, enabling Brisith newspapers to report it was colder than Iceland where the temperature was 30 degrees in Reykjavik Wednesday.

A rash of minor accidents caused by fog and ice led police to impose 50 mile per hour speed limits. Freezing fog cut visibility to 50 yards at London airport, reducing traffic by 75 per cent.

Frozen railroad switches halted trains and a landslide blamed on the weather cut the Southend-London line.

Snow, ice and fog slowed German highway traffic and 10,000 accidents were reported Tuesday. Most were minor but three persons died in one crash.

Airports all over the continent were affected. Snow closed Zurich airport for two hours, and traffic was disrupted at others, including Paris, Brussels and London.

Yamani tells U.S. on oil hike, 'A friend in need, but'

BONN, West Germany (UPI) — Saudi Oil minister Sheikh Ahmed Yamani said Wednesday the West "has a friend" in Saudi Arabia, but that it "expects something in return" from President-elect Jimmy Carter for holding down its oil price increase.

In an interview with Der Spiegel magazine, Yamani said the Saudi decision to increase the price of oil by only 5 per cent stemmed from fears of a new recession in the West and Communist takeovers in Italy and France.

Saudi Arabia and the United Arab Emirates split with the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries earlier this month and refused to increase the price of their oil by 10 per cent now and another 5 per cent July 1.

ASKED IF there was a connection between the Saudi Arabian decision and the Carter administration support for the Arab cause, Yamani said, "Not actually a connection. There is no obligation on the Americans to do one thing if we do another."

"But in politics, one does one thing and expects something in return," he said. Asked about Carter's denial of any deal on the oil price increase, Yamani said, "If I were Carter I would also say that.

"These kinds of statements are dictated by the strong Zionist lobby. But no one can deny that there is a connection. Everyone knows that, the United States and even Israel. They hate that and try to hide it, but you cannot hide facts.

"Some of us thought that Carter would not be good for the Arab cause and that he would not be neutral," Yamani said. "But in the meantime there are some indications in favor of the opposite view.

"WE ARE WORKING together with you and trying our best," Yamani said. "The west can rely on the fact that it has a friend who can do a lot for it."

Yamani said the Saudis were "extremely uneasy about the economic situation of the West, uneasy about the possibility of a new recession, uneasy about the situation in Great Britain, Italy and even France and several other nations."

"And we don't want another regime to come to power in France or Italy," he said. Asked if by another regime he meant the Communists, he said "yes."

"Even in Spain, the situation is not so very healthy, and the same is true of Portugal," Yamani said.

meeting at the Bismarck Hotel, Chicago.

"Because I believe that the principles of the party are more important than the wishes or ambitions of any individual, I am going to step aside in order to bring about unity in our party," Kelly told the committeemen.

Richard M., and John Daley

COMMITTEEMEN FIRST approved a resolution in memory of Daley and then State Sen. Richard M. Daley, D-Chicago, nominated Dunne as "one I know my dad would have been proud of." Kelly seconded the nomination.

After the meeting, Lynn Williams, Democratic committeeman from New Trier Township, said suburbanites should continue to push for a vice chairman.

But Williams said he was not ready to select a suburban chairman at Wednesday's caucus.

"Any idea that things in the party will ever be the way they were under Daley just isn't realistic. No one will ever be able to put together that combination of love and fear again," said Williams, who was often at odds with Daley over party matters.

DUNNE SAID HE PLANS to continue as county board president, a position he assumed in 1969. He first became involved in politics more than 30 years ago as an election worker in the Catholic Youth Organization.

He was elected to the Illinois legislature in 1955 and became House majority leader in 1961. Shortly after that he left state office at the urging of county Democratic leaders and won a seat on the county board.

Corrections unit inequality alleged

The Illinois Dept. of Corrections discriminates against black inmates and fails to provide adequate medical care and sanitation facilities for prisoners, the U.S. Justice Dept. charged Wednesday in a civil suit. The suit, filed in U.S. District Court was authorized by Atty. Gen. Edward Levi. Levi said it resulted from complaints he received from inmates and from an FBI investigation of those complaints. The state of Illinois, Gov. Daniel Walker and Corrections Director Charles J. Rowe were named as defendants. A separate suit filed in U.S. District Court in Chicago charged inadequate facilities and care are provided in the Cook County Jail. That suit, however, did not charge racial discrimination.

Job test policy changed

Gov. Daniel Walker said Wednesday he has changed his mind about forcing thousands of employes in the secretary of state's office to requalify for the jobs they already hold by taking new civil service examinations. Instead, the governor said in a written announcement, he has ordered Personnel Director Nolan Jones to devise a system that will allow employes to keep their jobs without tests if they "have demonstrated their qualifications through actual job performance."

Illinois briefs

'Not innocent' rule urged

A special commission has recommended a verdict of "not innocent" be adopted by Illinois criminal courts to allow the state to retain custody over defendants who have been declared unfit to stand trial. The recommendation was contained in a 216-page report issued this week by Gov. Daniel Walker's Commission to Revise the Mental Health Code. Addressing itself to the problem of mentally ill criminal suspects, the commission said a "not innocent" decision could allow the judge to determine the restrictions needed while a defendant is undergoing psychiatric treatment.

Insurance test planned

Illinois Insurance Director Michael Duncan said Wednesday a controversial testing program for insurance agents and brokers — suspended Aug. 28 — will be resumed Jan. 22 next year. The tests, conducted by Educational Testing Service of Princeton, N.J., have been challenged in Sangamon County circuit court by two insurance companies and four prospective agents who say the exams discriminate against the poorly educated because they are "complex and confusing in form and structure."

Gas purchase allowed

The Illinois Commerce Commission Wednesday allowed the emergency purchase of another 250 million cubic feet of synthetic natural gas by the Central Illinois Public Service Co. CIPS originally asked the ICC for permission to buy 500 million cubic feet of synthetic natural gas to serve some 106,000 customers but the ICC last week allowed the firm to buy only half that much unless conditions got worse.

Black mayoral candidate sought

A committee of prominent black citizens formed to screen and endorse a black candidate for election as mayor of Chicago has until Jan. 13 to make its recommendation, publisher Augustus Savage said Wednesday. The formation of the committee was announced Tuesday night at a public meeting of some 300 persons at a church on the city's South Side. It was held only seven hours after the Chicago City Council elected Ald. Michael Bilandic as the city's acting mayor. He will serve until an election can be held within six months.

Savage said about 40 black persons are on the seardh committee, including Rep. Ralph Metcalfe, D-Ill., the Rev. Jesse Jackson, Savage, state Senator-elect Harold Washington, D-Chicago, and Renault Robinson, executive director of the Afro-American Patrolmen's League.

Dept. of Children and Family Services Director Mary Lee Leahy said.

Thirty additional caseworkers will be hired, bringing the state total to 119, she said. In addition, a new telephone hot line (312-793-2100) will be staffed 24 hours a day so cases can be reported immediately.

PCB discharge to stop

The Outboarl Marine Corp.'s discharges of highly toxic PCBs into Waukegan's harbor will end by Oct. 1, 1977, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency said Wednesday. The consent order reached by Outboard Marine and the federal agency is the first of its kind in the history of the EPA's midwest regional office, said Dale S. Bryson, chief of enforcemtnt for the office.

High concentrations of PCBs are believed to be responsible for disorders of the central nervous system.

meeting at the Bismarck Hotel, Chicago.

"Because I believe that the principles of the party are more important than the wishes or ambitions of any individual, I am going to step aside in order to bring about unity in our party," Kelly told the committeemen.

Richard M., and John Daley

COMMITTEEMEN FIRST approved a resolution in memory of Daley and then State Sen. Richard M. Daley, D-Chicago, nominated Dunne as "one I know my dad would have been proud of." Kelly seconded the nomination.

After the meeting, Lynn Williams, Democratic committeeman from New Trier Township, said suburbanites should continue to push for a vice chairman.

But Williams said he was not ready to select a suburban chairman at Wednesday's caucus.

"Any idea that things in the party will ever be the way they were under Daley just isn't realistic. No one will ever be able to put together that combination of love and fear again," said Williams, who was often at odds with Daley over party matters.

DUNNE SAID HE PLANS to continue as county board president, a position he assumed in 1969. He first became involved in politics more than 30 years ago as an election worker in the Catholic Youth Organization.

He was elected to the Illinois legislature in 1955 and became House majority leader in 1961. Shortly after that he left state office at the urging of county Democratic leaders and won a seat on the county board.

Dunne and his wife live in an apartment building in the 42nd Ward on Chicago's Near North Side.

Corrections unit inequality alleged

The Illinois Dept. of Corrections discriminates against black inmates and fails to provide adequate medical care and sanitation facilities for prisoners, the U.S. Justice Dept. charged Wednesday in a civil suit. The suit, filed in U.S. District Court was authorized by Atty. Gen. Edward Levi. Levi said it resulted from complaints he received from inmates and from an FBI investigation of those complaints. The state of Illinois, Gov. Daniel Walker and Corrections Director Charles J. Rowe were named as defendants. A separate suit filed in U.S. District Court in Chicago charged inadequate facilities and care are provided in the Cook County Jail. That suit, however, did not charge racial discrimination.

Job test policy changed

Gov. Daniel Walker said Wednesday he has changed his mind about forcing thousands of employes in the secretary of state's office to requalify for the jobs they already hold by taking new civil service examinations. Instead, the governor said in a written announcement, he has ordered Personnel Director Nolan Jones to devise a system that will allow employes to keep their jobs without tests if they "have demonstrated their qualifications through actual job performance."

'Not innocent' rule urged

A special commission has recommended a verdict of "not innocent" be adopted by Illinois criminal courts to allow the state to retain custody over defendants who have been declared unfit to stand trial. The recommendation was contained in a 216-page report issued this week by Gov. Daniel Walker's Commission to Revise the Mental Health Code. Addressing itself to the problem of mentally ill criminal suspects, the commission said a "not innocent" decision could allow the judge to determine the restrictions needed while a defendant is undergoing psychiatric treatment.

Insurance test planned

Illinois Insurance Director Michael Duncan said Wednesday a controversial testing program for insurance agents and brokers — suspended Aug. 28 — will be resumed Jan. 22 next year. The tests, conducted by Educational Testing Service of Princeton, N.J., have been challenged in Sangamon County circuit court by two insurance companies and four prospective agents who say the exams discriminate against the poorly educated because they are "complex and confusing in form and structure."

Gas purchase allowed

The Illinois Commerce Commission Wednesday allowed the emergency purchase of another 250 million cubic feet of synthetic natural gas by the Central Illinois Public Service Co. CIPS originally asked the ICC for permission to buy 500 million cubic feet of synthetic natural gas to serve some 106,000 customers but the ICC last week allowed the firm to buy only half that much unless conditions got worse.

Black mayoral candidate sought

A committee of prominent black citizens formed to screen and endorse a black candidate for election as mayor of Chicago has until Jan. 13 to make its recommendation, publisher Augustus Savage said Wednesday. The formation of the committee was announced Tuesday night at a public meeting of some 300 persons at a church on the city's South Side. It was held only seven hours after the Chicago City Council elected Ald. Michael Bilandic as the city's acting mayor. He will serve until an election can be held within six months.

Savage said about 40 black persons are on the seardh committee, including Rep. Ralph Metcalfe, D-Ill., the Rev. Jesse Jackson, Savage, state Senator-elect Harold Washington, D-Chicago, and Renault Robinson, executive director of the Afro-American Patrolmen's League.

Dept. of Children and Family Services Director Mary Lee Leahy said.

Thirty additional caseworkers will be hired, bringing the state total to 119, she said. In addition, a new telephone hot line (312-793-2100) will be staffed 24 hours a day so cases can be reported immediately.

PCB discharge to stop

The Outboarl Marine Corp.'s discharges of highly toxic PCBs into Waukegan's harbor will end by Oct. 1, 1977, the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency said Wednesday. The consent order reached by Outboard Marine and the federal agency is the first of its kind in the history of the EPA's midwest regional office, said Dale S. Bryson, chief of enforcemtnt for the office.

High concentrations of PCBs are believed to be responsible for disorders of the central nervous system.

Uncle Sam plays Santa with big cash giveaway

by PAT GERLACH

When Schaumburg Township officials received a $12,000 check from the federal government, their first impulse was to send it back.

"But then we decided maybe the government wouldn't know what to do with it either," Township Supervisor Vernon Laubenstein said.

Officials of most Northwest suburbs were similarly surprised by the unexpected income. Elk Grove Village, for example, formed a special committee to study ways to spend its $15,000 windfall.

The money is from a $1.25 billion fund established by Congress in July to "help state and local government stimulate economic recovery," an official in the Washington, D.C., office of revenue sharing said Wednesday.

Payments were made to several Northwest suburbs including Arlington Heights, Des Plaines, Mount Prospect, Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Elk Grove Village, Schaumburg and Wheeling. Checks also went to Elk Grove, Maine, Wheeling and Schaumburg townships.

AGENCY	PAYMENT
Chicago	$9.4 million
Cook County	$1.7 million
Arlington Heights	$ 2,596
Des Plaines	$11,980
Elk Grove Village	$15,311
Mount Prospect	$11,073
Palatine	$ 6,412
Rolling Meadows	$ 8,714
Schaumburg	$11,838
Wheeling	$ 7,002
Elk Grove Township	$ 8,044
Maine Township	$ 8,096
Schaumburg Township	$12,034
Wheeling Township	$ 9,232

Chicago received $9.4 million and Cook County got $1.7 million of the special "antirecessional fiscal assistance" money.

Municipalitiees qualify for the program if they had an unemployment rate of 4.5 per cent or more for the first six months of 1976, the official said.

Specific unemployment figures for the Northwest suburban area will be released Jan. 4 by the government.

The official estimated about $875 million of the special funding has been distributed nationwide, saying payments for the third quarter of 1976 are being mailed this week to many communities.

The money must be earmarked for existing services or programs.

Individual payments, the official said, were calculated using a formula that includes federal revenue sharing allocations in addition to unemployment rates.

Local payments ranged from the low of $2,596 to Arlington Heights to the $15,311 received by Elk Grove Village.

Arlington Htights Village Mgr. L. A. Hanson said he was "a little surprised" when the village's check arrived. Hanson said there are no specific plans for using the money, which has been placed in the village's general fund.

Elk Grove Village Mgr. Charles Willis said he was "amazed" that Elk Grove Village qualified for the special funding. "I didn't think our unemployment rate was that high," he said.

Better service cab company's goal

icab waits.

Prompted by the same article, Village Pres. James T. Ryan last week set a 30-day deadline during which Birks must improve service. As part of the program, the village will use questionnaires to survey customers.

Birks blamed the company's problems on growing pains.

"A YEAR AGO WHEN I bought the company," he said, "I had eight cabs. Now I've got 26 and plan to buy more. We just got caught up in too fast growth and found we didn't have the money to put enough cars on the street to answer all the calls we were getting."

Arlington City Cab Co. has more taxicabs on the streets than any other transportation firm in the area.

Honesty from dispatchers about estimated waits is another problem Birks has promised to solve.

"Someone usually doesn't mind waiting 30 or 35 minutes for a cab if they know it's going to take that long," he said. "It's when they're told it'll be 10 minutes and it's 30 minutes that they get mad. I've told the dispatchers to be more honest about their estimates."

OTHER INNOVATIONS, such as piped-in music for customers waiting on the telephone, are part of Birks' stress on public relations.

"These are things I'm trying to do to make customers — even when they're on the phone — comfortable," he said.

He plans to personally call customers complaining about service to the village or taxicab company.

"Without service we're out of business," Birks said, "so we're trying to provide the best service we can. I feel we're doing a good job but we'll try to do better."

Probe letter in Glueckert mystery

tight security prevented the release of any information on the progress of the case.

Wednesday morning, Urlacher was identified from a lineup by a friend of Miss Glueckert as the man who gave Miss Glueckert and her a ride to a rock concert in Huntley, Ill., the last place Miss Glueckert was seen.

Miss Glueckert, whose 15th birthday was Sept. 7, would have entered Prospect High School in Mount Prospect as a freshman this year.

Several persons were brought into the police station to speak with Urlacher, including his mother and sister and a priest.

Urlacher, who spent the day being hustled in and out of offices on the second floor of the police and fire headquarters, 112 E. Northwest Hwy., was described by some witnesses as highly emotional at times.

SULLIVAN SAID he had "no comment" to whether Miss Glueckert is alive or dead and would not reveal what happened behind the closed doors in the police department.

Urlacher was taken to Kane County Jail late Wednesday as "a mutual agreement between our office (Cook County) and the Kane County Assistant State's Atty. Donald Hudson," Sullivan said.

Mount Prospect's warrant of contributing to the delinquency of a minor will serve as a "retainer" so that Kane County authorities can detain Urlacher until further charges can be filed against him, Sullivan said.

Sullivan said he does not know what extra charges Kane County authorities are planning to file because "that's up to them."

Jurco reelected to chair Y's board of directors

Stephen Jurco, chairman of the YMCA Board of Directors since 1972, was reelected for a one-year term at the 23rd annual meeting of the Northwest Suburban YMCA, 300 E. Northwest Hwy., Des Plaines.

Under Jurco's leadership the YMCA has expanded its facilities with a new $1,111,855 fieldhouse.

Also elected at the meeting as vice chairmen were Jack D. Hughes, president of Littelfuse Inc.; Ralph H. Martin, president of Wm. L. Kunkel and Co.; Joseph E. Lesniak, president of Colonial Chevrolet Co.; and Thomas J. Crouch of Marland Oil Co.

Two new members were added to the board, Mrs. Ruth E. Maybee and John F. Mufich.

The annual report indicated that the Northwest Suburban YMCA has the largest membership in the country, 23,000 members, and has an annual budget in excess of $1,237,473.

MEMBERS OF the board recognized for service include: Donald M. Hallberg, Thomas A. Higgins, Bernard F. Lee, R. B. Pastryk, Merl B. Peek, Joseph F. Szabo, G. Rex Wilson, Claude J. Pynakker and Ron F. Wittmeyer. They received five-year plaques.

Those receiving 10 year plaques were George R. Busse and Jack D. Hughes. Fifteen-year service awards went to Carl H. Bowen, Edwin C. Bruning, Thomas J. Crouch, Stephen Jurco and John G. Woods.

Special plaques were presented to retiring board member Gilbert I. Liebenow for 20 years of service and to Helen Coryell for 25 years of service on the YMCA staff.

icab waits.

Prompted by the same article, Village Pres. James T. Ryan last week set a 30-day deadline during which Birks must improve service. As part of the program, the village will use questionnaires to survey customers.

Birks blamed the company's problems on growing pains.

"A YEAR AGO WHEN I bought the company," he said, "I had eight cabs. Now I've got 26 and plan to buy more. We just got caught up in too fast growth and found we didn't have the money to put enough cars on the street to answer all the calls we were getting."

Arlington City Cab Co. has more taxicabs on the streets than any other transportation firm in the area.

Honesty from dispatchers about estimated waits is another problem Birks has promised to solve.

"Someone usually doesn't mind waiting 30 or 35 minutes for a cab if they know it's going to take that long," he said. "It's when they're told it'll be 10 minutes and it's 30 minutes that they get mad. I've told the dispatchers to be more honest about their estimates."

OTHER INNOVATIONS, such as piped-in music for customers waiting on the telephone, are part of Birks' stress on public relations.

"These are things I'm trying to do to make customers — even when they're on the phone — comfortable," he said.

He plans to personally call customers complaining about service to the village or taxicab company.

"Without service we're out of business," Birks said, "so we're trying to provide the best service we can. I feel we're doing a good job but we'll try to do better."

tight security prevented the release of any information on the progress of the case.

Wednesday morning, Urlacher was identified from a lineup by a friend of Miss Glueckert as the man who gave Miss Glueckert and her a ride to a rock concert in Huntley, Ill., the last place Miss Glueckert was seen.

Miss Glueckert, whose 15th birthday was Sept. 7, would have entered Prospect High School in Mount Prospect as a freshman this year.

Several persons were brought into the police station to speak with Urlacher, including his mother and sister and a priest.

Urlacher, who spent the day being hustled in and out of offices on the second floor of the police and fire headquarters, 112 E. Northwest Hwy., was described by some witnesses as highly emotional at times.

SULLIVAN SAID he had "no comment" to whether Miss Glueckert is alive or dead and would not reveal what happened behind the closed doors in the police department.

Urlacher was taken to Kane County Jail late Wednesday as "a mutual agreement between our office (Cook County) and the Kane County Assistant State's Atty. Donald Hudson," Sullivan said.

Mount Prospect's warrant of contributing to the delinquency of a minor will serve as a "retainer" so that Kane County authorities can detain Urlacher until further charges can be filed against him, Sullivan said.

Sullivan said he does not know what extra charges Kane County authorities are planning to file because "that's up to them."

Demovsky in library post

Barry Demovsky of Arlington Heights has been elected president of the Friends of the Library.

Others elected are Carol Garman, vice president; Sharon Paskerucz, treasurer; Jeanette Howard, recording secretary; Ruth Nielander, corresponding secretary; and Mary Samuels and Lainia Salcius, members at large.

The group meets at 8 p.m. the first Tuesday of each month at the Arlington Heights Memorial Library, 500 N. Dunton Ave.

Volleyall starts Feb. 9

The Arlington Heights Park District is starting a Saturday volleyball program for boys in grades six through eight beginning Feb. 9.

Children may be registered at Olympic Park, 660 N. Ridge Ave., 253-0621, for $7 each. Enrollment is limited to 60.

Eckhardt secretary

Sandra Eckhardt of Arlington Heights has been appointed executive secretary of the Illinois College Republican Federation, Inc.

Miss Eckhardt, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jack Eckhardt, is a freshman at Eastern Illinois University in Charleston.

Jewish center nomination

Richard Romer, 3010 N. Dryden Pl., Arlington Heights, has been nominated for a three-year term on the board of the Jewish Community Centers of Chicago.

Jurco reelected to chair Y's board of directors

Stephen Jurco, chairman of the YMCA Board of Directors since 1972, was reelected for a one-year term at the 23rd annual meeting of the Northwest Suburban YMCA, 300 E. Northwest Hwy., Des Plaines.

Under Jurco's leadership the YMCA has expanded its facilities with a new $1,111,855 fieldhouse.

Also elected at the meeting as vice chairmen were Jack D. Hughes, president of Littelfuse Inc.; Ralph H. Martin, president of Wm. L. Kunkel and Co.; Joseph E. Lesniak, president of Colonial Chevrolet Co.; and Thomas J. Crouch of Marland Oil Co.

Two new members were added to the board, Mrs. Ruth E. Maybee and John F. Mufich.

The annual report indicated that the Northwest Suburban YMCA has the largest membership in the country, 23,000 members, and has an annual budget in excess of $1,237,473.

MEMBERS OF the board recognized for service include: Donald M. Hallberg, Thomas A. Higgins, Bernard F. Lee, R. B. Pastryk, Merl B. Peek, Joseph F. Szabo, G. Rex Wilson, Claude J. Pynakker and Ron F. Wittmeyer. They received five-year plaques.

Those receiving 10 year plaques were George R. Busse and Jack D. Hughes. Fifteen-year service awards went to Carl H. Bowen, Edwin C. Bruning, Thomas J. Crouch, Stephen Jurco and John G. Woods.

Special plaques were presented to retiring board member Gilbert I. Liebenow for 20 years of service and to Helen Coryell for 25 years of service on the YMCA staff.

Eighteen volunteers also were honored for service. Plaques were presented to: Virginia Biela, Tony Baumstarck, Bill Knopf, James Rabishaw, Caryl Crouch, Jacqueline Duenser, Betty Gaitsch, Ruth Maybee, Delores Nielsen, Rena Metz, Jim Hinde, Elmer Snyder, Joe Lesniak, Helen Wilcox, William Schvetz, Bob Ramcke and Richard Musielewicz.

'Slasher' found guilty

A Los Angeles jury Wednesday found Vaughn Orrin Greenwood guilty of nine counts of first-degree murder in the 1974-1975 slayings of derelicts which terrorized Los Angeles and brought the killer the sobriquet of the "skid row slasher." Greenwood, 33, was convicted by a seven-man, five-woman jury after six days of deliberation following a six-week trial. The jurors said they could not reach a verdict on two other murder charges.

The prosecution produced evidence that 11 men in parks, transient hotels and sleazy apartments had their throats cut through to the spine by an assailant who then went through such rituals as taking off their shoes and aligning them with the bodies. There were no witnesses to any of the killings.

Hostage-holder killed

A police marksman Wednesday shot and killed a heavily armed former mental patient who had held a half-dozen persons hostage in a Haysville, Kan. home for almost nine hours. The dead man was identified as Larry Lear, who police said had "a case history of this type of thing. None of the hostages, including Lear's girlfriend, was harmed. The marksman fired through a window, striking Lear in the heart. Police said Lear had rounded up five children and a woman shortly after noon Wednesday and threatened to kill them if anyone attempted a rescue.

Airline illegality told

Flying Tiger airline provided $28,604.86 in cash, gifts and services to U. S. politicians and foreign dignitaries from 1969 through early 1976, illegally recording its largess as operating expenses, federal investigators charged Wednesday. The charges said the Los Angeles cargo airline also illegally listed $16,500 in payments to employes as operating expenses and failed to file required federal reports on a total $46,092.72 during the seven year period.

Filed by the Civil Aeronautics Board's Bureau of Enforcement, the 13-page complaint asked the full board to hold a public hearing and order Flying Tiger to halt the alleged practices and correct its books.

Gilmore quotes the Bible

Condemned killer Gary Gilmore in an open letter Wednesday admitted he killed two men and quoted the Bible to support his demand that he be allowed to atone with his own life. The letter, addressed to "All and any who still seek to oppose by whatever means my death by legal execution," was released through the killer's attorney, Ron Stanger. The 36-year-old killer said he believed in the fairness and logic of "An eye for an eye — a life for a life. Maybe I better say what I feel about atonement: I'm willing.

"I know what I did. I know how unreasonable, how wrong it was. How evil. I know the awful effect it had on the lives of two families. I'm willing to pay ultimately. Let me."

A MID-MORNING gas explosion on a suburban London street Wednesday injured 38 year-end sales shoppers. Six persons were hospitalized. An earlier blast in Bristol, England ripped through a discotheque and restaurant, destroying several buildings. There were no injuries in that blast.

137 dead in S. Africa

Johannesburg South African police said Wednesday that at least 137 blacks died over the Christmas holidays in clashes and tribal battles in several parts of the country. A police spokesman also said eight black women farmworkers and a child were wounded on Christmas Day when a policeman opened fire on a truck that failed to stop on his orders near Bronkhorstspruit 40 miles northeast of Johannesburg.

He said the policeman hailed the truck to investigate a report that its occupants had attacked a nearby farm. When it failed to stop, he opened fire with an automatic rifle, wounding the women inside in the legs, the spokesman said.

Brezhnev favors summit

Soviet leader Leonid Brezhnev said Wednesday he favored holding a summit meeting with President-elect Jimmy Carter but indicated this would hinge on a new Strategic Arms Limitation agreement. Brezhnev made the statement in an interview with J. Kingsbury Smith, national editor of Hearst Special News Service.

The Soviet leader said the successful conclusion of the second round of Strategic Arms Limitation Talks, or SALT, was the single most important step toward improved Soviet-American relations in 1977.

Doctor tests attorneys in the system and wins began ordinarily.

Harriet Nathan, a Wilmette woman and Berlin's neighbor, sued Berlin, another Skokie Valley doctor and the hospital for $250,000 for failing to diagnose a tip fracture in her finger.

THE TINY FRACTURE did not appear on the hospital's first X-rays, which showed only a joint dislocation, and was not discovered until a second X-ray was taken two weeks later.

"This is not unusual," Berlin says. "We know that fractures sometimes show up on later films that do not show up on an original Xray. The incident really didn't make too much of an impression on my mind."

In fact, a letter to Mrs. Nathan from Dr. William Stromberg, a hand surgeon at Northwestern University medical school, confirmed that the fracture did not appear on the first Xray and that the treatment she received at Skokie Valley was proper, Berlin says.

"So you see, I knew there was no basis for the suit. And I also knew that they knew there was no basis for it and that the facts (in the suit) were wrong," he says. "If ever there was a time to do something, this was it."

The reaction to Berlin's case was instantaneous. "You can't believe the reaction I've had. With all the publicity this has attracted nationwide, I've not received anything but compliments. There's been a tremendous response from doctors, of course; I mean letters, telephone calls and telegrams.

"BUT THERE'S also been an amazing response from lawyers," he says.

The malpractice dragon has many heads, and Berlin does not deny the existence of legitimate malpractice suits.

"If God told me to take one week and solve the malpractice problem in a way that would be fair to everyone, I don't think I could do it," he says.

"There are many legitimate malpractice suits. And even if you can get rid of the frivolous suits, there are still problems. Patients expect that when they go to the doctor they're going to get a good result. The problem is that no one can guarantee that good result. There will be some situations where a person is harmed even though there is no negligence of any kind.

"Under the present system, if a patient gets a catastrophic result, the only solution is to sue the doctor. Maybe we need some kind of no-fault insurance a patient can buy that would compensate him if something catastrophic happens."

ABOUT 300,000 doctors in the country are paying 100 per cent of the cost of malpractice insurance. If there were catastrophic results insurance, parat of the cost could be spread among everyone who visits the doctor, Berlin says.

"Ultimately, I think these cases belong out of the courts. There should be some form of arbitration board with legal and medical representatives. The board would determine if there was negligence, what damage was done and what the compensation should be," he says.

The cost of defending a malpractice suit in court runs from $2,000 to $5,000 at a minimum, and that is a tremendous incentive to settle a nuisance case for a comparatively nominal amount, he says.

"We lose to the system, not always on the merits," Berlin says, which may seem unimportant except that every malpractice suit affects a doctor's reputation in some way.

"There are admittedly some doctors around who should not be practicing. But what happens? All the suits get settled. The doctors do not get disciplined and none of this has really done any good," he says.

In addition to the cost, malpractice has changed health care in another way, Berlin says. The need to practice defensively, to perform additional tests when before a doctor might have relied on his judgment, has not been good for medicine or the public, he says.

"In defensive medicine, only a small part of the doctor is being more careful," he says.

For example, a patient may go to his doctor complaining of a headache and wind up being tested for brain tumors because in one out of every 2,000 cases headache is symptomatic of a brain tumor, he says.

"Too many doctors look at their patients as adversaries. They view the situation not for what's good for the patient, but for what will look good in court," he says.

Carter promises to cut $7 billion in defense waste

PLAINS, Ga. (UPI) — President-elect Jimmy Carter Wednesday said he will eliminate up to $7 billion in defense waste. He said this move would make it easier to carry out social programs and possible tax reductions.

Carter also said although he will provide a complete plan for the country's welfare programs, it may take years to actually implement it.

"I can't and never have promised" to make a substantial reduction in defense expenditures, Carter said as he completed three days of meetings with his cabinet choices on St. Simons Island off the Georgia coast.

"WHAT I HAVE promised is to manage the Defense Dept. in such a way that economies and efficiencies will amount to $5 billion to $7 billion," Carter said.

"Those savings would be available in the general fund for tax reduction, social programs and other kinds of expenditures."

Carter said Defense Sec.-designate Harold Brown agreed with him. Brown had left earlier to meet with Sen. John Stennis, D-Miss., chairman of the Senate Armed Forces Committee.

CARTER ALSO said:

• The cabinet's economic group, consisting of the secretaries of labor and commerce, the chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, the director of the budget, representatives of the state and treasury departments, and vice President-elect Walter Mondale will meet in Plains next Thursday; and congressional leaders will join them on Friday.

Carter is expected to announce then an economic recovery program, including a tax cut and a jobs proposal. Carter aides say the mix of the program is still to be determined.

• He is requiring all of his top appointments to make "complete divestiture of any financial relationships that might be creating a conflict of interest and a complete revelation of any other economic holdings, including net worth statements." Carter said he himself will comply with the same restrictions which will be released Friday.

"WE WILL complete our proposals for complete welfare reform this year and present it to Congress," Carter said. "It may be necessary to phase-in implementation of the welfare package in its entirety over a period of time, maybe an additional year or two years."

Carter said he did not know if welfare reform, including such things as shifting the burden from local governments to the federal government, would result in increased spending.

"So until we finish the complete analysis, which will be done this year, there is no way to anticipate how rapidly it can be phased-in."

Joseph Califano, secretary designate of Health, Education and Welfare, has said "substantial welfare reform" — another Carter campaign pledge — would have to await economic growth.

BERT LANCE, the budget director-designate, and Charles Schultze, who will be chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, agreed that a tax cut will probably be part of the economic recovery program of the president-elect.

Carter said he will summon his economic advisers to Plains a week from Thursday (Jan. 6) to discuss the economic package he will submit to Congress. He also said leaders of both Houses will arrive the next day to review the package.

New Year to get spirited welcome

by United Press International

In Portland, Ore., Basil Miaulliis, general manager of the Benson Hotel, says "There's a good spirit in the air," and coast to coast, party greetings to the 1977 New Year seem the "in" thing this year. At a price, naturally.

Across the continent, Viki Sommers at the Four Ambassadors Hotel in Maimi said she was expecting "a much larger crowd than last year. For some reason, it seems people really want to celebrate this year."

A UPI survey Welnesday showed a broad range of prices for the celebrant away from home, aimed at any size pocketbook, including the empty.

New York City, broke, came up with enough scratch to set up a parade from the mall in front of the storied Plaza Hotel, across the road into Central Park for music, dance, and mingling, all under the sponsorship of the Dept. of Cultural Affairs. The big bash is a fireworks show at midnight.

FURTHER SOUTH IN Manhattan, a giant lighted ball spelling 1977 drops to the roof of 1 Times Square at midnight. For decades, New Yorkers have watched in Times Square for the big ball to drop, free for the watching.

To the east of that, other traditionalists may pay up to $125 a seat to hear Guy Lombardo and the Royal Canadians at the Waldorf Astoria; or they may drop in with the jet-setters at silvery-walled Regine's, Park Avenue discotheque with its $150 a head minimum.

The Diplomat Hotel in Hollywood, Fla., features Sammy Davis Jr. and Liza Minelli in what is billed as "the most expensive nightclub show in history," and started proclaiming it at $250 a head. They weren't swamped, and prices later were advertised "from $100 per person," depending on the location.

One woman, told the price for a party of five was "twelve-fifty," sent a check for $12.50. It was returned.

THE FONTAINEBLEAU IN Miami Beach, where union service employes were on strike, advertised Sergio Mendez and Neil Sedaka in its grand ballroom from $75 to $125 a person.

Victor's, perched in the Hotel St. Francis tower in downtown San Francisco, offered a gourmet dinner for $140 a couple, with a 70-couple limit and the final course a chilled bottle of Dom Perignon, brut, 1969. Not far away, Earthquake McGoon's charges $15 to get into the club, run by veteran jazz trombonist Tur Murphy, and from then on you pay for what you eat or drink.

George Gilbert, food and beverage director at the Springfield, Mass., Holiday Inn, said reservations Wednesday numbered more than twice those at this time last year for dinner, entertainment, champagne for $35.95 a couple plus $9 a guest for a room if they stay overnight.

The stay-on idea seems to have established itself, Gilbert said. "People feel they can really have a good time with their friends, they can imbibe a little more and not be concerned about getting in an accident on the way home."

CHERYL CHESSON OF the Fairmont-Roosevelt Hotel in New Orleans said its package is $45 a person for a gourmet dinner, special performances by a music group, and "it's pretty close to a sell-out now."

New Orleans police were keeping their eye on preparations: they have been running television ads depicting officers handcuffing and jailing respectable looking men and women for drunken driving.

Maybe manager Margie Price at the St. Louis Playboy Club had the best idea for attracting a party, at least for the male chauvinist types.

"We'll be sold out," she said. "We always have repeat business on New Year's Eve because the bunnies get very much involved . . . it's a fun time."

Richards shows mat class, leads Palatine tourney

by KEITH REINHARD
Wrestling Editor

Seeking a third straight title, Richards High School elevated eight of 12 entries into the semifinals Wednesday while rolling up a commanding midway lead in the 22nd Annual Palatine Holiday Wrestling Tournament.

The Oak Lawn wrestlers piled up 70½ points to put plenty of breathing room between themselves and half a dozen other strong entries, including Conant with two sessions to go. Only a complete collapse would allow either Addison Trail, Downers Grove North, Naperville, Quincy, Stagg or the Cougars to take over the lead.

In terms of individual performers, the Blazers, with six semifinalists, and Conant and Stagg, with five each, are running the strongest behind the Bulldogs.

THE COUGARS were headed up by returning 98-pound champ Jon Gluck, who advanced to the semis in a rugged 112-pound class. Other contenders still alive at that weight include Jerry Kelly of Richards and Ken Elmore of Quincy, the 1-2 finishers at 105 in last year's tourney.

Gluck will pair off against Elmore shortly after noon today, aiming for a berth in the championship round in the evening at approximately 7:30.

Other Conant double winners Wednesday included Jim Nakashian at 98, Mike Weston at 167, Jack Kerr at 185 and Matt Bello at heavyweight.

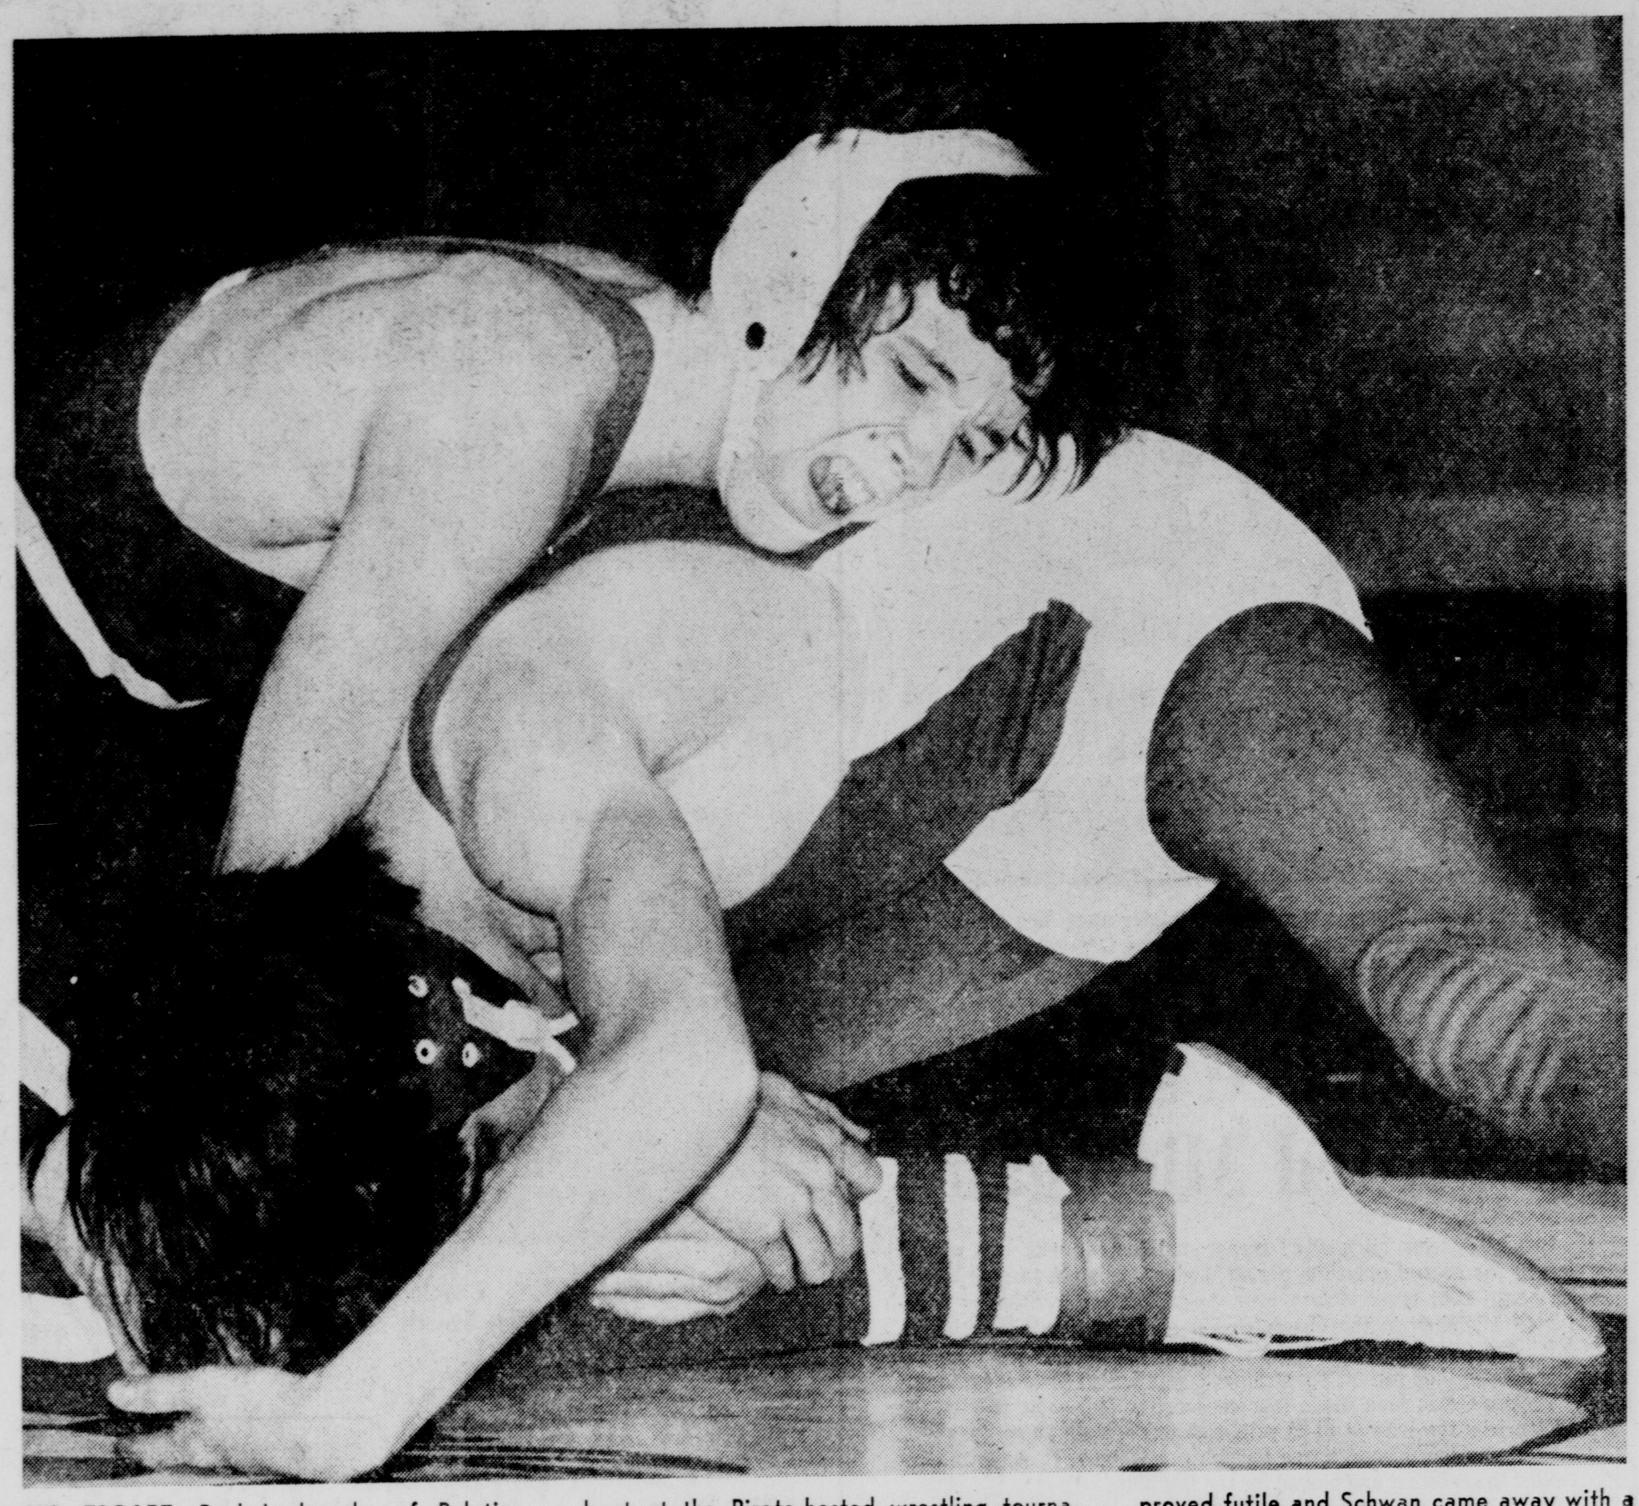
Fremd had a pair of quarterfinal winners. Bob Milligan advanced at 138 and Chris Scarton forged a third round pin Wednesday night at 167 to gain a crack at Weston in the semifinals.

THE HOSTING Pirates failed to promote anyone beyond the quarterfinals. Len Gackowski of Palatine opened with an impressive 9-1 win in the tough 145-pound bracket but was then stuck by Steve Chirico of Naperville.

Chirico won the Palatine tourney at 132 last year and later advanced to the state meet. His foe Thursday afternoon will be another returning state qualifier, Tony Scott of Rock Island.

Other notable semifinal qualifiers are Len Gasca of Quincy at 119, last year's 112-pound champ; Jeff Cocco of Richards back at the 167-pound class he ruled in 1975; Mike Bardel of Richards, also a tourney title defender at 185; Ken Traylor of the Bulldogs at 119 after finishing runnerup at that weight last sesson and Marshall Batton of the Bulldogs at 138, also trying to improve on last year's runnerup performance.

Scoring after the first day of combat shows Downers Grove North in second place with 48½ points, Addision Trail third at 48, Conant fourth at 44 and Naperville fifth at 41 followed by Stagg (39½), Quincy (38½), St. Charles (30), Iowa Grant (27), Fremd (26), Oak Forest (24), Rock Island (19½), Peoria Richwoods (18½), Gordon Tech (18,) Palatine (10½) and Maine East (10).



NO ESCAPE. Paul Laskowske of Palatine struggles to get loose from Bill Schwan of Quincy in their 98-pound white consolation bout at the Pirate-hosted wrestling tournament Wednesday. Laskowske's efforts proved futile and Schwan came away with a narrow 1-0 triumph.

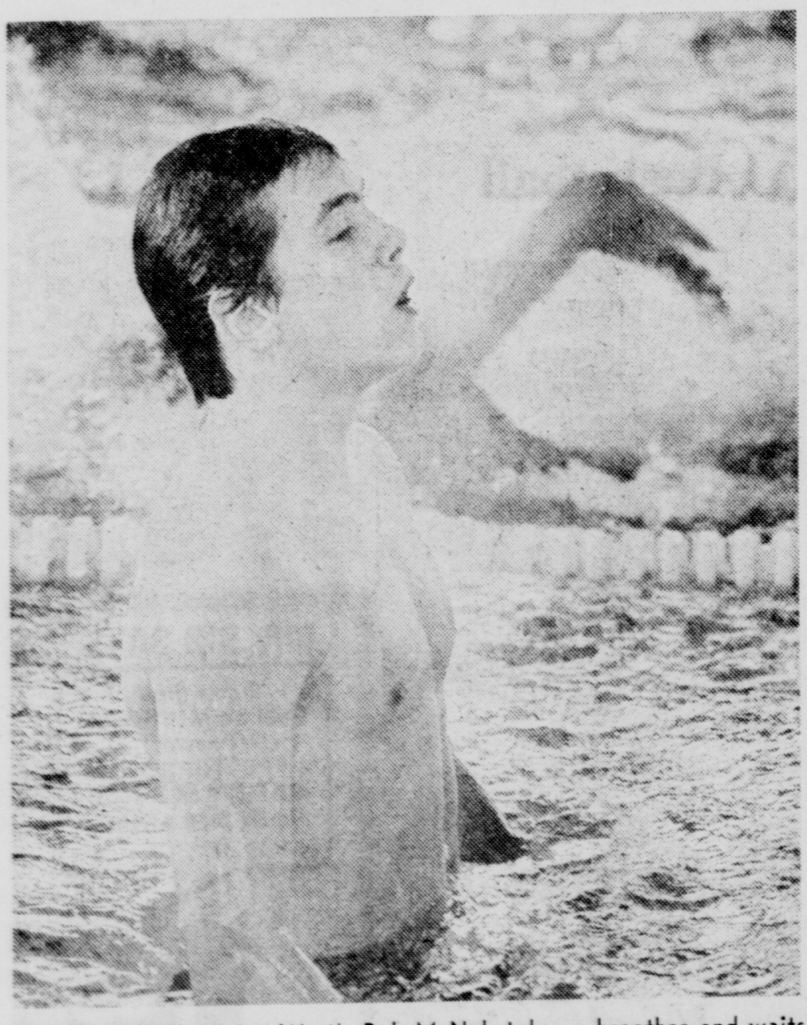
Arlington tumbles in Centralia title game

A Herald Staff Report

The big one eluded Arlington High School, but Buffalo Grove and Prospect still have title hopes today after the latest round of tournament basketball activity.

Red - hot Homewood - Flossmoor, ranked the team to beat in the Centralia Holiday Tournament, showed why Wednesday night with a convincing 64-45 victory over Arlington.

The classy Vikings dominated the rebounding department, shot close to 50 per cent and outscored Arlington in every period en route to the Centralia tourney championship.



WATER BREAK. Maine West's Rob McNab takes a breather and waits for the other swimmers to reach the finish line in dual meet with Hersey. McNab, relaxing after the 200 individual medley triumph, also won the 100 butterfly. Maine West won the duel 116-51.

BUFFALO GROVE pulled out a tense two-point decision at Rockford Boyland and Prospect was a one-point winner at Pontiac, both decisions coming on last-second shots. The Bison and Knights return to action today and try to grab the title hardware.

At Centralia, Arlington, an impressive winner in three previous outings, just couldn't get untracked, hitting 42 per cent from the floor but losing the vital board battle, 35-20.

Homewood held a 28-21 lead at halftime and increased the advantage to 44-31 after three periods. Mike Clark of Flosmoor was the game's top scorer with 29 points.

Frank DeSimone and Greg Kloiber paced the second-seeded Cardinals with 10 each.

Paul Izban drilled home a 15-footer with three seconds showing on the clock to lift Prospect past hosting Pontiac 58-57 and into the semifinals of the holiday basketball tourney.

Paul Izban

Izban's timely shooting thwarted an Indian rally in the fourth quarter before a jammed-packed, highly partisan crowd. Pontiac had entered the final stanza trailing 45-39.

The triumph was the fourth in 11 outings for coach Bill Slayton's Knight outfit and moved them into a semifinal bout with Weber at 2:30 p.m. today.

Izban led both sides in scoring with 21 points. Sophomore Dave LaCosse chipped in with a dozen more points for the Prospect cause and paced his team in rebounds with eight. The Knights shot at a torrid 46 per cent from the field.

High scoreres for the hosts were Kevin Dix and Jack Timmerman with 16 apiece.

BISON WIN SQUEAKER

Mike Marshall swished a 20-foot jumper with one second remaining to pump Buffalo Grove past stubborn Dixon, 68-66 and into the semifinals of the Rockford Holiday Tournament today at 1.

Marshall, who finished with 15 points in the game, took an inbounds pass from Mike Ledna with three seconds left and launched the winner. The Bison had set up the dramatic conclusion by stalling the final minute of the contest away.

DIXON, APPARENTLY unimpressed with Buffalo Grove's lofty credentials and 11-1 record, was quick out of the gate in storming to an 18-10 first-quarter lead.

But All-Stater Brian Allsmiller rammed home 11 of his game-high 25 points in the second period as the Bison went on a 26-14 tear for a 36-32 lead at intermission. Scott Groot joined the double-figure group with 10.

HERSEY ADVANCES

Hersey used a strong defense to defeat Wheaton Central 59-48, and will play for the consolation championship in the York tournament against Glenbrook North at 1:45 p.m. today.

Fivd seconds into the second quarter, Bill Klein scored a field goal to give Wheaton Central a 17-11 lead, one that was soon to evaporate.

The Huskies out-scored the Tigers 22-5 in the rest of the quarter to take a 33-22 halftime lead.

WHEATON CENTRAL kept up with the Huskies in the second half, but did not score a field goal until 6:51 remained in the game. Hersey held the Hawks skate to impressive win

Dennis Hull fired in two goals, Stan Mikita had three assists and the Black Hawks turned in one of their most impressive victories in several weeks Wednesday evening, skating past the Detroit Red Wings 6-3 in the Chicago Stadium.

Flashing some of their early-season strength and capitalizing on the return of injured players, the Hawks ran off a string of five unanswered goals to put the decision out of reach.

It was Chicago's second straight win under interim Coach Bill White and the game was marked by the return from injuries by the Hawks' leading scorer Pit Martin and Jim Harrison, who had a goal and two assists.

Hull scorel his first goal on a power play rebound and broke a 2-2 deadlock in the second period. The Black Hawks never trailed after that.

HARRISON, who played one of his finest all-around games of the season, made a nice move on a power play to give Chicago a 4-2 advantage, and then Hull blasted one in off a sharp maneuver by Harrison.

Dick Redmond counted his 10th goal of the season at 4:16 of the final period to give the Hawks their final score.

White's fired-up entry, showing some of the experience needed on power play opportunities, cashed at 33 seconds of the opening period on a rebound shot by Phil Russell.

DETROIT TIED the count and went ahead 2-1 before Keith Magnuson scored his first goal of the season on a draw. Hull followed off a power play, and the Hawks were never headed.

IN OTHER National Hockey League action Wednesday night Ron Shock deflected the puck into the goal early in the third period to give the Pittsburgh Penguins a 3-3 tie with the Montreal Canadiens. Montreal protested that Shock kicked the puck in, but the referee Ron Hoggart disagreed.

Darryl Sittler's second goal of the game triggered a three-goal third period outburst and enabled the Toronto Maple Leafs to post a 6-2 rout of the Cleveland Barons.

Defenseman Jim Schoenfeld scored a goal and set up another to propel Buffalo to a 6-3 victory over the Atlanta Flames for the Sabres' ninth straight win.

Gym invite at Arlington; Hersey to defend crown

by CHARLIE DICKINSON
Gymnastics Editor

The Hersey Huskies will be wearing the crown of defending champion in the Arlington Invitational tonight at 7:00 in the first true test of state gymnastics strength.

With Addison Trail, Oak Park and Proviso West all on hand, and a format that accurately measures the depth of the various contenders, the Arlington Invite will provide a glimpse of who to watch in the state meet in March.

Joining the field at Arlington will be the host Cardinals, Lyons Township, Elk Grove, Thornwood and York.

Team scores will be determined, as in dual meets, by the top three scores in each event plus the all-around average.

Oak Park's Troy Chovan, Kelly Crumley and Ron Ortman of Addison Trail, Jim Huck of Hersey, Dan Smith and Mark Wanner of Proviso West and Tom Fanta of Lyons will be the featured all-arounders.

Arlington's Tom Staley, who has already hit 8.6 this year on the still rings, will be the most accomplished specialist in the meet.

Providence shocks top-rated Michigan

Bob Misevicius hit a short turnaround jumper with one second left in the second overtime period Wednesday night to give Providence an 82-81 upset victory over top-ranked and previously undefeated Michigan in the championship game of the Friar Classic. Michigan took a 77-74 lead at the start of the second overtime but Providence then ran off six straight points for an 80-77 advantage.

Rickey Green then made four consecutive foul shots to give the Wolverines the lead at 81-80 with 1:36 to go. With 20 seconds left, Joel Thompson missed a free throw for Michigan, Providence controlled the rebound and played for the last shot.

In other college games, Audie Matthews erupted for 14 of his 16 points in the second half Wednesday to lead Illinois past William & Mary 73-64 in the first consolation round game of the Rainbow Classic. Senior Steve Sheppard and freshman Bill Bryant teamed up for a total of 47 points Wednesday night to lead 16th-ranked Maryland to a 96-85 victory over 18th-ranked Syracuse and the championship of the Maryland Invitational Tournament.

Pardee named NFC Coach of Year

Jack Pardee figured the National Football League would be a little tougher to conquer than the World Football League. He underestimated himself. Pardee coached the Bears to a 7-7 finish despite one of the toughest schedules in the league. For his efforts, Pardee was named by United Press International Wednesday as the coach of the year in the National Football Conference.

Pardee was named on 16 of the ballots cast by UPI's 42-member voting board, three from each conference city. Monte Clark of San Francisco finished as the runner-up with eight votes. "It's a surprise and a great honor," Pardee said. "I'm proud for the team and what we accomplished this year. I just wish we'd have been able to go further. I think we did become respectable and anyone we played had to respect us."

Pardee's Bears posted upset victories over Minnesota, Washington and San Francisco and lost a pair of one-point decisions to Minnesota and Oakland en route to a second place finish in the NFC Central Division behind the Vikings.

Lanier's 40 spices NBA action

Bob Lanier scored 40 points and Howard Porter added a season-high 27 Wednesday to lead the Detroit Pistons to their ninth victory in 12 games, a 120-111 triumph over the Portland Trail Blazers.

Lanier contributed 13 rebounds, nine assists and four steals and held Portland center Bill Walton to 14 points.

Elsewhere in the NBA Wednesday night, Fred Brown, who scored a game-high 29 points, broke a 94-94 tie with 41 seconds left to play to give the Seattle SuperSonics a 102-96 victory over the New York Nets. Leonard "Truck" Robinson scored 19 points and pulled down 10 rebounds as the Washington Bullets handed the Atlanta Hawks their seventh straight NBA defeat, 96-92.

Kansas City guards Ron Boone, Brian Taylor and rookie Andre McCarter combined for 59 points and Jim Eakins and Ollie Johnson played key relief roles in the Kings' 113-103 National Basketball Association victory over the Buffalo Braves.

Calvin Murphy's 20-foot jump shot gave Houston a five-point lead and the Rockets outmuscled the Philadelphia 76ers in the final two minutes to preserve a 93-91 NBA victory Wednesday night before 16,012, the largest crowd in Houston history.

Paul Westphal scored 30 points to lead Phoenix to a 97-87 victory over the Boston Celtics, the Suns' second victory in as many meetings with the defending champions.

NFL instant replay still a rerun

NEW YORK — Art McNally, supervisor of National Football League officials, denied reports Wednesday that the league will implement the use of instant replays to settle disputed calls during the exhibition season next year.

"We've promised to look into the use of instant replays but I cannot say we will use them next year," McNally said. "The Competition Committee has been investigating the use of instant replays for years now. We look into it each year to see if there have been any technical advances.

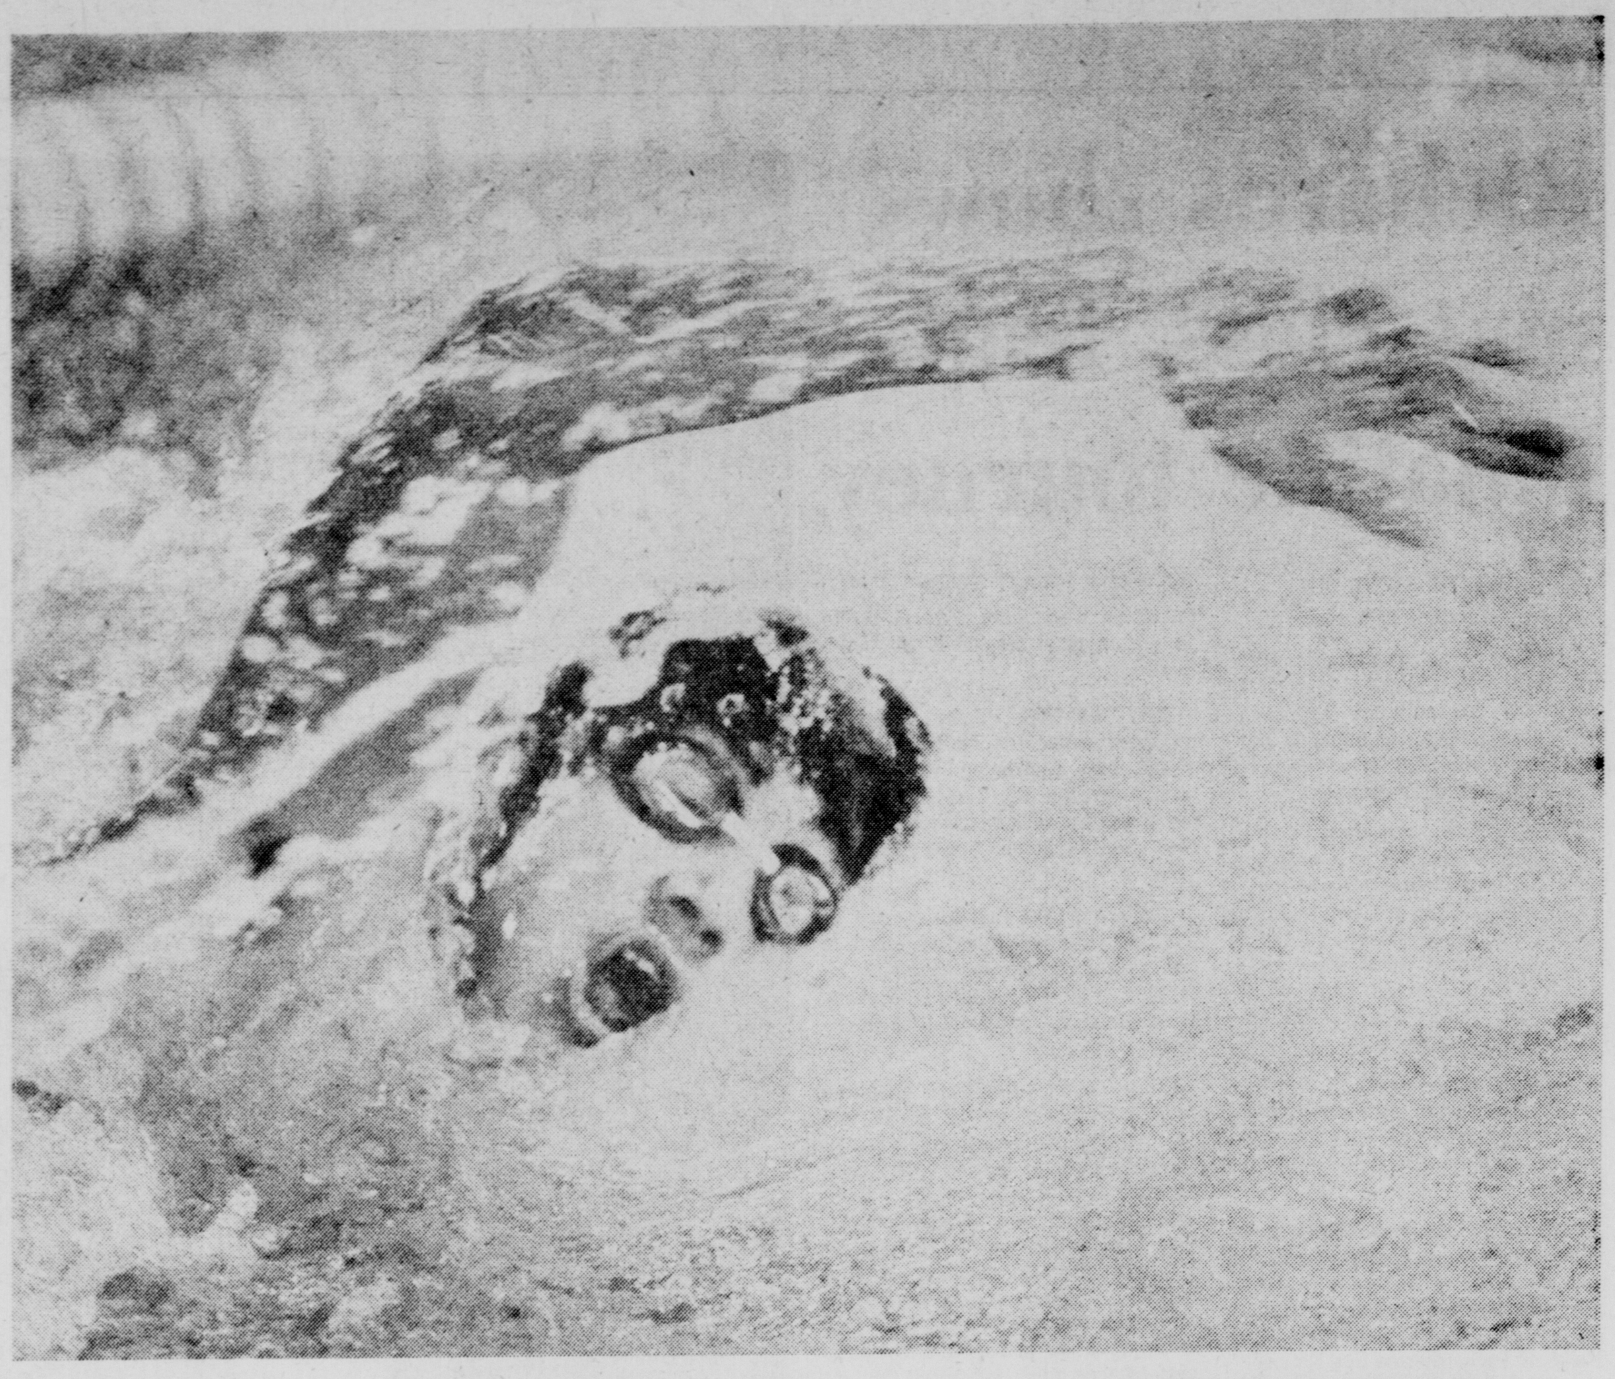
"But I also know we will also discuss any proposal that is to the benefit of the National Football League. Whenever we get ideas about rules changes, whether it comes from the fans or Competition Committee itself, we listen. As a liason between the Competition Committee and Rules Committees, I know how thorough and progressive they are."

Oakland Raider fans hurry to wait

OAKLAND — Thousands of Oakland Raiders fans, many of them cursing the National Football League for its ticket policies, snapped up the team's 15,000 allotment for the Super Bowl Wednesday in a matter of hours.

The NFL, following a formula first laid out for the initial Super Bowl game, allocated 15,000 tickets to the Raiders and 15,000 to the Minnesota Vikings, the participating teams in this season's game at Pasadena, Calif., Jan. 9. Raider fans think the policy is unfair since there are 51,000 of them who buy season tickets for Oakland games.

Under the NFL formula the nearest team to the site of the Super Bowl is given 30,000 tickets to sell while the remaining tickets go to the other league teams, officials, etc. The Rose Bowl, where this season's Super Bowl game will be played, has 103,000 seats.



SPLASHING HIS WAY to a victory in the 500 freestyle event is Maine West's Kirt Altergott, a double winner for the Warriors' 116-51 victory over Hersey. Altergott won the 500 in 5:27.3 and 200 in 1:59.9.

Zuccarini leads West to York win

A solid zone defense and four players in double figures advanced the Maine West Warriors in the consolation bracket of the York Holiday Tournament with a 62-51 win over West Leyden.

Bob Zuccarini, the Warriors' 6-3 forward, poured in 18 points and garnered nine rebounds to lead the West effort.

Forward Pete Karabas followed with 15 points and eight rebounds while Bob Anderson (10 points) and Mike Wright (13 points) hit in double figures.

Maine West (5-6) blew the game open in the first half, rushing to a 31-15 halftime lead as their 2-1-2 and 2-3 zone defenses limited West Leyden to six points in the second period and forced 11 turnovers in the first half.

The Warriors will play for fifth place in the tournament today at 3:15 p.m.

SUPER LINE. Thousands of eager Raider fans line up at the Oakland Coliseum waiting for an opportunity to purchase tickets to the Super Bowl, Jan. 9.

Providence shocks top-rated Michigan

Bob Misevicius hit a short turnaround jumper with one second left in the second overtime period Wednesday night to give Providence an 82-81 upset victory over top-ranked and previously undefeated Mjchigan in the championship game of the Friar Classic. Michigan took a 77-74 lead at the start of the second overtime but Providence then ran off six straight points for an 80-77 advantage.

Rickey Green then made four consecutive foul shots to give the Wolverines the lead at 81-80 with 1:36 to go. With 20 seconds left, Joel Thompson missed a free throw for Michigan, Providence controlled the rebound and played for the last shot.

In other college games, Audie Matthews erupted for 14 of his 16 points in the second half Wednesday to lead Illinois past William & Mary 73-64 in the first consolation round game of the Rainbow Classic. Senior Steve Sheppard and freshman Bill Bryant teamed up for a total of 47 points Wednesday night to lead 16th-ranked Maryland to a 96-85 victory over 18th-ranked Syracuse and the championship of the Maryland Invitational Tournament.

Pardee named NFC Coach of Year

Jack Pardee figured the National Football League would be a little tougher to conquer than the World Football League. He underestimated himself. Pardee coached the Bears to a 7-7 finish despite one of the toughest schedules in the league. For his efforts, Pardee was named by United Press International Wednesday as the coach of the year in the National Football Conference.

Pardee was named on 16 of the ballots cast by UPI's 42-member voting board, three from each conference city. Monte Clark of San Francisco finished as the runner-up with eight votes. "It's a surprise and a great honor," Pardee said. "I'm proud for the team and what we accomplished this year. I just wish we'd have been able to go further. I think we did become respectable and anyone we played had to respect us."

Pardee's Bears posted upset victories over Minnesota, Washington and San Francisco and lost a pair of one-point decisions to Minnesota and Oakland en route to a second place finish in the NFC Central Division behind the Vikings.

Lanier's 40 spices NBA action

Bob Lanier scored 40 points and Howard Porter added a season-high 27 Wednesday to lead the Detroit Pistons to their ninth victory in 12 games, a 120-111 triumph over the Portland Trail Blazers.

Lanier contributed 13 rebounds, nine assists and four steals and held Portland center Bill Walton to 14 points.

Elsewhere in the NBA Wednesday night, Fred Brown, who scored a game-high 29 points, broke a 94-94 tie with 41 seconds left to play to give the Seattle SuperSonics a 102-96 victory over the New York Nets. Leonard "Truck" Robinson scored 19 points and pulled down 10 rebounds as the Washington Bullets handed the Atlanta Hawks their seventh straight NBA defeat, 96-92.

Kansas City guards Ron Boone, Brian Taylor and rookie Andre McCarter combined for 59 points and Jim Eakins and Ollie Johnson played key relief roles in the Kings' 113-103 National Basketball Association victory over the Buffalo Braves.

Calvin Murphy's 20-foot jump shot gave Houston a five-point lead and the Rockets outmuscled the Philadelphia 76ers in the final two minutes to preserve a 93-91 NBA victory Wednesday night before 16,012, the largest crowd in Houston history.

Paul Westphal scored 30 points to lead Phoenix to a 97-87 victory over the Boston Celtics, the Suns' second victory in as many meetings with the defending champions.

NFL instant replay still a rerun

NEW YORK — Art McNally, supervisor of National Football League officials, denied reports Wednesday that the league will implement the use of instant replays to settle disputed calls during the exhibition season next year.

"We've promised to look into the use of instant replays but I cannot say we will use them next year," McNally said. "The Competition Committee has been investigating the use of instant replays for years now. We look into it each year to see if there have been any technical advances.

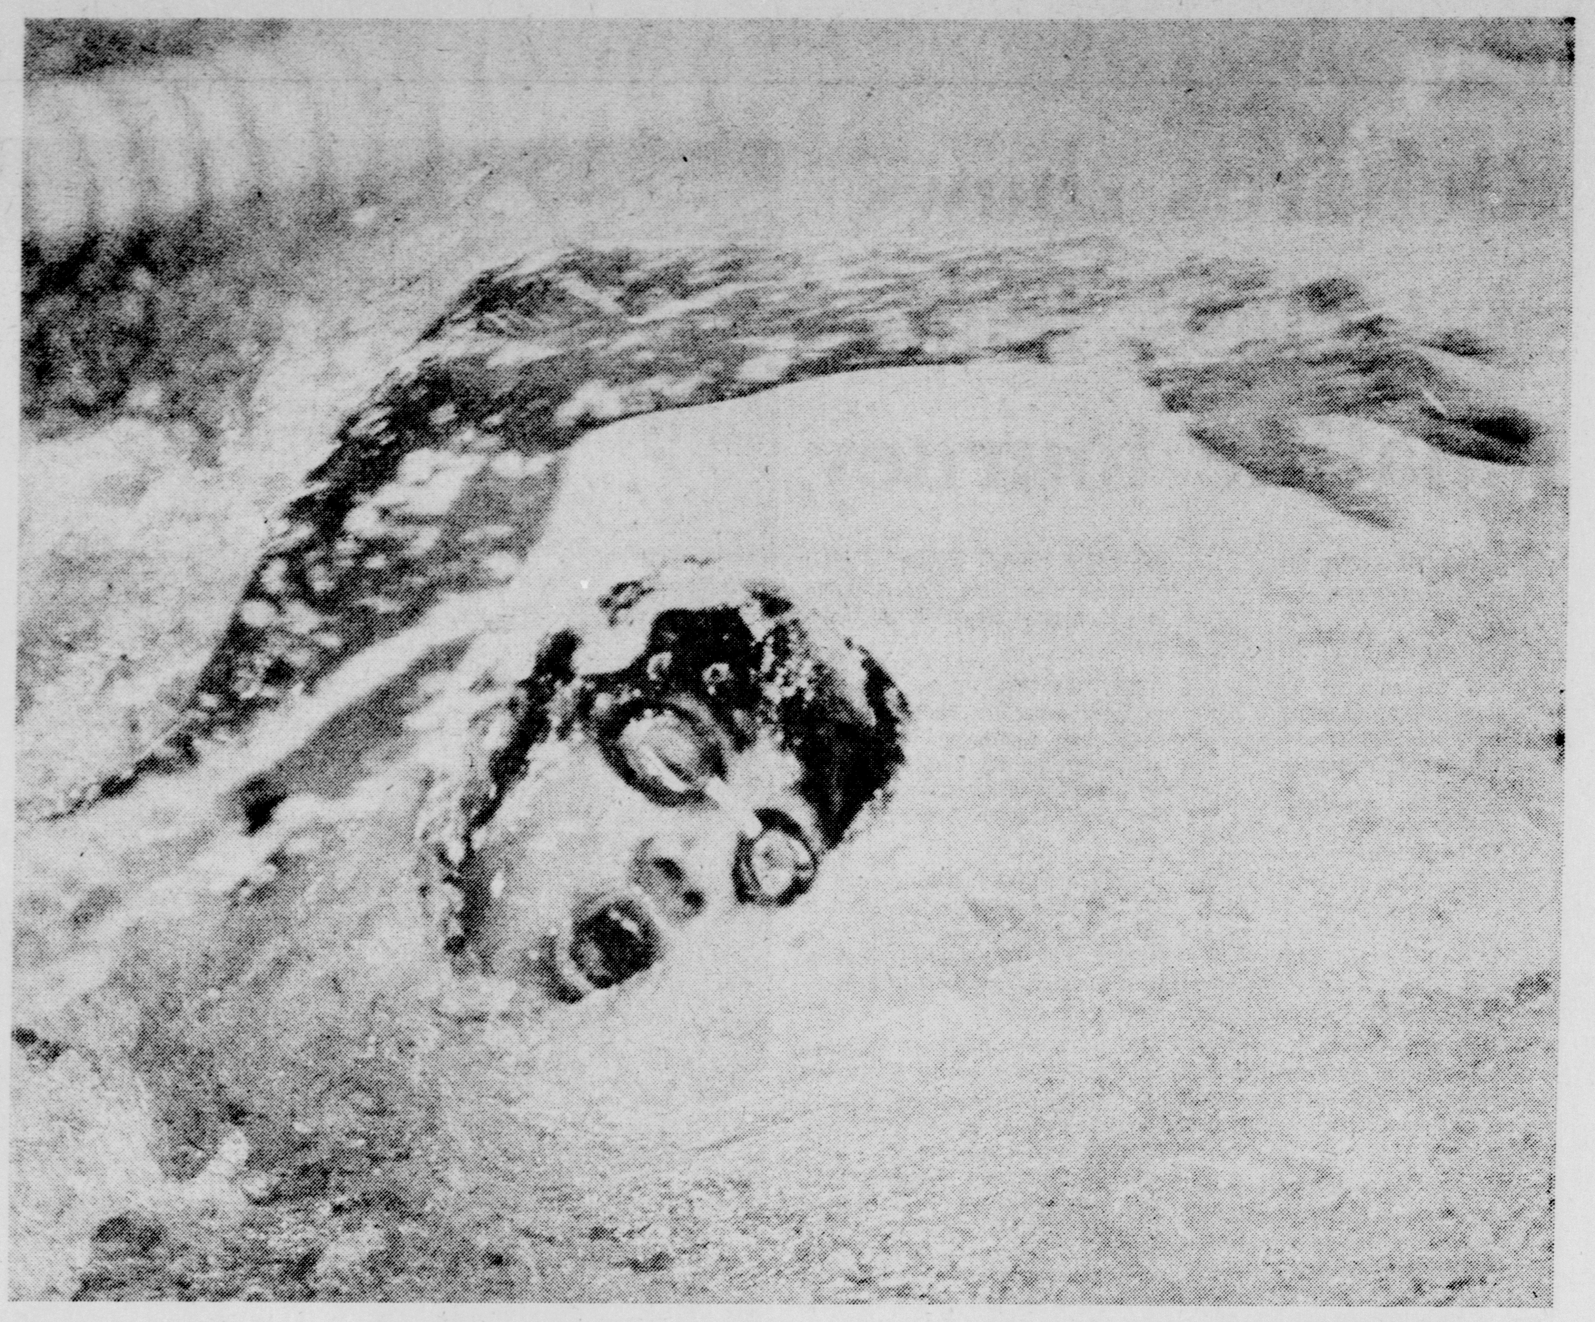
"But I also know we will also discuss any proposal that is to the benefit of the National Football League. Whenever we get ideas about rules changes, whether it comes from the fans or Competition Committee itself, we listen. As a liason between the Competition and Rules Committees, I know how thorough and progressive they are."

Oakland Raider fans hurry to wait

OAKLAND — Thousands of Oakland Raiders fans, many of them cursing the National Football League for its ticket policies, snapped up the team's 15,000 allotment for the Super Bowl Wednesday in a matter of hours.

The NFL, following a formula first laid out for the initial Super Bowl game, allocated 15,000 tickets to the Raiders and 15,000 to the Minnesota Vikings, the participating teams in this season's game at Pasadena, Calif., Jan. 9. Raider fans think the policy is unfair since there are 51,000 of them who buy season tickets for Oakland games.

Under the NFL formula the nearest team to the site of the Super Bowl is given 30,000 tickets to sell while the remaining tickets go to the other league teams, officials, etc. The Rose Bowl, where this season's Super Bowl game will be played, has 103,000 seats.



SPLASHING HIS WAY to a victory in the 500 freestyle event is Maine West's Kirt Altergott, a double winner for the Warriors' 116-51 victory over Hersey. Altergott won the 500 in 5:27.3 and 200 in 1:59.9.

Zuccarini leads West to York win

A solid zone defense and four players in double figures advanced the Maine West Warriors in the consolation bracket of the York Holiday Tournament with a 62-51 win over West Leyden.

Bob Zuccarini, the Warriors' 6-3 forward, poured in 18 points and garnered nine rebounds to lead the West effort.

Forward Pete Karabas followed with 15 points and eight rebounds while Bob Anderson (10 points) and Mike Wright (13 points) hit in double figures.

Maine West (5-6) blew the game open in the first half, rushing to a 31-15 halftime lead as their 2-1-2 and 2-3 zone defenses limited West Leyden to six points in the second period and forced 11 turnovers in the first half.

The Warriors will play for fifth place in the tournament today at 3:15 p.m.

Tigers scoreless from the floor for 17 minutes.

"I don't know what we were trying to do on offense, but we did play pretty good, basic defense," said Roger Steingraber, the Huskies' coach. The Hersey defense also forced 29 turnovers, although the Tigers dominated the rebounding, 31-16.

With 1:40 left in the game, Wheaton Central had pulled within six points at 51-45, but the Huskies allowed only three Tiger points while scoring eight in the remaining time.

Hersey forward Jim Thomas led all scorers with 18 points. He was followed on the Hersey squad by Joe Pusatera with 15 anad Todd Walker with 13.

MUSTANGS TIPPED

Rolling Meadows, trailing just 68-66 with 24 seconds remaining, could have owned the ball on a missed free throw, but Zion-Benton cashed the rebound and parlayed it into a 71-66 triumph at the Proviso West Holiday Tournament.

The Mustangs got off to a slow start as traveling calls and violations helped the Zee-Bees into a 16-8 first-quarter lead.

THE MUSTANGS, after trailing by as much as 13 points in the second quarter, fought back behind Bob Furlan's 15 points off the bench, 10 of those in the third quarter.

Kevin Kiley also tossed in 15 for the Mustangs while Kent Walker led the team with 16. Bob Rose notched 10.

ELK GROVE SIDELINED

Elk Grove combined for only 10 points in the second and third quarters while falling to Hillsboro, 46-38, and elimination from the Edwardsville Holiday Tournament.

The Grenadiers, after playing Hillsboro to a 11-11 standoff after the first period, didn't score again until only 30 seconds remained in the half and trailed at the intermission, 18-13.

Elk Grove's scoring slump continued in the third quarter as the Hilltoppers increased their advantage to 33-21.

Mark Smith paced the Grenadiers with 14 points while Ben Stogis came off the bench to add 10. Falling into Hillsboro's very deliberate game plan, Elk Grove hit on only six of 23 first-half shots.

"There's no doubt we were a very tired team out there," coach Ken Grams admitted after watching his team's second game of the day.

PIRATES BOW OUT

Palatine, a stunning victor over third-seeded Rock Island in opening round play, closed fast but still suffered a 58-47 loss to Rockford Boylan in the Boylan tournament.

The Pirates had some trouble against a zone early and only found the range in the closing minutes. With Kevin McKenna leading the charge, Palatine moved to within three points with 60 seconds remaining, but Boylan held on.

palatine trailed by 10 points at halftime and by 16 after three periods in bowing out of the tournament.

McKenna finished with 25 points for the game, 12 baskets and one free throw, and he had 13 in the final period as Palatine hit 10 of 19 shots to make things interesting.

Chris Plazak was next in line for Palatine with eight points.

BRONCOS BOUNCE HAWKS

Barrington center Brad Sinclair scored 17 points and grabbed 12 rebounds to lead the Broncos past Hoffman Estates 72-45 and into today's consolation title game of the Elgin Holiday Tournament.

Sinclair, a 6-5 senior, dominated the offensive boards for Barrington and scored several times after taking lob passes inside. Nine of his points came in the second quarter when the Broncos built a 14-point lead they never relinquished.

After a slow first quarter that saw Hoffman trailing 11-6, the Hawks fought back to within two points and stayed in contention for most of the period on the shooting of Doug Oslance and the free throw accuracy of Ron Warring.

But Sinclair hit the last three baskets of the half for a 34-20 intermission lead for the Broncos and teammate Bruce Henricksen and Mike Berry took it from there. The two Barrington guards finished with 12 points each while Broncos John Tomlinson and Craig Terrill contributed 10 apiece.

Barrington outrebounded the Hawks, 45-31.

High scorer for Hoffman (6-6) was Warring with 14 points. Joe Tully had 13 and Oslance 10.

GRENADIERS REBOUND

Elk Grove responded from an opening-game loss in the Edwardsville Holiday Tournament with a 51-41 triumph over Triad in the consolation bracket.

Mark Smith, a shoo-in for all-tourney honors, paced the Grenadiers with 18 points. Kevin McCloughan chipped in with nine and Dave Champa kicked in eight.

The turning point of the game was a defensive adjustment by Elk Grove at halftime. Leading 26-21, the Grenadiers took away Triad's outside-shooting game and outscored the Knights, 14-6. Elk Grove outrebounded Triad, 18-13, to up its overall record to 6-5.

KNIGHTS BUMP PIONEERS

Prospect wiped out an eight-point deficit with an explosive 22-point fourth quarter to upset third-seeded Rock Island Alleman, 60-59, in the opening round of the Pontiac Holiday Tournament.

Brad Millar scored seven of his dozen points and soph Jim Apuzzo added six of his team-high 18 to spearhead a 22-13 scoring spree by the Knights.

Prospect got off on the right foot by outscoring the Pioneers, 15-8 in the first quarter, but Rock Island's Joe Buker hit 10 of his game-high 20 points in the second period to give the Pioneers a 32-25 halftime lead.

The Knights of head coach Bill Slayton dominated the boards, 38-26 as Millar and Dave LaCosse each ripped down 13.

Tigers scoreless from the floor for 17 minutes.

"I don't know what we were trying to do on offense, but we did play pretty good, basic defense," said Roger Steingraber, the Huskies' coach. The Hersey defense also forced 29 turnovers, although the Tigers dominated the rebounding, 31-16.

With 1:40 left in the game, Wheaton Central had pulled within six points at 51-45, but the Huskies allowed only three Tiger points while scoring eight in the remaining time.

Hersey forward Jim Thomas led all scorers with 18 points. He was followed on the Hersey squad by Joe Pusatera with 15 anad Todd Walker with 13.

Rolling Meadows, trailing just 68-66 with 24 seconds remaining, could have owned the ball on a missed free throw, but Zion-Benton cashed the rebound and parlayed it into a 71-66 triumph at the Proviso West Holiday Tournament.

The Mustangs got off to a slow start as traveling calls and violations helped the Zee-Bees into a 16-8 first-quarter lead.

THE MUSTANGS, after trailing by as much as 13 points in the second quarter, fought back behind Bob Furlan's 15 points off the bench, 10 of those in the third quarter.

Kevin Kiley also tossed in 15 for the Mustangs while Kent Walker led the team with 16. Bob Rose notched 10.

The Grenadiers, after playing Hillsboro to a 11-11 standoff after the first period, didn't score again until only 30 seconds remained in the half and trailed at the intermission, 18-13.

Elk Grove's scoring slump continued in the third quarter as the Hilltoppers increased their advantage to 33-21.

Mark Smith paced the Grenadiers with 14 points while Ben Stogis came off the bench to add 10. Falling into Hillsboro's very deliberate game plan, Elk Grove hit on only six of 23 first-half shots.

Arlington area needs planning

Arlington Heights officials have given considerable attention over the years to the proper development of new areas of the community and to the redevelopment of the downtown business district.

The concern and attention are well placed but should not preclude an active interest in the condition of other neighborhoods within the community.

One area that deserves more attention than it has received is the neighborhood east of the Kensington Road — Northwest Highway intersection. The core of this neighborhood is a four square block industrial area. Developed 50 years ago on what was then an isolated tract, the area does not conform to current village ordinances for industrial use.

It is neither exceptionally grim nor overly attractive as far as industrial areas go. Its real impact may be on surrounding areas.

The area is buffered on the west by Recreation Park and on the east by the Arlington Market shopping center and does not seem to adversely affect neighborhoods beyond these bounds. But to the south are commercial properties that suffer typical strip-development problems. While some are stable and well maintained, others have high vacancy levels and are not well kept.

North of the industrial section is a small neighborhood of homes which are much older than the surrounding residential community and in some cases are badly in need of repair.

The three substandard areas — industrial, commercial and residential — comprise a problem that will spread unless the village recognizes this as a special neighborhood which requires special planning and attention.

Several commercial properties adjacent to Recreation Park should be acquired by the park district and the entire tract beautified south to Northwest Highway.

Working with property owners, the village should determine what causes the high vacancy rate of other properties and take steps to alleviate it.

Eventual redevelopment of the residential neighborhood should be encouraged; the area could be an ideal location for an attractive multiple family development for moderate income families.

The industrial area needs better shielding from adjacent neighborhoods and a long range plan to upgrade and improve it; a joint effort by the village and property owners could accomplish that.

Leadership must come from the village or a chronic neighborhood problem may become a spreading blight.

A serious busing plan

State School Supt. Joseph Cronin will discuss his plan for voluntary busing programs between Chicago and the suburbs at a press conference today.

That action and the inclusion of money for the voluntary program designed to further racial integration in the proposed 1977-78 state education budget ought to be clear signals to local school officials that Cronin is serious about his idea.

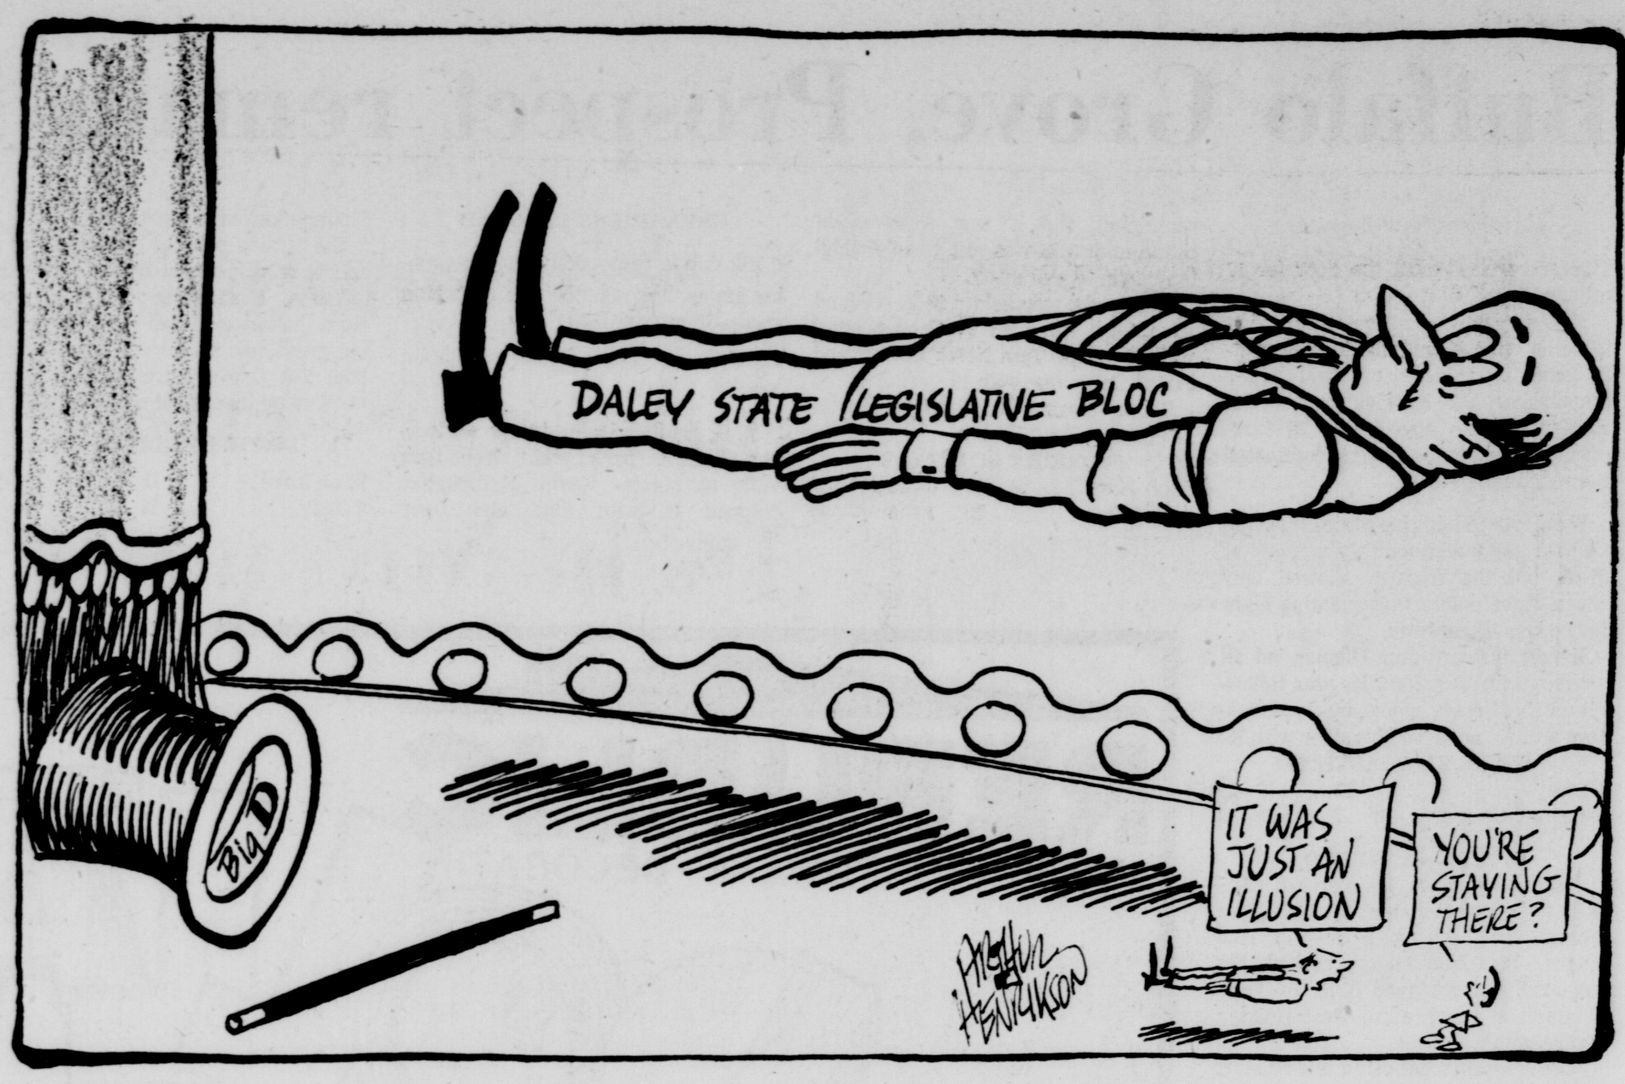
The proposal was first mentioned by Cronin last spring as a possible way to help suburban schools faced with declining enrollment while furthering school integration.

Despite the clear indications that Cronin is going to pursue the idea of voluntary city-suburban busing as an alternative to some plan subsequently imposed by the courts, local school officials have remained hesitant to talk seriously about the issue.

And despite the fact that last spring Cronin said Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect would be possible suburbs for the program, some school officials here continue to say they feel the Northwest suburbs are too far from Chicago to become part of any metropolitan busing plan.

Instead of ignoring or downgrading the possibility of participation in the proposed busing program, it is time for local school officials to actively review Cronin's idea. The plan has the potential for aiding local schools with their declining enrollment problems but also contains the built-in problems that the emotionally charged issue of "busing" has.

It is important for local school officials, therefore, to take an active role in planning for Cronin's program in order to avoid problems later.



Pong is the beginning

In television, the future is now

by DON OAKLEY
A commentary

Even as the debate continues over the pervasive influence of television in our daily lives, we are moving into an age where the one-eyed monster will truly be man's servant.

The spectacular popularity of electronic games that use the television set — like ping pong and hockey, in which people are active participants rather than passive viewers — is only a hint of things to come.

Cable television, which is steadily growing in usage and sophistication, may be the wave of the future.

CURRENTLY BEING tested in Tokyo is a cable system that ultimately could provide every household in Japan with a variety of two-way services. The system utilizes the new technology of fiber optics, by which information is transmitted via light beams through hair-thin glass filaments.

With a central computer providing the necessary controls, test subscribers can use special equipment installed in their homes to interact with the system in a number of ways. Some examples:

REQUEST ENTERTAINMENT. By tapping out the proper code on a keyboard, the subscriber activates the computer's video information unit, which switches the designated program into automatic transmission.

Request data. This is transmitted to the subscriber in still-picture form at his option, and includes all types of specialized information, such as news, stock market reports, time, weather and other announcements of interest.

Facsimile. If the subscriber wishes, hard copies of video information can be printed out, including a home "newspaper."

COMPUTER-ASSISTED instruction. Questions and assignments appear on the screen of the home TV receiver. Students respond on the keyboard and their answers are evaluated by the computer, which regulates the program in accordance with the capability demonstrated by each individual. Typical courses are mathematics, Japanese and foreign languages, chemistry and vocational training.

Cashless transactions. Store and restaurant bills, rent and utility charges can be paid through the system, with deductions made automatically from the account of the subscriber.

Shopping and reservations. Goods appear on the TV screen, together with prices. The subscriber can order by means of keyboard input, or make theater, restaurant and travel reservations the same way. Again, payment is made automatically from bank accounts.

BURGLAR AND FIRE alarms. Detectors are installed in each home so that the central computer can sense any abnormality, such as intrusions or excessive heat or smoke. Alarms can be retransmitted to police and fire stations and instructions relayed to the household on emergency measures to be taken while safety units are on the way.

Telemetering and telecontrol. Electricity, gas and water meters are read automatically and charges handled as cashless transactions. Telecontrol makes it possible to regulate household electrical appliances and heating and cooling systems from outside the house.

THE JAPANESE project was begun in 1972, but had been stalled because of the cost, bulkiness and other limitations of conventional coaxial cable. Independent investigation into the potential of fiber optics by Arthur D. Little, Inc., an American research organization, was instrumental in persuading Japan's Ministry of International Trade and Industry to adopt the new technology.

Accoring to Little, the Japanese field trial is experimental only in the sense of evaluating the performance of the system and determining modifications necessary to raise it to full-fledged nationwide operation.

Thanks to the computer and fiber optics, the much-talked-about "wired city" or "information society" may be upon us sooner than we think.

What's the answer to Christmas loneliness?

At 8 p.m. on Christmas Eve, I happened to walk into a tavern in Palatine. I looked around and saw 11 men. By the look on their faces, I had the feeling that they were like myself, lonely and thinking of past years which can never return.

I spoke to several of them and the first thing they said was to ask if I would like a drink. What they really wanted was someone to talk to. I made it a point to talk to at least six or more of them. They all had the same answer — 'what a heck of a Christmas.'

If someone can come up with an answer to this, he or she deserves the Nobel prize.

Reader praises Prospect library

Finally, after a prolonged controversy, and conflict of personalities and minds, the new Mount Prospect public library emerged into a being only poets can describe.

Sunday, Dec. 12, it swung open its doors to welcome the village's citizenry, whose pocketbooks made possible for dreams of thousands of library and book lovers to come true.

Over 3,000 residents, representing some 20 local organizations and clubs, visited the new library during the three hour open house. Friendly guides were available to take care of all visitors. Much credit is due Martha Hopkins, the member of the library board of directors, in organizing and executing of the tours. The visitors were treated to delicious refreshments —a great variety of home baked cookies, coffee and tea, and lively music.

I took an opportunity to talk to many visitors. Some of them were originally opposed to building of the new library. But after touring through it, they were highly pleased, and admitted being for it.

Library board president John Parsons informed me the dedication ceremonies date has been changed from Jan. 30 to 23. An extensive program is planned for that day.

Popularity won't win Senate leadership struggle

by NEA/London
Economist News Service

WASHINGTON — If it were national recognition that counted, then Hubert Humphrey or Edmund Muskie would surely be elected majority leader by the Democrats in the Senate when they convene in caucus early in January. If personal charm and a winning personality were the keys, then the job would probably go to Ernest Hollings of South Carolina.

But national elections are one thing, the contests that take place in the closed, clubby atmosphere of the United States Senate are another. Indeed, it even seems to matter little whether a senator aspiring to be majority leader has long been in the mainstream of the Democratic party.

So it is that Muskie and Hollings, each disappointed by the soundings of support they made, have withdrawn from the competition in favor of Humphrey; and so it is that Humphrey desperate though he may be for a last hurrah after three unsuccessful attempts at the presidency and a new battle with cancer, is expected to lose.

THE FAVORITE IS a man virtually unknown to the general public. His personality is, if anything, caustic and abrasive. He has few close friends and many enemies. He is not sociable and boasts eagerly that in 23 years in Washington he has been to only one football game, three baseball games and one movie.

His favorite pastime is to play the fiddle. He is a slave-driver with his staff and no favorite with the press. During his early days in West Virginia politics he was briefly a member of the Ku Klux Klan, and it took him years to come around to the liberal Democratic positions on civil rights, open housing and abuses of the intelligence agencies. He was once considered for a Supreme Court nomination by none other than President Nixon.

YET AT THE LAST private count Robert Byrd appeared to have a firm hold on 30 of the 62 votes in the Democratic caucus (counting his namesake Harry Byrd of Virginia, who is officially elected as an Independent).

Byrd came to public notice in Jan. 1971, when he won a surprise victory over Sen. Edward Kennedy, replacing him as the Democratic whip. For four years before that, Byrd had served as secretary of the Senate Democratic Conference, a position without apparent significance but an excellent way to learn the ropes. After beating Kennedy, the West Virginian became an indispensable support to Mike Mansfield, the majority leader. While the professorial Mansfield brooded over policy and philosophy, Byrd ran the show, learning the intricacies of the Senate.

MOST OF ALL he did favors for his colleagues — both legislative favors and personal favors. When approached properly, Byrd lent his considerable skills to any cause of a friend, whether it was to stop a filibuster, move a bill ahead of its place on the Senate calendar, or prevent a measure from coming to a vote during the absence of one of its sponsors.

All of this meant that when Mansfield announced his retirement earlier this year, Byrd was in a perfect position to cash in his chips. Although many liberals wanted somebody less conservative, they have failed to unite behind a single strong rival.

EROSION SET IN in the liberal camp. Senators such as Claiborne Pell of Rhode Island, Adlai Steveson of Illinois and Floyd Haskell of Colorado, each for his own reason, declared support for Byrd. Humphrey, backed now by Kennedy, claimed an advantage from the defeat of Byrd's allies at the polls in Utah, Wyoming and New Mexico. But Byrd, claiming no interest in the figures produced by his opponents, quickly went to work on the newly elected Democratic senators from other states, offering them the favors and courtesies at his command.

Behind the gentlemenly struggle could be detected the subtle hand of the embryonic Carter White House. Of course Carter has great admiration for Humphrey, the strategists for the president-elect let it be known, but if Carter had his way, he would just as soon not share the national Democratic spotlight with a figure so influential and widely respected as the senator from Minnesota.

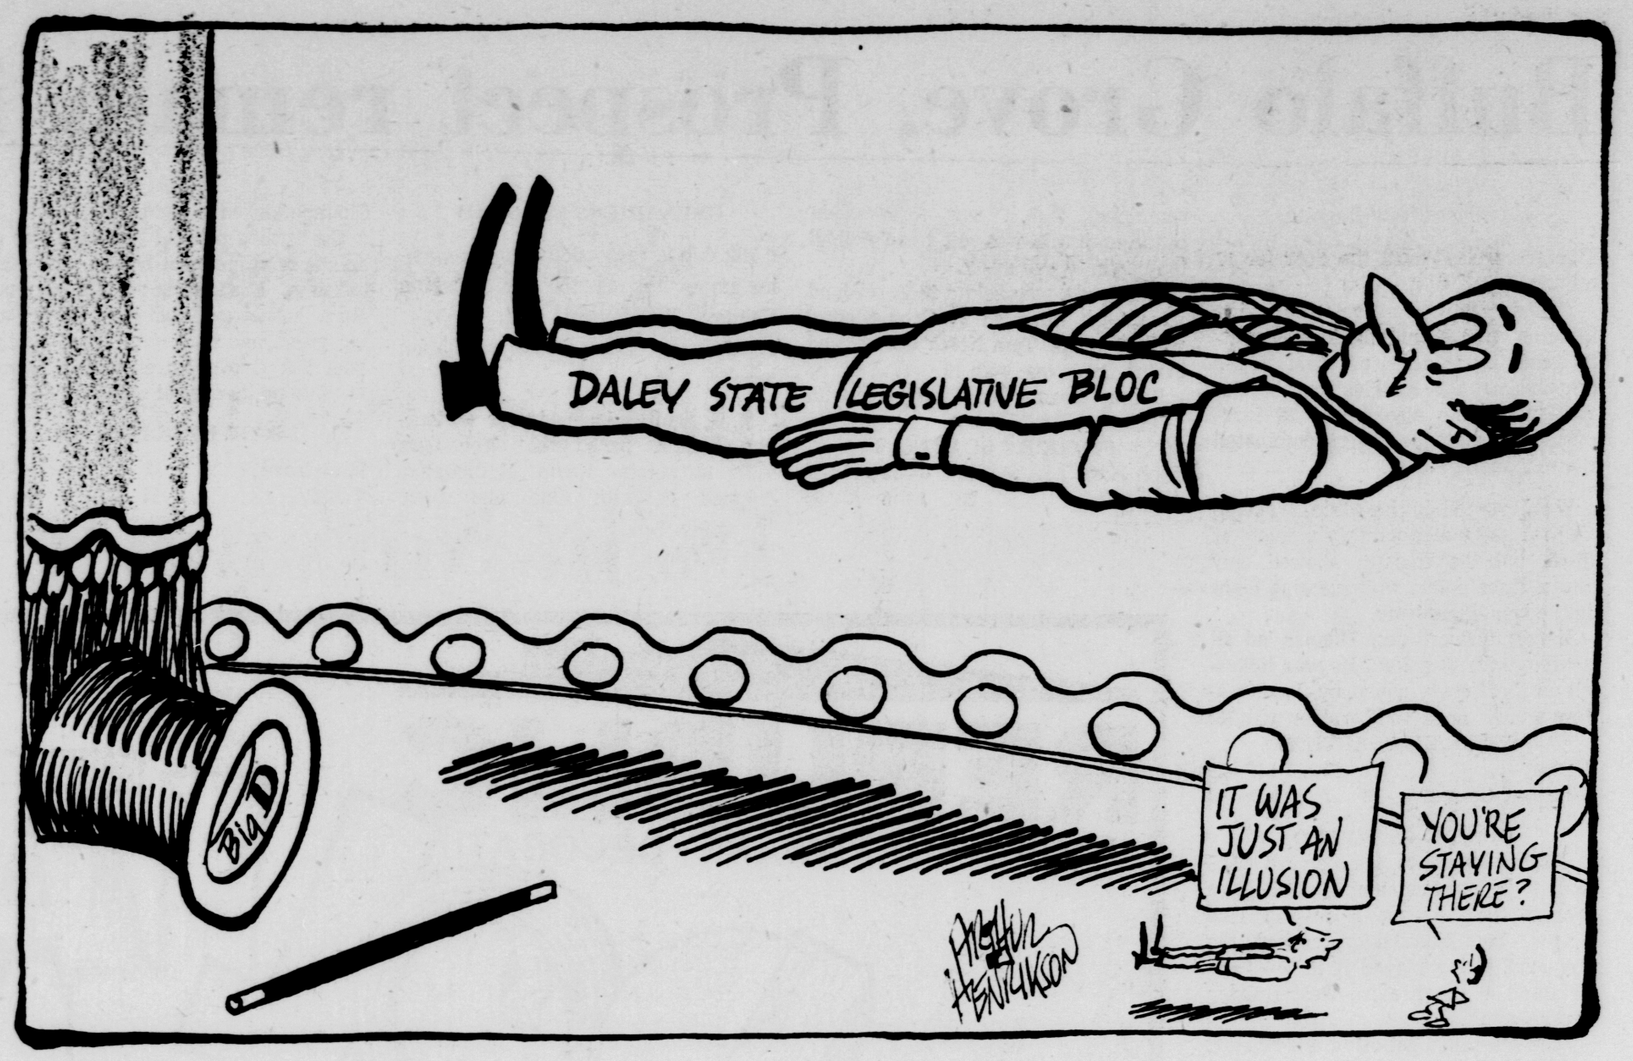
Despite the clear indications that Cronin is going to pursue the idea of voluntary city-suburban busing as an alternative to some plan subsequently imposed by the courts, local school officials have remained hesitant to talk seriously about the issue.

And despite the fact that last spring Cronin said Arlington Heights and Mount Prospect would be possible suburbs for the program, some school officials here continue to say they feel the Northwest suburbs are too far from Chicago to become part of any metropolitan busing plan.

Instead of ignoring or downgrading the possibility of participation in the proposed busing program, it is time for local school officials to actively review Cronin's idea. The plan has the potential for aiding local schools with their declining enrollment problems but also contains the built-in problems that the emotionally charged issue of "busing" has.

It is important for local school officials, therefore, to take an active role in planning for Cronin's program in order to avoid problems later.



Pong is the beginning

In television, the future is now

by DON OAKLEY
A commentary

Even as the debate continues over the pervasive influence of television in our daily lives, we are moving into an age where the one-eyed monster will truly be man's servant.

The spectacular popularity of electronic games that use the television set — like ping pong and hockey, in which people are active participants rather than passive viewers — is only a hint of things to come.

Cable television, which is steadily growing in usage and sophistication, may be the wave of the future.

CURRENTLY BEING tested in Tokyo is a cable system that ultimately could provide every household in Japan with a variety of two-way services. The system utilizes the new technology of fiber optics, by which information is transmitted via light beams through hair-thin glass filaments.

With a central computer providing the necessary controls, test subscribers can use special equipment installed in their homes to interact with the system in a number of ways. Some examples:

REQUEST ENTERTAINMENT. By tapping out the proper code on a keyboard, the subscriber activates the computer's video information unit, which switches the designated program into automatic transmission.

Request data. This is transmitted to the subscriber in still-picture form at his option, and includes all types of specialized information, such as news, stock market reports, time, weather and other announcements of interest.

Facsimile. If the subscriber wishes, hard copies of video information can be printed out, including a home "newspaper."

COMPUTER-ASSISTED instruction. Questions and assignments appear on the screen of the home TV receiver. Students respond on the keyboard and their answers are evaluated by the computer, which regulates the program in accordance with the capability demonstrated by each individual. Typical courses are mathematics, Japanese and foreign languages, chemistry and vocational training.

Cashless transactions. Store and restaurant bills, rent and utility charges can be paid through the system, with deductions made automatically from the account of the subscriber.

Shopping and reservations. Goods appear on the TV screen, together with prices. The subscriber can order by means of keyboard input, or make theater, restaurant and travel reservations the same way. Again, payment is made automatically from bank accounts.

BURGLAR AND FIRE alarms. Detectors are installed in each home so that the central computer can sense any abnormality, such as intrusions or excessive heat or smoke. Alarms can be retransmitted to police and fire stations and instructions relayed to the household on emergency measures to be taken while safety units are on the way.

Telemetering and telecontrol. Electricity, gas and water meters are read automatically and charges handled as cashless transactions. Telecontrol makes it possible to regulate household electrical appliances and heating and cooling systems from outside the house.

THE JAPANESE project was begun in 1972, but had been stalled because of the cost, bulkiness and other limitations of conventional coaxial cable. Independent investigation into the potential of fiber optics by Arthur D. Little, Inc., an American research organization, was instrumental in persuading Japan's Ministry of International Trade and Industry to adopt the new technology.

Accoring to Little, the Japanese field trial is experimental only in the sense of evaluating the performance of the system and determining modifications necessary to raise it to full-fledged nationwide operation.

Thanks to the computer and fiber optics, the much-talked-about "wired city" or "information society" may be upon us sooner than we think.

What's the answer to Christmas loneliness?

At 8 p.m. on Christmas Eve, I happened to walk into a tavern in Palatine. I looked around and saw 11 men. By the look on their faces, I had the feeling that they were like myself, lonely and thinking of past years which can never return.

I spoke to several of them and the first thing they said was to ask if I would like a drink. What they really wanted was someone to talk to. I made it a point to talk to at least six or more of them. They all had the same answer — 'what a heck of a Christmas.'

If someone can come up with an answer to this, he or she deserves the Nobel prize.

Reader praises Prospect library

Finally, after a prolonged controversy, and conflict of personalities and minds, the new Mount Prospect public library emerged into a being only poets can describe.

Sunday, Dec. 12, it swung open its doors to welcome the village's citizenry, whose pocketbooks made possible for dreams of thousands of library and book lovers to come true.

Over 3,000 residents, representing some 20 local organizations and clubs, visited the new library during the three hour open house. Friendly guides were available to take care of all visitors. Much credit is due Martha Hopkins, the member of the library board of directors, in organizing and executing of the tours. The visitors were treated to delicious refreshments —a great variety of home baked cookies, coffee and tea, and lively music.

I took an opportunity to talk to many visitors. Some of them were originally opposed to building of the new library. But after touring through it, they were highly pleased, and admitted being for it.

Library board president John Parsons informed me the dedication ceremonies date has been changed from Jan. 30 to 23. An extensive program is planned for that day.

Popularity won't win Senate leadership struggle

by NEA/London
Economist News Service

WASHINGTON — If it were national recognition that counted, then Hubert Humphrey or Edmund Muskie would surely be elected majority leader by the Democrats in the Senate when they convene in caucus early in January. If personal charm and a winning personality were the keys, then the job would probably go to Ernest Hollings of South Carolina.

But national elections are one thing, the contests that take place in the closed, clubby atmosphere of the United States Senate are another. Indeed, it even seems to matter little whether a senator aspiring to be majority leader has long been in the mainstream of the Democratic party.

So it is that Muskie and Hollings, each disappointed by the soundings of support they made, have withdrawn from the competition in favor of Humphrey; and so it is that Humphrey desperate though he may be for a last hurrah after three unsuccessful attempts at the presidency and a new battle with cancer, is expected to lose.

THE FAVORITE IS a man virtually unknown to the general public. His personality is, if anything, caustic and abrasive. He has few close friends and many enemies. He is not sociable and boasts eagerly that in 23 years in Washington he has been to only one football game, three baseball games and one movie.

His favorite pastime is to play the fiddle. He is a slave-driver with his staff and no favorite with the press. During his early days in West Virginia politics he was briefly a member of the Ku Klux Klan, and it took him years to come around to the liberal Democratic positions on civil rights, open housing and abuses of the intelligence agencies. He was once considered for a Supreme Court nomination by none other than President Nixon.

YET AT THE LAST private count Robert Byrd appeared to have a firm hold on 30 of the 62 votes in the Democratic caucus (counting his namesake Harry Byrd of Virginia, who is officially elected as an Independent).

Byrd came to public notice in Jan. 1971, when he won a surprise victory over Sen. Edward Kennedy, replacing him as the Democratic whip. For four years before that, Byrd had served as secretary of the Senate Democratic Conference, a position without apparent significance but an excellent way to learn the ropes. After beating Kennedy, the West Virginian became an indispensable support to Mike Mansfield, the majority leader. While the professorial Mansfield brooded over policy and philosophy, Byrd ran the show, learning the intricacies of the Senate.

MOST OF ALL he did favors for his colleagues — both legislative favors and personal favors. When approached properly, Byrd lent his considerable skills to any cause of a friend, whether it was to stop a filibuster, move a bill ahead of its place on the Senate calendar, or prevent a measure from coming to a vote during the absence of one of its sponsors.

All of this meant that when Mansfield announced his retirement earlier this year, Byrd was in a perfect position to cash in his chips. Although many liberals wanted somebody less conservative, they have failed to unite behind a single strong rival.

EROSION SET IN in the liberal camp. Senators such as Claiborne Pell of Rhode Island, Adlai Steveson of Illinois and Floyd Haskell of Colorado, each for his own reason, declared support for Byrd. Humphrey, backed now by Kennedy, claimed an advantage from the defeat of Byrd's allies at the polls in Utah, Wyoming and New Mexico. But Byrd, claiming no interest in the figures produced by his opponents, quickly went to work on the newly elected Democratic senators from other states, offering them the favors and courtesies at his command.

Behind the gentlemenly struggle could be detected the subtle hand of the embryonic Carter White House. Of course Carter has great admiration for Humphrey, the strategists for the president-elect let it be known, but if Carter had his way, he would just as soon not share the national Democratic spotlight with a figure so influential and widely respected as the senator from Minnesota.

U.S. economic indicators rise 1% in November

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government's index of leading economic indicators increased 1 per cent in November, strong evidence the economy is moving again, the U. S. Commerce Dept. reported Wednesday.

"It is a good sign. We have the basis for continued economic expansion," said Commerce economist Feliks Tamm.

The second consecutive monthly increase, the biggest since June, followed three straight declines that raised concern among economic advisers for both President Ford and President-President-elect Jimmy Carter.

THE COMMERCE DEPT. said two other indicators also showed improvement. The index of co-incident indicators, which is supposed to measure total economic activity, increased 1.1 per cent in November following an 0.2 per cent dip in October.

The index of lagging indicators, which measures the cost of doing business, dropped 0.4 per cent. Tamm said the index often drops when idle machinery is put back into production and laid-off workers are re-hired.

When leading indicators turned down in July, it was the first sign of the economic "pause" that raised concern that recovery from the nation's worst postwar recession was in trouble. Economic reports following the July index also began to sour.

Leading indicators were the first to turn up in October in a signal that the "pause" was ending.

TAMM SAID OTHER economic indicators might be expected to improve further in the months immediately ahead based on the showing of leading indicators.

The index of leading indicators measures 12 key sectors of the economy. Of the 10 categories available for November, six increased and four declined.

The index stood at 127.5, compared to the 1976 base figure of 100. It was up 1 per cent in November and 0.6 per cent in October.

The Commerce Dept. made "benchmark" revisions in the index effective in November. Before the change the index for October stood at 107.1 After the change the October index was revised to 126.3.

The index has accurately forecast rises and falls in the economy over recent decades with the exception of the 1974-75 recession, when double-digit inflation clouded the index results. Tamm said it has been revised to eliminate the effects of inflation.

Steady economic rise seen for Chicago area

by LEA TONKIN

Chicago and suburban residents can expect a "good, steady economic recovery" during 1977, predicted John Coulter, director of research for the Chicago Assn. of Commerce and Industry.

In the association's Metropolitan Chicago Business Outlook for 1977, announced Wednesday at a press conference in Chicago, Coulter said local unemployment will ease to the 6.7 per cent level during 1977 as 80,000 new workers join the Chicago area labor force.

Chicago metropolitan area manufacturing sales will climb 14 per cent to the $78 billion level, Coulter said. He said housing starts in the 8-county area will rise 30 per cent from 1975 levels to 49,000 units, "provided the mortgage climate improves."

SHOPPERS WILL push retail sales up 12 per cent to the $29 billion level during 1977, the association report said.

"We're optimistic about employment because of the job openings rate," Coulter said. "Our members report 30 openings per thousand workers. That's twice the rate a year ago and four times what it was two years ago."

Of the business executives surveyed by the association, 79 per cent expect increased sales during the coming year, 65 per cent anticipate higher profits and 75 per cent expect selling price increases.

"We're very bullish about investments in new equipment," Coulter said. "We're less strong about investment in new plants."

There may be 30,000 new manufacturing jobs available in the Chicago area during the next year, Coulter said. Another 10,000 jobs will open in construction, and the added employment opportunities will be in service and other occupations.

The association surveyed business trends in Cook, Lake, DuPage, McHenry, Will and Kane counties in Illinois and Lake and Porter counties in Indiana.

Dow falls 5.15 in profit taking move

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Dow Jones industrial average failed for the 12th time this year to hold above the 1,000 level as prices lost ground Wednesday in profit taking on the New York Stock Exchange despite good economic news.

The Dow average fell 5.15 points to 994.93, its first setback in six sessions. In the previous five trading days, the average gained 27 points. It had climbed 80 points since early November.

Most analysts said profit taking was normal. But veteran observers were amazed by the blue-chip average's continued inability to stay above 1,000. It reached a 1976 high of 1,014.79 Sept. 21. The all-time high of 1,051.70 was set Jan. 11, 1973.

BROADER MEASURES of the market also succumbed to profit taking. The NYSE common stock index eased 0.19 to 57.28 and the average price of a common share decreased by 11 cents. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index, which includes some over-the-counter stocks, lost 0.43 to 106.34.

Market breadth figures revealed considerable investor uncertainty. Of the 1,937 issues crossing the tape, 733 declined, 700 advanced and 504 remained unchanged.

Volume slowed to 21,910,000 shares from 25,790,000 traded Tuesday.

Investors generally had already discounted the news the Commerce Dept. November index of leading economic indicators rose 1 per cent, the best gain in five months. The October figure was revised upward to an 0.6 per cent gain from 0.2 per cent.

Prices closed irregularly lower in active trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share decreased four cents. Volume totaled 3,180,000 shares, compared with 3,610,000 traded Tuesday.

Teltronics bank accounts frozen

Bank accounts of the Des Plaines-based Teltronics, Ltd., mail order irm were frozen following the Wednesday morning suit filed in Cook County Circuit Court by Illinois Atty. Gen. William J. Scott against the company and its president John Rodine. A Jan. 7 hearing has been slated before Circuit Court Judge Donald O'Brien, chancery division, starting at 11 a.m. in Chicago's Daley Center, on evidence that Teletronics did not deliver some 100,000 digital watches sold by mail order to customers nationwide. Donald Mulack of the attorney general's consumer fraud division said his office located more than $1.8 million deposited by Teltronics at four Chicago area banks. Alhough $700,000 of this amount has already been transferred to accounts in Mexico, the temporary restraining order filed Wednesday impounds the remaining funds at the Des Plaines Bank, First National Bank of Morton Grove, American National Bank and O'Hare International Bank, Chicago. Scott's suit also asked the court to order restitution for consumers who may have been victimized and to impound Teltronics' books and records. Mulack said more than 40 complaints of nondelivery from "people all over the country" have been received. The watches had been advertised in TV Guide magazine and other publications for $16.95. A free calculator had been offered with the purchase of a second watch. The firm's offices at 2400 Devon Ave. have been closed and the telephones disconnected, said detective Herb Volberding of the Des Plaines Police Dept. Teltronics officers David Wong and Raymond Cheng were also named in Scott's suit.

Firm to stop oppressive tactics

One of the nation's largest debt collection agencies has agreed in a consent order to stop using "oppressive" tactics against debtors in what a Federal Trade Commission lawyer described Wednesday as an "extremely significant" case for consumers. The FTC said National Account Systems, a Chicago-based collection company owned by Diners Club Inc. of New York, agreed to halt the alleged practices under threat of fines up to $10,000 for each violation. Kenneth Donney, an FTC attorney in Los Angles who handled the case, said the complaint against the firm alleged the company obtained credit information on debtors through illegal use of a computer reporting system. National Account used "classic kinds of oppressive debt collector practices' such as threatening the person with jail if he or she failed to pay, Donney said. Sheldon Landman, vice president of the firm, said the consent order "is a standard boiler plate type announcement. They have asked us to sign this agreement, and we have." Three National Account subsidiaries — NAS Creditors Services, Inc., National Account System of Milwaukee, Inc., and A. B. Hartman, Inc. — also were named in the order.

Ford may lift gas price controls

President Ford said Wednesday it is "highly likely" that he will propose a lifting of federal controls on gasoline prices before he leaves office Jan. 20. Gasoline prices have been subject to federal controls since 1973. Under the Energy Policy and Conservation Act passed last December, the President was authorized to propose a removal of the regulations on gasoline and other petroleum products and Congress was given 15 days to veto the action, or else it would take effect automatically. Opponents of a removal of controls have charged that gasoline prices would climb substantially at the pump as a result. But federal officials have said they thought prices might not be affected at all and, if they did increase, they would go up even if the controls were left in place.

No progress in cemetery talks

No progress was reported following Wednesday afternoon talks in Chicago between representatives of striking cemetery workers and the Cemeteries Assn. of Greater Chicago. The strike, which began Monday at five Chicago area cemeteries, was followed by a lockout at 20 other association cemeteries including the Shalom Memorial Park and Randhill Park cemeteries in Palatine. Wages remain the central issue in the contract dispute. No new contract talks are slated, said Martin Heckmann of Local 16, Cemetery Workers Union.

Beef to go up, pork down

Beef prices will increase 10 cents a pound and pork prices wil decline at least 5 cents a pound, leaving average retail meat prices slightly higher next year, the president of the American Meat Institute said Wednesday. In 1978 or 1979, consumers can expect "scarce" beef supplies and "very high" beef prices as farmers reach the end of the current cattle production cycle, added Richard Lyng, head of the trade association which represents major meat packers. For pork, Lyng said industry experts accepted government forecasts that increased supplies would hold 1977 prices to current levels — about 5 cents or mre per pound below the 1976 average. Lyng agreed with government forecasts that beef production will decline next year, producing retail prices averaging 10 cents a pound higher than 1976. But by 1978 or 1979, Lyng said, consumers can expect "scarce" beef supplies and "very high" prices.

Steady economic rise seen for Chicago area

by LEA TONKIN

Chicago and suburban residents can expect a "good, steady economic recovery" during 1977, predicted John Coulter, director of research for the Chicago Assn. of Commerce and Industry.

In the association's Metropolitan Chicago Business Outlook for 1977, announced Wednesday at a press conference in Chicago, Coulter said local unemployment will ease to the 6.7 per cent level during 1977 as 80,000 new workers join the Chicago area labor force.

Dow falls 5.15 in profit taking move

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Dow Jones industrial average failed for the 12th time this year to hold above the 1,000 level as prices lost ground Wednesday in profit taking on the New York Stock Exchange despite good economic news.

The Dow average fell 5.15 points to 994.93, its first setback in six sessions. In the previous five trading days, the average gained 27 points. It had climbed 80 points since early November.

Most analysts said profit taking was normal. But veteran observers were amazed by the blue-chip average's continued inability to stay above 1,000. It reached a 1976 high of 1,014.79 Sept. 21. The all-time high of 1,051.70 was set Jan. 11, 1973.

BROADER MEASURES of the market also succumbed to profit taking. The NYSE common stock index eased 0.19 to 57.28 and the average price of a common share decreased by 11 cents. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index, which includes some over-the-counter stocks, lost 0.43 to 106.34.

Market breadth figures revealed considerable investor uncertainty. Of the 1,937 issues crossing the tape, 733 declined, 700 advanced and 504 remained unchanged.

Volume slowed to 21,910,000 shares from 25,790,000 traded Tuesday.

Investors generally had already discounted the news the Commerce Dept. November index of leading economic indicators rose 1 per cent, the best gain in five months. The October figure was revised upward to an 0.6 per cent gain from 0.2 per cent.

Prices closed irregularly lower in active trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share decreased four cents. Volume totaled 3,180,000 shares, compared with 3,610,000 traded Tuesday.

Notice of Hearing

BEFORE THE MOUNT PROSPECT ZONING BOARD OF APPEALS

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN THAT on the 13th day of January, 1977 at the hour of 8:00 p.m. there will be a public hearing at the Public Safety Building Boardroom, 112 East Northwest Highway, concerning a petition for change to the Zoning Ordinance of the Village of Mount Prospect as follows:

CASE NO. ZBA-75-SU-76

The petitioner, LaSalle National Bank, as trustee under Trust No. 51509 as contract purchaser, seeks in addition to the Planned Unit Development approved by the Zoning Board of Appeals by a vote of 4 to 1 on December 16, 1976, seeks the following variations from the Zoning Ordinance:

1. To permit the parking stalls 9 ft. by 20 ft. instead of the required 10 ft. by 20 ft.

2. To permit the off-street parking, in part, in the side yards.

The property is located in unincorporated Cook County adjacent to the West line of Busse Road and adjacent to the corporate limits of the Village of Mount Prospect (which limits are at the South line of the Laurel Estates Subdivision.)

The legal description of the subject property is as follows:

The North 8 Acres of the East half of the Southeast quarter of Section 22, Township 41 North, Range 11 East of the 3rd Principal Meridian in Cook County, Illinois, excepting therefrom that part described as follows: Beginning at a point on the West line of the East half of the Southeast quarter of said Section 22, said point being 60.2 feet South of an iron pipe in the Northwest corner of the East half of the Southeast quarter of said Section 22;

thence South 206.3 feet along the West line of the East half of the Southeast quarter of Section 22 to the South line of the North 8 Acres of said East half of the Southeast quarter of said Section 22; thence Easterly 201.2 feet along the South line of the North 8 Acres of the East half of the Southeast quarter of said Section 22; thence Northwesterly 286.6 feet more or less to the point of beginning, containing 0.476 Acres.

The legal representative of the Petitioner herein is Martin K. Blonder, Suite 4620, 55 East Monroe Street, Chicago, Illinois 60603.

All persons interested in the above petition will be heard.

Dated at Mount Prospect, Illinois this 29th day of December, 1976.

2. To permit the off-street parking, in part, in the side yards.

The property is located in unincorporated Cook County adjacent to the West line of Busse Road and adjacent to the corporate limits of the Village of Mount Prospect (which limits are at the South line of the Laurel Estates Subdivision.)

The legal description of the subject property is as follows:

The North 8 Acres of the East half of the Southeast quarter of Section 22, Township 41 North, Range 11 East of the 3rd Principal Meridian in Cook County, Illinois, excepting therefrom that part described as follows: Beginning at a point on the West line of the East half of the Southeast quarter of said Section 22, said point being 60.2 feet South of an iron pipe in the Northwest corner of the East half of the Southeast quarter of said Section 22;

thence South 206.3 feet along the West line of the East half of the Southeast quarter of Section 22 to the South line of the North 8 Acres of said East half of the Southeast quarter of said Section 22; thence Easterly 201.2 feet along the South line of the North 8 Acres of the East half of the Southeast quarter of said Section 22; thence Northwesterly 286.6 feet more or less to the point of beginning, containing 0.476 Acres.

The legal representative of the Petitioner herein is Martin K. Blonder, Suite 4620, 55 East Monroe Street, Chicago, Illinois 60603.

All persons interested in the above petition will be heard.

Dated at Mount Prospect, Illinois this 29th day of December, 1976.

All comforts of home for businessmen who travel

Motel alternative—apartment rental

IT'S THE PERFECT home away from home for the businessman who travels often and hates motels. Noel Goldblatt rents apartments — furnished and with maid service — to persons who plan to stay in the area a short time. He has complexes in Schaumburg, Oakbrook and Chicago.

by LYNN ASINOF

Persons who hate motels but have to spend months out of town on business will love Noel Goldblatt.

Goldblatt has 800 apartment units for rent and he doesn't own a single one. As president of Presidential Villa, Inc., Goldblatt rents apartments from owners of complexes, furnishes them and then leases them to persons who otherwise would be in motels.

About 75 per cent of its customers are businessmen who are in the area for 60 to 90 days. Goldblatt said they typically come from companies such IBM, Xerox, and Abbot Laboratories. The rest of the business comes from transferred executives who need temporary housing, salesmen, vacationers and visiting relatives.

"WHAT APPEALS most is that an apartment is more like a home," Goldblatt said. He said most of the complexes he deals with have the extra attraction of swimming pools, recreation areas and tennis courts.

Goldblatt started the business about seven years ago.

"I owned a motel called the Presidential Inn at 39th and Harlem," Goldblatt said. "I always had executives coming in. One of them came in one day and said he was tired of the motel. He said "Why don't you go out and rent apartments to rent to us?"

The business started with 40 apartments next to the motel. Today Presidential Villa has apartments throughout the Chicago suburbs, including Walden and Versailles on the Lake in Schaumburg, Pebble Stream and Park Estates in Palatine and Foxboro in Wheeling.

Goldblatt said the business works because it is beneficial to everyone. He said apartment owners benefit by increasing occupancy.

"Where they are running 85 to 90 per cent occupancy, we give them 100 per cent occupancy," he said. "And most of the people who rent from me like the apartment complex well enough to go in and rent an unfurnished apartment when they decide they are going to stay."

NOEL GOLDBLATT

IN RETURN, apartment owners grant Goldbaltt a 20 to 25 per cent discount on rents, which range from $255 to $345 a month.

The businessman gets the comforts of a furnished apartment at about half the cost of a motel room. A stay in a Presidential Villa apartment ranges from $250 to $400 a month, compared with a motel room that would cost from $500 to $800 a month.

The apartments have fully equipped kitchens, allowing the renter to cook his meals or prepare a snack. Television, linens, dishes and maid service are provided at extra cost.

Each Presidential Villa location has an on-site manager who can offer advice on where to dine, bank and shop.

Goldblatt said there is a 98 per cent occupancy rate on his 800 apartments, so persons who want an apartment for a couple of months should plan ahead.

"WE USUALLY require a lead time of 10 days to two weeks to find an apartment," he said.

Presidential Villa does its best business in the Northwest and Western suburbs, primarily the Schaumburg and Oakbrook area. The company has only one complex in Chicago at 5815 N. Sheridan Rd.

'77 financing topic of realty seminar

How the new administration will change the prospect for real estate financing is among the topics to be covered by Anthony Downs, chairman of the Board of Real Estate Research Corp., at the 29th annual seminar of executive planning, according to Chicago Real Estate Board Pres. Richard A. Rauch.

The seminar, co-sponsored by the Chicago Real Estate Board and the Real Estate Research Corp., will be presented Jan. 20 from 1 to 5 p.m. in the Adams Ballroom of the Palmer House Hotel, Chicago. During the seminar, Downs will assess the key factors influencing supply and demand conditions for all types of real property throughout the U.S. with special emphasis on Chicago and surrounding area markets.

The author of numerous books and articles in the field of economics and real estate, Downs is a lecturer at such universities as Harvard, Princeton, Yale and Northwestern.

Economize on water use but first fix faucet drip

If you are looking for ways to squeeze an extra few dollars out of the budget, don't overlook the water bill. Water is a necessity, and we couldn't do without it, but wasting it is costly.

When does splashing become splurging? According to Walter S. Larson, general manager of Citizens Utilities Co. of Illinois, each person in a typical family uses about 80 gallons of water every day — 1,200 gallons a month, so if your family members are averaging more than that, you may be pouring unnecessary dollars down the drain.

Many consumers who consider themselves far from extravagant are surprised to learn just how much water they actually use. But when they consider that water is used for drinking — that means coffee and tea and hot chocolate, too — for cooking, laundry, household cleaning, bathing, shaving, lawn-sprinkling, watering plants, toilet flushing and car washing, they begin to understand how 80 gallons can add up.

Larson, whose company provides water to consumers in parts of Mount Prospect and near Des Plaines, explains just how much water some of these uses require.

AN AVERAGE SHOWER uses up to 25 gallons of water, but that doesn't account for someone who runs it awhile before jumping in, or who uses it for water therapy or a think tank.

A tub bath takes more water to start, 35 gallons, but usually the level is constant, and you're not tempted to let the water run.

It only takes 15 gallons of water for the dishwasher, but you can count on 50 gallons of water for an average automatic washing machine to do one load of laundry.

It doesn't sound like much when you think that it takes 5 to 7 gallons of water to flush the toilet, but when you multiply that by the number of times it's done each day, there is a big difference.

"All of these uses of water are to be expected. That's why we have water in our homes. But you can economize by doing fewer partial loads of laundry, watching that the shower does not run overtime, or by remembering not to let the faucet in the kitchen run while you do other chores," Larson said.

YOU CAN ALSO save precious dollars by putting an end to the greatest waster of all. That's a leak. A drip of the faucet may seem just an annoyance in the still of the night, but you'd really be having nightmares if you realized that one drip a minute can waste 1,600 gallons in a month.

Larson has charted leaks and says that they squander water at a fantastic rate. At 50 pounds of pressure in a 24-hour period, a 1/32-inch leak wastes 170 gallons of water, a 1/16-inch leak wastes 600 gallons of water, and if you are unfortunate enough to have a 1/8-inch leak, you can lose a staggering 2,500 gallons of water in that same 24-hour period.

The best advice in these tight-money days is use only the water you and your family actually need. It is certainly the cheapest basic commodity. However, if you consider yourself a wise consumer, don't splash your money away unnecessarily.

Sell old home, buy new

Firms help transferees

Companies can be very generous with their employes when the situation calls for a family to make a move at the company's request.

"It all depends upon the company's policy regarding relocation," said Mary Jane Starck, relocation officer for Starck & Co.

According to the relocation officer, most companies pay for at least one and maybe two visits by the potential home buyer to a new area including food and lodging.

"Some pay the transferee's home closing costs when he moves, even pick up his existing home's monthly payments until it can be sold," she said.

ACCORDING TO Mrs. Starck, there are a variety of buy-sell arrangements between company and transferee but the most common way is for the company to have a third party, which is usually a specialist in such transactions, buy the employe's home and handle the transfer of equity to the new home.

Other ways sometimes include the company itself assuming the mortgage until a buyer can be found, advancing the equity on the old home until it can be sold, and even making the down payment on the new home until the old one is sold.

A few firms even purchase the old home outright or have a bank handle the details. In most cases, companies bear either all or part of home sale expenses for their transferees, said Mrs. Starck.

When it comes to moving expenses, most companies pay the entire bill within certain moving weight limits. Some even hire housecleaning services to spruce up the new home for its future owners.

"AND, OF COURSE, if it is a rush situation or an emergency where housing can't be readily located, many companies pay a portion or all of emergency lodging for the family."

"We get many requests for homes within easy access to O'Hare International airport because many transferees almost 'commute' daily to other cities. Our specialty is in the northwestern Cook County and southern Lake County regions," Mrs. Starck said.

Mrs. Starck says her department can function on as little as two to three hours notice but advises the potential homebuyer to allot at least one day for looking.

"If you want to get the most out of your visit, have an idea of what you're looking for in a home before you come: price, amenities and general location," she advised.

Two groups join MBA in servicing rights issue

Representatives from two major organizations have joined in support of a request by the Mortgage Bankers Assn. of America that mortgage bankers be allowed to service loans sold to the Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corp.

Kennon V. Rothchild, president of MBA, told the Senate Committee on Banking, Housing and Urban Affairs that savings and loan associations are deterred from taking a more active role in the secondary mortgage market because mortgages sold to FHLMC cannot be serviced by mortgage bankers. One of the principal functions of a mortgage banker is to service loans by collecting payments to be passed on to the investor.

During the hearings, Carl A. S. Coan, staff vice president and legislative counsel for the National Assn. of Home Builders, and Lorraine Legg, vice president for real estate, Boise Cascade Co., joined in supporting Rothchild's contention that mortgage bankers should be allowed to service loans sold to FHLMC.

Rothchild said that FHLMC's refusal to allow serving by mortgage bankers "is contrary to the avowed intent of Congress," and has resulted in a constricting of the secondary mortgage market.

One of the principal functions of a mortgage banker is to service loans by collecting payments to be passed on to the investor.

During the hearings, Carl A. S. Coan, staff vice president and legislative counsel for the National Assn. of Home Builders, and Lorraine Legg, vice president for real estate, Boise Cascade Co., joined in supporting Rothchild's contention that mortgage bankers should be allowed to service loans sold to FHLMC.

Rothchild said that FHLMC's refusal to allow serving by mortgage bankers "is contrary to the avowed intent of Congress," and has resulted in a constricting of the secondary mortgage market.

earn interest from the 1st.

It's one of the not-so-little things that make your money earn more at First Federal Savings. Each month all savings deposits in your passbook account received after the 1st and up through the 10th earn interest, compounded daily, from the 1st. (If left on deposit until the end of the quarter.) And, of course, your deposits would still earn at the high 5¼% annual rate from the date of deposit to the date of withdrawal even if deposited after the 10th.
You can even save-by-mail and we'll handle all postage and provide self-addressed envelopes. Your savings are insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation. Isn't it nice how little things add up at First Federal Savings of Des Plaines.

Deferring capital gains good strategy

by Don G. Campbell

Uncle Sam's tax collectors aren't entirely without mercy. You don't owe them anything after you're dead, for one thing.

And then there's the thing that keeps the real estate business alive — the deferment of capital gains in the buying and selling of homes.

Dear Mr. Campbell:

I'M SELLING MY home for $49,900 with a $3,000 mortgage left to pay on it. Should I buy a new home for $60,000 and start a new mortgage? If I put the $46,900 in the bank, or invest in stocks, I'll have to pay on income from about 22 per cent of it, according to the IRS tax table. If I reinvest part of the money into a new mortgage on a new home, then I can deduct mortgage interest, plus property tax, from my gross income.

I get $8,232 a year on Social Security as I am a widow with two dependents. I have $10,000 in bonds at 9 3/4 and 10¼ per cent, an annuity of $10,000, plus $35,000 in certificate of deposits at 7½ per cent. I also own a $20,000 townhouse that I rent for $300 a month and have $2,000 in income a year from a farm. What would you advise me to do? Do you think the new home is a good idea? They say property increases in value at about 8 per cent a year. Mrs. E.E. (Buffalo, N.Y.)

A. I don't think you really have much choice in the matter, do you? The profit on the sale of your home (and, of course, I don't know what that is) is taxed as a capital gain which simply means that half of it is tax-free and the balance is taxed at your normal rate — and 22 per cent sounds about right in your case. I assume, of course, that you are NOT counting the entire $46,900 as clear profit.

You're pretty comfortably situated, and I would buy a replacement house. As far as the IRS is concerned, you wouldn't necessarily have to go as high as $60,000 unless that's the house that you particularly want. As long as the new home is at least as expensive as the house you are selling — and as long as you replace it within 18 months — then you can defer the capital gains.

Dear Mr. Campbell:

WOULD YOU suggest an investment of buying an apartment building for supplementary income for a couple with four children, ages 2½ to 10? My husband is an electrical engineer, age 38. I am 32. His salary is a little more than $20,000 and we have a house now worth $55,000 to $60,000 which we have had for the past 10 years. We have $15,000 in government bonds and $5,000 in cash and a little stock. We would appreciate your views or a better suggestion. Mrs. E.D. (San Diego, Calif.)

A. You haven't given me a whole lot to go on, but I am less than enthralled with the idea. Frankly, I think you're a little too thinly capitalized to be getting into a venture like this — a working capital of $15,000 (you don't want to dip into your cash) doesn't suggest an apartment building large enough to be very profitable.

In the operation of an apartment building a good many of the costs are fixed to a large extent, which simply means that the margin of profit goes up disproportionately with the number of units. Or, conversely, the fewer the units the less the margin of profit. And, with a $15,000 downpayment, we're probably talking about a fourplex which, traditionally, is not a big money maker.

At your relatively young ages, I think you'd be better off, for the time being, taking your money out of the government bonds which, by no stretching of the imagination, can be called "growth" securities, and putting it into either good stocks in growing companies or into a growth-oriented mutual fund. Don't give up on real estate altogether — it CAN be a good investment. But wait awhile.

Dear Mr. Campbell:

MY SISTER bought a house from my aunt 15 years ago, signing a paper that she wouldn't raise the rent. After 15 years, is that paper still binding, as everything else has gone up? Would she be able to sell her house without her consent? Mrs. R.W. (Windsor, Conn.)

A. Without WHOSE consent? Am I right in assuming that your sister bought the house from her aunt and then turned around and rented it back to the aunt?

Of course, in hindsight, we can make the brilliant observation that no paper should ever be drawn up that didn't make the necessity of future increases in rent negotiable. I doubt very much, after 15 years, if the agreement has much validity — if it EVER did — and I certainly can't see why it would stop your sister from selling the place. The courts don't look kindly on contracts (if that's what this is) that stretch out into eternity.

Prospective home buyers should consider a great many factors besides the number of rooms in a home and the fact that it has a "darling" kitchen. What is planned for that neighborhood . . . what changes will be taking place? Perhaps a new freeway or major highway will go in nearby. Will a big new apartment building be built so close that congested streets and difficult parking result?

In general, changes in a neighborhood are planned and take place over a lengthy period. The wise buyer investigates to make sure his big investment isn't spoiled by unwelcome changes.

Broker gets commission in scrapped deal

Mr. Meltzer on real estate

by Bernard Meltzer

Many people run into trouble owing a broker a full commission, even when a deal falls through. Often an owner is unable to give possession of a property when he has promised it, and because of this settlement cannot take place.

DEAR MR. MELTZER: Some time ago we saw a sample house we loved and placed a deposit on one like it to be built for us. The builder told us we would have it in four months.

My husband and I put our house up for sale, thinking we would be in the new one in about four months. The broker sold it quickly, but when the time came to make settlement, we couldn't! Our new house was nowhere near finished, and we had no place to go.

I WILL SAY THAT the buyer of our house was pretty patient. But as the months passed, and our new house was no nearer to being ready for occupancy, the buyer became fed up and cancelled the sale. The broker returned his deposit.

Imagine our surprise when the broker approached us for his commission! How could he suggest such a thing? We are still in our old house, no settlement was ever made on the new one, and so everything remains as it always was.

The broker insists he is entitled to his commission. I'm sure you'll tell us he's just a money-hungry person. — MONEY FOR WHAT?

YOUR BROKER IS ENTIRELY correct. You do owe him his commission.

The fact that you were unable to deliver your old house to the buyer because the new house was not completed does not alter the fact that the broker fulfilled his part of the agreement. He produced a willing and qualified buyer.

If a buyer doubts his ability to deliver possession within a reasonable length of time, he usually protects himself by having a clause inserted in the agreement of sale, stating that if the property is not settled, the owner will not be liable for a commission.

Simply because a deal does not come to fruition because of the owner's inability to deliver possession does not protect him, nor does it alter the fact that the broker is entitled to his commission.

DEAR MR. MELTZER: Our kitchen has asphalt tile flooring. The time has come for it to be replaced.

We asked a salesman from a large company to give us an estimate for a new asphalt tile floor. When he came, he suggested that we use vinyl or vinyl-asbestos tile.

Do you think he suggested this because it's more expensive than asphalt tile? With all the stories circulating about "bait and switch" tactics, we are a little suspicious about acceding to the first suggestion made. That's why we thought we'd ask the expert. — WHAT SAY YOU?

The salesman was not trying to "take" you. He was right. In spite of the fact that asphalt tile was very popular for years, we have learned recently that it does not resist grease.

THEREFORE, VINYL or vinyl-asbestos tile is preferable to asphalt tile.

DEAR MR. MELTZER: Two years ago I moved to this city from the town where I grew up. I had been involved in an unfortunate love affair, and as a result, had given birth to a child. My baby's father was not willing to marry me, and so I left town, moved here and got a good job.

My baby boy is beautiful, I am making a fine salary, and I have a lovely woman looking after "Johnny" while I'm at work. I have even met a very fine gentleman who dates me quite regularly. It all sounds perfect, doesn't it?

Well, all clouds do not have silver linings. It seems that my landlord received an anonymous letter, telling him that my baby is illegitimate. He has demanded that my baby and I vacate the apartment. He claims that my lease (which still has a year to run) contains a "moral turpitude" clause, whatever that means.

I HAVE PUT A lot of money into this apartment, and I am very comfortable and happy here. Is there any way I can fight this person who thinks he has a right to judge me? — CLEAN-LIVING PERSON.

Though moral turpitude clauses may have been used to evict people in years gone buy, I doubt very much whether they would have any validity today.

I would advise you make light of your landlord's threats. I feel certain that no court would have you evicted today. You sound like a good person who is living a good life. You are doing your best to raise your child, whom you love. Stick by your guns, and you'll make it!

DEAR MR. MELTZER: My husband calls me "polar bear" because I love cold weather. As soon as that miserable, soggy heat is gone and nippy weather sets in, I come alive!

HOWEVER, THERE'S one thing I don't like about it. as soon as it gets cold, we get electric shocks all over the place. We can't walk across the carpeting without them. Why does that happen in winter, and not in stinky summer? — MRS. SHOCK.

One solution to these electric shocks, which relate to the lowered indoor humidity of winter, is to buy a portable humidifier. In an average house, two or three should serve the purpose.

If you have a duct heating system, having an automatic humidifier installed at the furnace would be the best possible solution. There are two types — one using a wet tray and the other an atomizing unit. Both require maintenance prior to each heating season.

DEAR MR. MELTZER: This is the first apartment we have lived in. We owned a house for 22 years, and when our children grew up and moved away, we sold it.

WE'RE THRILLED with the apartment. We don't have to worry about maintenance. We have much less work to do, and so we have more leisure time.

Since we are such novices, we're coming to you for advice. Our lease has another six months to go. Yesterday our landlord contacted us and advised us that our rent, as of next month, will be increased $30 per month. He explains the increase by telling us that his real estate taxes are higher, and that he has had to make many repairs to the building which were unexpected.

We love the apartment, but we've only been here six months, and another $30 a month comes as a blow to us! We were certainly under the impression that our rent would remain the same for the full year of the lease.

What is your opinion about this? — TAKEN BY SURPRISE.

Your landlord has no right to ask you for an increase without your consent. Your lease is a contract, and if your lease has six more months to go, he cannot increase your rent until that lease has expired.

The exception to that is if your lease contains an escalator clause.

Battles city over 'snafu'

Couple fights to keep home for elderly

by LANCE J. HERDEGEN

BROOKFIELD, Wis. (UPI) — Paul and Dorothy Rush are fighting a city order to move eight elderly women from their suburban home. The exasperated couple terms the situation a "bureaucratic snafu."

"It would be a shame, a real shame," Rush said if a city order to cease and terminate using his home as a group facility for the elderly is successful.

"This is their home," Rush said of the eight women living with him and his wife.

THE RUSHES have operated the home for adults since 1968, but city officials said they only recently became aware that the single-family residence is being used as a group home.

The Rushes were issued the order recently because the home did not comply with either state fire codes for such homes or with zoning restrictions, officials said.

But Rush said he hoped a compromise worked out recently with city officials will be successful. It would allow the women to remain, but Rush and the occupants would agree to hold the city free of any liability in connection with the home. Rush said he would install fire extinguishers and smoke detectors.

Brookfield Mayor William Mitchell Jr. said he would recommend to the council no punitive action be taken against the Rushes since they have agreed to comply with all regulations if a permit is granted.

"RUSH IS EXTREMELY cooperative, and we're sure we will be able to work something out so that the ladies won't lose their homes," said Mitchell. "We would hate to close down the home. It's a wonderful place with a family atmosphere. It's so much better than an institution."

Rush said he first started taking elderly persons into his home when his wife answered an ad placed by Waukesha County social services officials in 1968 seeking a residence for an elderly person.

The "foster homes" get some state and federal funds, but the occupants pool their money to pay for a variety of items, he said.

"It is such a wonderful idea," Rush said. "We estimate we save the state and federal governments between $20,000 to $30,000 a year by having the eight live in our home."

He also said running the home is not much of a profit-making operation.

"The truth is I've had to take money out of my own pocket at times," he said.

Keep those doors closed

Homeowners with electric baseboard are trying to reduce their bills by drastically reducing the temperature in some rooms when they are not being used, reports the Better Heating-Cooling Council.

If the doors to those rooms are kept open, they defeat their purpose because the heat from the other rooms flows into the cool areas, so the units in the warm rooms keep working overtime as the heat flows out.

Broker gets commission in scrapped deal

Mr. Meltzer on real estate

by Bernard Meltzer

Many people run into trouble owing a broker a full commission, even when a deal falls through. Often an owner is unable to give possession of a property when he has promised it, and because of this settlement cannot take place.

DEAR MR. MELTZER: Some time ago we saw a sample house we loved and placed a deposit on one like it to be built for us. The builder told us we would have it in four months.

My husband and I put our house up for sale, thinking we would be in the new one in about four months. The broker sold it quickly, but when the time came to make settlement, we couldn't! Our new house was nowhere near finished, and we had no place to go.

I WILL SAY THAT the buyer of our house was pretty patient. But as the months passed, and our new house was no nearer to being ready for occupancy, the buyer became fed up and cancelled the sale. The broker returned his deposit.

Imagine our surprise when the broker approached us for his commission! How could he suggest such a thing? We are still in our old house, no settlement was ever made on the new one, and so everything remains as it always was.

The broker insists he is entitled to his commission. I'm sure you'll tell us he's just a money-hungry person. — MONEY FOR WHAT?

YOUR BROKER IS ENTIRELY correct. You do owe him his commission.

The fact that you were unable to deliver your old house to the buyer because the new house was not completed does not alter the fact that the broker fulfilled his part of the agreement. He produced a willing and qualified buyer.

If a buyer doubts his ability to deliver possession within a reasonable length of time, he usually protects himself by having a clause inserted in the agreement of sale, stating that if the property is not settled, the owner will not be liable for a commission.

Simply because a deal does not come to fruition because of the owner's inability to deliver possession does not protect him, nor does it alter the fact that the broker is entitled to his commission.

DEAR MR. MELTZER: Our kitchen has asphalt tile flooring. The time has come for it to be replaced.

We asked a salesman from a large company to give us an estimate for a new asphalt tile floor. When he came, he suggested that we use vinyl or vinyl-asbestos tile.

Do you think he suggested this because it's more expensive than asphalt tile? With all the stories circulating about "bait and switch" tactics, we are a little suspicious about acceding to the first suggestion made. That's why we thought we'd ask the expert. — WHAT SAY YOU?

The salesman was not trying to "take" you. He was right. In spite of the fact that asphalt tile was very popular for years, we have learned recently that it does not resist grease.

THEREFORE, VINYL or vinyl-asbestos tile is preferable to asphalt tile.

DEAR MR. MELTZER: Two years ago I moved to this city from the town where I grew up. I had been involved in an unfortunate love affair, and as a result, had given birth to a child. My baby's father was not willing to marry me, and so I left town, moved here and got a good job.

My baby boy is beautiful, I am making a fine salary, and I have a lovely woman looking after "Johnny" while I'm at work. I have even met a very fine gentleman who dates me quite regularly. It all sounds perfect, doesn't it?

Well, all clouds do not have silver linings. It seems that my landlord received an anonymous letter, telling him that my baby is illegitimate. He has demanded that my baby and I vacate the apartment. He claims that my lease (which still has a year to run) contains a "moral turpitude" clause, whatever that means.

I HAVE PUT A lot of money into this apartment, and I am very comfortable and happy here. Is there any way I can fight this person who thinks he has a right to judge me? — CLEAN-LIVING PERSON.

Though moral turpitude clauses may have been used to evict people in years gone buy, I doubt very much whether they would have any validity today.

I would advise you make light of your landlord's threats. I feel certain that no court would have you evicted today. You sound like a good person who is living a good life. You are doing your best to raise your child, whom you love. Stick by your guns, and you'll make it!

DEAR MR. MELTZER: My husband calls me "polar bear" because I love cold weather. As soon as that miserable, soggy heat is gone and nippy weather sets in, I come alive!

HOWEVER, THERE'S one thing I don't like about it. as soon as it gets cold, we get electric shocks all over the place. We can't walk across the carpeting without them. Why does that happen in winter, and not in stinky summer? — MRS. SHOCK.

One solution to these electric shocks, which relate to the lowered indoor humidity of winter, is to buy a portable humidifier. In an average house, two or three should serve the purpose.

If you have a duct heating system, having an automatic humidifier installed at the furnace would be the best possible solution. There are two types — one using a wet tray and the other an atomizing unit. Both require maintenance prior to each heating season.

DEAR MR. MELTZER: This is the first apartment we have lived in. We owned a house for 22 years, and when our children grew up and moved away, we sold it.

WE'RE THRILLED with the apartment. We don't have to worry about maintenance. We have much less work to do, and so we have more leisure time.

Since we are such novices, we're coming to you for advice. Our lease has another six months to go. Yesterday our landlord contacted us and advised us that our rent, as of next month, will be increased $30 per month. He explains the increase by telling us that his real estate taxes are higher, and that he has had to make many repairs to the building which were unexpected.

We love the apartment, but we've only been here six months, and another $30 a month comes as a blow to us! We were certainly under the impression that our rent would remain the same for the full year of the lease.

What is your opinion about this? — TAKEN BY SURPRISE.

Your landlord has no right to ask you for an increase without your consent. Your lease is a contract, and if your lease has six more months to go, he cannot increase your rent until that lease has expired.

The exception to that is if your lease contains an escalator clause.

Battles city over 'snafu'

Couple fights to keep home for elderly

by LANCE J. HERDEGEN

BROOKFIELD, Wis. (UPI) — Paul and Dorothy Rush are fighting a city order to move eight elderly women from their suburban home. The exasperated couple terms the situation a "bureaucratic snafu."

"It would be a shame, a real shame," Rush said if a city order to cease and terminate using his home as a group facility for the elderly is successful.

"This is their home," Rush said of the eight women living with him and his wife.

THE RUSHES have operated the home for adults since 1968, but city officials said they only recently became aware that the single-family residence is being used as a group home.

The Rushes were issued the order recently because the home did not comply with either state fire codes for such homes or with zoning restrictions, officials said.

But Rush said he hoped a compromise worked out recently with city officials will be successful. It would allow the women to remain, but Rush and the occupants would agree to hold the city free of any liability in connection with the home. Rush said he would install fire extinguishers and smoke detectors.

Brookfield Mayor William Mitchell Jr. said he would recommend to the council no punitive action be taken against the Rushes since they have agreed to comply with all regulations if a permit is granted.

"RUSH IS EXTREMELY cooperative, and we're sure we will be able to work something out so that the ladies won't lose their homes," said Mitchell. "We would hate to close down the home. It's a wonderful place with a family atmosphere. It's so much better than an institution."

Rush said he first started taking elderly persons into his home when his wife answered an ad placed by Waukesha County social services officials in 1968 seeking a residence for an elderly person.

The "foster homes" get some state and federal funds, but the occupants pool their money to pay for a variety of items, he said.

He also said running the home is not much of a profit-making operation.

"The truth is I've had to take money out of my own pocket at times," he said.

Careful pruning helps

Bushes can make home noisy

It's your landscape
by George Creed

Have you ever sat in a house all alone on a blustery winter night and listened to the strange sounds that periodically greet your ears?

There are the creaking sounds that seem to come from the house. Then there are the scratching, swishing noises that originate from outside the house. These latter sounds are usually caused by shrub or tree branches scraping against the side of the house.

The shrub shown in sketch No. 1 is planted too close to the house. Its branches have grown out so they touch the side of the house. When the wind blows, the branches move and scrape against the house, making a noise. To eliminate the noisemaking, simply prune back the branches that are in contact with your house. To prevent such conditions with future plantings, keep them far enough away from the house so this can't happen.

HEAVY SNOW COVERING an evergreen planted close to a house will often cause it to bend over as in sketch No. 2. When this happens, the shrub not only looks unnatural and unattractive, but it is also subject to serious damage by subsequent snow loads. If you have an evergreen that is bent over in this way or is likely to be, protect it now by guying it against your house wall.

One method of doing this is shown in sketch No. 3. Here, No. 9 aluminum wire holds the tree in place. The wires are looped around the tree as shown in sketch No. 5 and fastened to the wall with screw eyes. Screw eyes should be cadmium-coated or otherwise treated so they will not rust. If the diameter of the evergreen is great enough, you can insert screw eyes into its trunk and fasten the guys to them instead of using the loop method. If you do use the method shown in sketch No. 5, be sure to use a piece of rubber hose to enclose the wire looped around the trunk. Otherwise, the bare wire will damage the plant and possibly kill it.

For a free-standing evergreen, as in sketch No. 4, that is in a position where it may be damaged by snow, use a sturdy stake well-pounded into the ground and fasten the evergreen to stake as illustrated.

Q. Is it too late to transplant arborvitaes?

A. Yes. Wait until spring.

Q. Why do leaves of my poinsettia turn yellow and fall off?

A. Probably because of dry air and too high temperature. Poinsettias do best when grown in a temperature of about 60 degrees.

Firm acquires share in projects

Urban Investment and Development Co., a subsidiary of Aetna Life and Casualty Co., has announced it is acquiring the interests of its major partners in four planned developments in the Chicago area.

Terms of the transaction, which becomes effective today, involved an undisclosed amunt of cash in excess of existing long and short term debt with the purchaser assuming obligations of the ventures.

Urban acquired the properties from Mafco, a subsidiary of Marshall Field and Co.; Sears, Roebuck and Co., and Sears' Homart Development Co. subsidiary.

THE ACQUISITIONS include:

- Mafco's two-thirds interest in Hawthorn Center, one-third interest in Orland Square and one-third interest in the acreage adjacent to Hawthorn Center, Orland Square and Fox Valley Center.
- Homart's one-third interest in Orland Square and adjacent acreage, and Homart's one-half interest in the River Oaks West development.
- Sears' two-thirds interest in Fox Valley Center and one-third interest in acreage adjacent to Hawthorn Center and Fox Valley Center.

Fox Valley Center, consisting of 1.5 million square feet of building area is a two-level enclosed mall near the Fox Valley Villages development, situated on the east side of Aurora, 35 miles west of Chicago.

The Orland Square shopping center is also a two-level enclosed unit. It is included in a 250-acre planned community 30 miles southwest of Chicago.

River Oaks West is situated 20 miles south of Chicago, adjacent to Urban's River Oaks Center, a regional shopping center.

Joseph A. Burnham, president of Marshall Field, said the sale of the real estate properties were made at this time, "to enable us to concentrate our resources on retailing, our principal activity."

William A. Toombs, president of Homart, said:

"We feel at this time that our long-term corporate goals can best be met by concentrating exclusively on those projects that include only shopping centers."

123% profit hike for Home Corp.

U.S. Home Corp. (NYSE) has reported continued profit improvement for its third quarter and nine months ended Nov. 30.

For the nine-month period, earnings rose to $6,919,000, an increase of 123 per cent over net income of $3,102,000 for the same period last year. Earnings per share, fully diluted, increased to 68 cents for the first three quarters of this year compared with 31 cents per share last year. Total sales and operating revenues for the first nine months of this year were $268,555,000 compared with $225,791,000 for the first three quarters of last year.

For the quarter ended Nov. 30, net income of $2,273,000 represents a gain of 49 per cent over profits of $1,525,000 for the comparable quarter last year. Per share earnings, fully diluted, climbed to 22 cents against 15 cents last year. Revenues for the third quarter of this year were $92,412,000, compared with $82,612,000 in the third quarter of last year.

The profits for the nine months and the quarter were the best reported by the company since the comparable periods in 1973.

Calling the results for both periods "extremely gratifying," Charles Rutenberg, chairman of U.S. Home Corp., also disclosed that orders for new housing reached record third quarter levels and deliveries of housing units were also up significantly over the comparable period last year.

He also said that the company's backlog of unfilled orders had increased to 2,322 units at November 30, compared to 2,029 at Nov. 30 last year.

Headquartered in Clearwater, Fla., U.S. Home Corp. is the nation's largest home builder. It has operations in Arizona, Texas, Colorado, Illinois, Minnesota, New Jersey, the Washington, D.C. area and Florida.

Careful pruning helps

Bushes can make home noisy

It's your landscape
by George Creed

Have you ever sat in a house all alone on a blustery winter night and listened to the strange sounds that periodically greet your ears?

There are the creaking sounds that seem to come from the house. Then there are the scratching, swishing noises that originate from outside the house. These latter sounds are usually caused by shrub or tree branches scraping against the side of the house.

The shrub shown in sketch No. 1 is planted too close to the house. Its branches have grown out so they touch the side of the house. When the wind blows, the branches move and scrape against the house, making a noise. To eliminate the noisemaking, simply prune back the branches that are in contact with your house. To prevent such conditions with future plantings, keep them far enough away from the house so this can't happen.

HEAVY SNOW COVERING an evergreen planted close to a house will often cause it to bend over as in sketch No. 2. When this happens, the shrub not only looks unnatural and unattractive, but it is also subject to serious damage by subsequent snow loads. If you have an evergreen that is bent over in this way or is likely to be, protect it now by guying it against your house wall.

One method of doing this is shown in sketch No. 3. Here, No. 9 aluminum wire holds the tree in place. The wires are looped around the tree as shown in sketch No. 5 and fastened to the wall with screw eyes. Screw eyes should be cadmium-coated or otherwise treated so they will not rust. If the diameter of the evergreen is great enough, you can insert screw eyes into its trunk and fasten the guys to them instead of using the loop method. If you do use the method shown in sketch No. 5, be sure to use a piece of rubber hose to enclose the wire looped around the trunk. Otherwise, the bare wire will damage the plant and possibly kill it.

For a free-standing evergreen, as in sketch No. 4, that is in a position where it may be damaged by snow, use a sturdy stake well-pounded into the ground and fasten the evergreen to stake as illustrated.

Q. Is it too late to transplant arborvitaes?

A. Yes. Wait until spring.

Q. Why do leaves of my poinsettia turn yellow and fall off?

A. Probably because of dry air and too high temperature. Poinsettias do best when grown in a temperature of about 60 degrees.

Firm acquires share in projects

Urban Investment and Development Co., a subsidiary of Aetna Life and Casualty Co., has announced it is acquiring the interests of its major partners in four planned developments in the Chicago area.

Terms of the transaction, which becomes effective today, involved an undisclosed amunt of cash in excess of existing long and short term debt with the purchaser assuming obligations of the ventures.

Urban acquired the properties from Mafco, a subsidiary of Marshall Field and Co.; Sears, Roebuck and Co., and Sears' Homart Development Co. subsidiary.

THE ACQUISITIONS include:

- Mafco's two-thirds interest in Hawthorn Center, one-third interest in Orland Square and one-third interest in the acreage adjacent to Hawthorn Center, Orland Square and Fox Valley Center.
- Homart's one-third interest in Orland Square and adjacent acreage, and Homart's one-half interest in the River Oaks West development.
- Sears' two-thirds interest in Fox Valley Center and one-third interest in acreage adjacent to Hawthorn Center and Fox Valley Center.

Fox Valley Center, consisting of 1.5 million square feet of building area is a two-level enclosed mall near the Fox Valley Villages development, situated on the east side of Aurora, 35 miles west of Chicago.

The Orland Square shopping center is also a two-level enclosed unit. It is included in a 250-acre planned community 30 miles southwest of Chicago.

River Oaks West is situated 20 miles south of Chicago, adjacent to Urban's River Oaks Center, a regional shopping center.

Joseph A. Burnham, president of Marshall Field, said the sale of the real estate properties were made at this time, "to enable us to concentrate our resources on retailing, our principal activity."

William A. Toombs, president of Homart, said:

"We feel at this time that our long-term corporate goals can best be met by concentrating exclusively on those projects that include only shopping centers."

123% profit hike for Home Corp.

U.S. Home Corp. (NYSE) has reported continued profit improvement for its third quarter and nine months ended Nov. 30.

For the nine-month period, earnings rose to $6,919,000, an increase of 123 per cent over net income of $3,102,000 for the same period last year. Earnings per share, fully diluted, increased to 68 cents for the first three quarters of this year compared with 31 cents per share last year. Total sales and operating revenues for the first nine months of this year were $268,555,000 compared with $225,791,000 for the first three quarters of last year.

For the quarter ended Nov. 30, net income of $2,273,000 represents a gain of 49 per cent over profits of $1,525,000 for the comparable quarter last year. Per share earnings, fully diluted, climbed to 22 cents against 15 cents last year. Revenues for the third quarter of this year were $92,412,000, compared with $82,612,000 in the third quarter of last year.

The profits for the nine months and the quarter were the best reported by the company since the comparable periods in 1973.

Calling the results for both periods "extremely gratifying," Charles Rutenberg, chairman of U.S. Home Corp., also disclosed that orders for new housing reached record third quarter levels and deliveries of housing units were also up significantly over the comparable period last year.

He also said that the company's backlog of unfilled orders had increased to 2,322 units at November 30, compared to 2,029 at Nov. 30 last year.

Headquartered in Clearwater, Fla., U.S. Home Corp. is the nation's largest home builder. It has operations in Arizona, Texas, Colorado, Illinois, Minnesota, New Jersey, the Washington, D.C. area and Florida.

Alfreda Smith

ALFREDA SMITH has been named residential sales leader for September at the Arlington Heights office of Wm. L. Kunkel & Co., Realtors. This is the second time that Mrs. Smith has achieved the honor of sales leader of the month since joining Kunkel in August.

A recent realtor-associate, Mrs. Smith is a graduate of Metropolitan Business College, the Kansas City Art Institute and Northwestern University.

Mrs. Smith resides in Des Plaines with her husband and two children.

Morris Replogle

MORRIS J. REPLOGLE, sales coordinator in Gladstone, Realtors' Elk Grove Village office, has been named assistant manager at that office.

Replogle hit the $1,000,000 sales mark for 1976. A graduate in business administration from Manchester College, Replogle was personnel manager for a Downers Grove firm before joining Gladstone.

Replogle, his wife Sharon and their three children live in Rolling Meadows. They are active members of the Community Church of Rolling Meadows.

Robert Dohn

ROBERT C. DOHN, manager of Gladstone, Realtors' Elk Grove Village office, recently participated in a three-day educational program. He attended the Realtors' National Marketing Institute's course on "Leadership and Communications in Management."

A graduate of St. Viator High School in Arlington Heights, Dohn studied at DePaul University before entering the real estate field. At 25 he was promoted from sales associate to office manager, the youngest manager ever named at Gladstone.

Melting roof snow sign of escaping heat

Don't envy your neighbor whose snow is melting profusely down his roof, while your roof is covered with the white stuff. His quick melting shows that too much of his heat is escaping up through the roof, keeping the outside warm, and burning plenty of fuel to do it.

If the shoe is on the other foot, however, and your home heating is being wasted through the roof, you'd better look to the insulation in your attic, urges the Better Heating-Cooling Council.

There's nobody else like you . . .
Because you're different,
we are also.
Come to Starck & Co. for understanding attention that saves time and money.

Selling a home?

Whatever your reasons are for selling, Starck & Co. has more special benefits for you:

A. Buying New Home From Builder?
Our Home Purchase Plan is ideal for people like you. We give you a guaranteed purchase contract for your present home that insures that you will have funds to complete the purchase of the new home when it's ready and know that your old property is positively sold. And Starck & Co. makes the sale so very easy. You go on and live a normal life while we expertly and efficiently market the home. You're free to plan the new colors in the new home and get ready to move.

B. Buying a Larger or Smaller Home?
Change takes place in all our lives. Children arrive, grow up and all too soon depart. Starck & Co. is expert in helping you move up, down or sideways. Our Guarantee Purchase Plan is your assurance that you will never own two homes with double mortgage payments. If we don't sell your home, we'll buy it. The two moves are carefully coordinated by your Starck & Co. Associate and our Closing Dept.

C. Transferred or Leaving the Area?
Hundreds of thousands of families do this very thing every year and maybe you're an old hand at the game. We're a part of RELO, the largest network of quality Realtors in the world (over 3500 branch offices in the U.S. and overseas). Thus, we can help you on both ends. We can help you get important data on your new hometown and put you in touch with a friendly representative from our branch office in that city. Then we can give you a Guarantee Sale contract on your present home so that your equity money will be available when you have selected your new home and are ready to move.

D. Retiring or Moving to an Apartment?
We can help you find a comfortable and efficient rental unit in this area or anywhere in the world, thanks to RELO. Again, our Home Purchase Plan is your assurance that if we don't sell your home that we will buy it.

E. Separating or Divorcing?
You know that you have lots of company these days. Starck & Co. is sensitive to the emotional and legal problems that may be involved and will work with care and understanding with you and your attorneys. We'll help you sell the old house quickly and easily and can assist in locating whatever new housing is desired.

Buying a Home?

Starck & Co. knows there are numerous reasons for wanting to buy. We offer unique services that fit your special situation.

A. Ready to Buy Your First Home?
This will be one of the smartest things you have ever done. Home ownership has started millions of American families on the road to happiness and economic savings. A Starck & Co. Associate can compute exactly how much you can afford to purchase and what your monthly savings will amount to . . . you will probably be astounded! We are expert at arranging easy financing that will make it all possible for you . . . our financing connections are the very best.

B. Buying a Larger or Smaller Home?
Has the new baby suddenly made things pretty tight? Has the new promotion made possible a larger home or something in another area? Or have the children gotten married and all of a sudden things are very quiet and empty? Nowadays folks don't live in a home for a lifetime, but buy and sell and move around as their needs change. Again, our Guarantee Purchase Plan makes it easy. And we can help you find a new home anywhere in Chicagoland thanks to RELO.

C. Transferring to Chicagoland?
Welcome to one of the most dynamic and exciting areas in the whole USA. We understand that you have a separate set of problems and may have emotional stress that needs care and consideration. We have a Corporate Relocation Dept. that is geared to handle your every need and provide answers to whatever information you need to make a wise decision. The home we find for you will be one that you will love and cherish, will be a sound investment and can be readily resold.

D. Ready for a Townhome, Condominium or Quad?
These are wonderful solutions for lots of folks and we do a big business in finding just the right property and environment for people like you. We know all about association dues, fees and services so that you will get good sound advice to make a selection that will give you years of comfortable easy living without any unforeseen costs or problems.

E. Investors
We think that real estate is the greatest investment in the world but that doesn't mean that every piece of real estate is a good investment (remember the REIT's?). If you have spare funds that you feel might be invested in real estate, we can advise and assist you. We'll gladly explain the various options you have and what each type of property might do for your investment portfolio. We even publish a monthly Investment Newsletter that keeps you informed about real estate. A call to your nearest Starck & Co. office will put you on our mailing list for this free publication.

AT LAST:
A Florida Condominium we can heartily endorse.

As winter approaches, the lure of Florida sand and surf is getting stronger.
And now, there is a Florida development Gladstone, Realtors can enthusiastically recommend.
We have visited this beachfront condominium on the Gulf of Mexico and investigated it thoroughly.
The Sarasota location on Siesta Key's famed Crescent Beach is magnificent. As are the elegant condominium residences and recreation facilities. Not surprisingly, it is enjoying a remarkable sales success. One we believe its value justifies.

THE INDIAN LAKES Country Club's banquet//coonvention center was cited in a recent award presented to the club by the Associated Landscape Contractors of America, Inc.

New center cited

Indian Lakes Club wins award

Indian Lakes Country Club was recently announced a winner of the 1976 Environmental Improvement Awards sponsored by the Associated Landscape Contractors of America, Inc.

Indian Lakes' new banquet/convention center was cited as an example of quality achievement in landscape contracting for its four uniquely landscaped outdoor gardens, created by Church Landscaping Co., Inc., also winner of an award. Plaques will be presented to both project owner and landscape contractor at the Awards Ceremony on January 26, 1977, in Palm Springs, Calif.

Indian Lakes' new bi-level facility is designed to accommodate groups of 10 to 1,200 for all occasions. The interior decor is characterized as a recreation of the outdoors with an abundance of tropical plant life complemented by the use of natural earth tone colors.

Indian Lakes Country Club is owned and operated by Carson International, Inc., an enterprise of Carson Pirie Scott & Co. It is located at 232 W. Schick Rd. in Bloomingdale.

New locations for institute class planned

Two new locations for the Chicago Real Estate Board/Hall Institute of Real Estate sales transactions course in Des Plaines and Skokie highlight the January-February 1977 school schedule, announced by Chicago Real Estate Board (CREB) Pres. Richard A. Rauch.

Successful completion of the 30-hour sales transactions course is required by the State of Illinois before a person may take the state examination for a real estate sales license.

The new locations are in Des Plaines at the Royal Court Inn, Ill. Rte. 83 at Oakton Boulevard and in Skokie at the Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge near the Old Orchard Shopping Center.

Realtor Frank Lynn, Jr., director of education said the expansion had become necessary due to the dramatic increase in the number of students attending the school, particularly in the Northern suburbs. Since 1974 the course has more than doubled in enrollment and faculty size. Enrollment for 1976 was over 1,300 students, while the faculty has increased to 28 instructors in 1977, more than half of whom are attorneys.

In addition to the two new locations, CREB and the institute will continue to offer the sales transactions course at its six other Chicago area locations: north at Kendall College in Evanston, northwest at Felician College in Chicago, and near north at Francis Parker School in Lincoln Park. The south side locations are the Ford City Holiday Inn and the Center for Continuing Education in Hyde Park. Classes also are held monthly in the Loop at 18 S. Michigan Ave.

Tuition for the course is $110, which includes textbooks and all course materials.

The institute is fully approved by both the State of Illinois and the Dept. of Registration and Education. For further information about the complete curriculum offered by CREB/Hall, contact the school by calling 236-4692.

Which fuel is best?

Are you being urged to switch? With the growing cost of energy for heat and hot water, many homeowners are in a quandry when a salesman explains about the economies of the type of energy he is trying to sell.

There are simple conversion factors which help you determine how much heat you will get for your dollar, says the Better Heating-Cooling Council, if you know how much you are using of your present fuel. Multiply the total amount you used for heating last year by the conversion factor, based purely on the Btu content of each form of energy.

THE INDIAN LAKES Country Club's banquet//coonvention center was cited in a recent award presented to the club by the Associated Landscape Contractors of America, Inc.

New center cited

Indian Lakes Club wins award

Indian Lakes Country Club was recently announced a winner of the 1976 Environmental Improvement Awards sponsored by the Associated Landscape Contractors of America, Inc.

Indian Lakes' new banquet/convention center was cited as an example of quality achievement in landscape contracting for its four uniquely landscaped outdoor gardens, created by Church Landscaping Co., Inc., also winner of an award. Plaques will be presented to both project owner and landscape contractor at the Awards Ceremony on January 26, 1977, in Palm Springs, Calif.

Indian Lakes' new bi-level facility is designed to accommodate groups of 10 to 1,200 for all occasions. The interior decor is characterized as a recreation of the outdoors with an abundance of tropical plant life complemented by the use of natural earth tone colors.

Indian Lakes Country Club is owned and operated by Carson International, Inc., an enterprise of Carson Pirie Scott & Co. It is located at 232 W. Schick Rd. in Bloomingdale.

New locations for institute class planned

Two new locations for the Chicago Real Estate Board/Hall Institute of Real Estate sales transactions course in Des Plaines and Skokie highlight the January-February 1977 school schedule, announced by Chicago Real Estate Board (CREB) Pres. Richard A. Rauch.

Successful completion of the 30-hour sales transactions course is required by the State of Illinois before a person may take the state examination for a real estate sales license.

The new locations are in Des Plaines at the Royal Court Inn, Ill. Rte. 83 at Oakton Boulevard and in Skokie at the Howard Johnson's Motor Lodge near the Old Orchard Shopping Center.

Realtor Frank Lynn, Jr., director of education said the expansion had become necessary due to the dramatic increase in the number of students attending the school, particularly in the Northern suburbs. Since 1974 the course has more than doubled in enrollment and faculty size. Enrollment for 1976 was over 1,300 students, while the faculty has increased to 28 instructors in 1977, more than half of whom are attorneys.

In addition to the two new locations, CREB and the institute will continue to offer the sales transactions course at its six other Chicago area locations: north at Kendall College in Evanston, northwest at Felician College in Chicago, and near north at Francis Parker School in Lincoln Park. The south side locations are the Ford City Holiday Inn and the Center for Continuing Education in Hyde Park. Classes also are held monthly in the Loop at 18 S. Michigan Ave.

Tuition for the course is $110, which includes textbooks and all course materials.

The institute is fully approved by both the State of Illinois and the Dept. of Registration and Education. For further information about the complete curriculum offered by CREB/Hall, contact the school by calling 236-4692.

Which fuel is best?

Are you being urged to switch? With the growing cost of energy for heat and hot water, many homeowners are in a quandry when a salesman explains about the economies of the type of energy he is trying to sell.

There are simple conversion factors which help you determine how much heat you will get for your dollar, says the Better Heating-Cooling Council, if you know how much you are using of your present fuel. Multiply the total amount you used for heating last year by the conversion factor, based purely on the Btu content of each form of energy.

Million dollar club

Howard Kagay

HOWARD KAGAY, sales manager in Baird & Warner's Arlington Heights office, chalked up $2 million in completed real estate sales for the fifth consecutive year. 1976 was also the ninth successive year in which Kagay, a life-long resident of the Arlington Heights area, has posted $1 million or more in sales.

Kagay has been active in real estate sales for the past 20 years. He was named manager of Baird & Warner's Arlington Heights office in January 1973. Kagay is a life member of the Million Dollar Club of the Illinois Association of Realtors and also has his GRI designation. He is serving as secretary of the MAP Multiple Listing Service.

He and his wife Rachel and three children reside in Arlington Heights.

William Kabat

WILLIAM KABAT, sales associate in Baird & Warner's Arlington Heights office, has been named to the company's Million Dollar Club for 1976.

Kabat has reached the million dollar circle for four consecutive years and is a lifetime member in the company and Illinois Association of Realtors' Million Dollar Club.

Kabat completed the required courses and has a GRI. He also is active in the Arlington Heights Jaycees. A member of St. Edna's Catholic Church, he lives in Arlington Heights with his wife Gerri and their two children.

ANNEN & BUSSE, Inc., Realtors, added Paul Wavra and Manette Christiansen to their list of Million Dollar Sales Club members for 1976.

Wavra, sales associate in the Schaumburg office for the past two years, reached this high goal for the second time in his real estate career. He and his wife are residents of the Schaumburg area. Before entering the real estate sales field, he was a teacher and counselor of physically handicapped children.

Mrs. Christiansen, serving in the Mount Prospect location, exceeded her million dollar sales mark late in November for the third time in her real estate career. She has been a part of the ANNEN & BUSSE team since 1968 and a long-time resident of Mount Prospect. She and her husband, Bill, raised their family in the area and have been quite active both civically and socially.

Steam engine aided inside plumbing

Andy sends the Encyclopaedia Britannica's 1976 Yearbook of Science and the Future to Kelly Krolicki, 8, of Portland, Me., for her question:

WHO INVENTED INSIDE PLUMBING?

Indoor plumbing was not "invented." It evolved over the centuries as man's needs became more sophisticated and cities became more complex.

The most important developments to influence modern plumbing were made some 3,000 years ago by the Greeks and the Romans. They supplied large quantities of water to their cities and towns by means of a large channel or pipe called an aqueduct. Water flowed from rivers, or melted snow, down to its desired location by gravity.

The water was distributed to buildings and community centers by lead pipes. Today, lead is no longer used because small amounts of lead may dissolve in the water, and even minute quantities of lead can be dangerous to health. Modern pipe is usually copper, cast iron or plastic.

WITH THE DECLINE of the Roman Empire by the 5th century A.D., the advanced water systems were abandoned. A thousand years later London reconstructed much of the piping system built by the Romans, even using Roman plans in the process.

The invention of the steam engine in the late 1800s paved the way for modern plumbing. With the steam engine, water could be pumped through pipes to any place it was needed. Before this, man depended on the pull of gravity to control the water's flow.

The first plumbing fixture in the United States was the kitchen sink, which meant cooking and cleaning up could be done without hauling in water from outside. Then came the bathtub, a square boxlike affair made of wood and lined with lead, tin or copper. In 1871 a patent was granted for a water closet. This was not the "first" modern toilet by any means, however — in the late 1500s an Englishman, Sir John Harrington, proposed one, and 200 years later a London watchmaker patented a toilet with a trap.

Andy sends a Student Globe to Sue Boyle, 10, of Sioux City, Iowa, for her question:

HOW ARE CRAYONS MADE?

If you had a picture of Andy to color, you might color his suit and pixie hat green and his boots brown. Then again you might like red or blue or even purple — it makes no difference. With the wide variety of colored crayons available today you could color the same picture hundreds of times and never use the same combination twice. In the early part of this century, however, your choice would have been easy — there was only one waxy crayon and its color was black. And about the only persons to use them were storekeepers who marked prices with them.

Modern crayons are made from colored pigment and wax. Each batch starts out as a kettle full of hot wax and a coloring pigment. The coloring pigment is measured very carefully to make sure that each color will always be the same. After mixing and stirring until everything is thoroughly blended, the liquid wax is poured onto mold tables that have hundreds of crayon-sized holes. After they are dry they are pushed out of the holes, inspected and sent to machines that wrap and box them. If you have a super-sized crayon box you might have as many as 72 different colors to choose from.

The unlucky expert had caught us for the last time in 1976. Maybe, we can get him to leave us alone in 1977, though we doubt it.

This time he held the very nice North hand with 150 honors in each of the major suits.

Here is his tale of woe.

"Normally, I would get a chance to bid both spades and hearts, but my partner started the ball rolling with a bid of four diamonds. I bid four notrump to see if he held an ace and he showed one. Now wht was I going to do?"

We suggested the famous bid of six spearts to let partner choose which major suit for the slam to play in, but he wasn't in the mood for humor.

He continued: "I was afraid to try either major suit. Five cards might not be enough so I went to six diamonds. West opened the king of clubs. East signalled viciously with the queen. A second club was led. South had to use one of my trumps to ruff and there was no way to keep East from making his trump king while the slam would have been wrapped up in either major suit."

Of course, our unfortunate friend was wrong. A diamond lead would beat the slam in either major suit.

A Georgia reader wants to know if it is ever proper to finesse by leading from the ace toward the queen.

If you hold ace and two small and dummy queen and two small the way to get two tricks in the suit is to lead toward the queen. This isn't really a finesse, but it is the way to play for that extra trick.

'Ren Cen'—Detroit's panacea?

by DON OAKLEY

DETROIT — (NEA) — This is a city of vivid contrasts.

As sharply delineated as the soaring towers of a spectacular skyscraper complex — Renaissance Center — nearing completion on the riverfront. Or the flat squares of abandoned lots one can see from its vantage point.

As extreme as hope and despair, growth and decay, security and fear.

ONE GOES SOUTH from Detroit to reach Canada. One goes in any other direction to escape despair, decay and fear, as 20 per cent of Detroit's population, both black and white, have done since 1950 — but not as many blacks as whites, since the nation's fifth largest city, hard-pressed for that ranking by vigorous Houston, is now more than half black.

One goes up, however, literally up to the skies, to find rebirth, or the promise of it.

If it is possible to be unconcerned about the fate of Detroit, whose problems after all are only those of a hundred other cities, if on a magnified scale, it is impossible to be unexcited by the Renaissance Center.

At the core, a 70-story circular glass hotel — the Detroit Plaza — scheduled to be opened in March, 1977. Surrounding it, four lesser office towers, already partially occupied. At the base, a 14-acre "podium," with parking garages, restaurants, entertainment faciities and space for 100 retail stores in an enclosed three-level shopping mall.

A THIRD AGAIN as large as New York's Rockefeller Center, three times as large as Atlanta's Peachtree Center. At $337 million the largest privately financed project in history, the brainchild of Henry Ford II and 51 corporate members of the Renaissance Center Partnership.

Despite the massiveness of it all, and even amid the jumble and dirt of construction, the surprising impression is one of airiness and light. The best place to view the RenCen (as Detroiters, perhaps to reduce it to more humanly comprehensible terms, call it) is actually from inside it, from the atrium at the hotel's base. This is an eight-story skylighted expanse, crisscrossed by aerial walkways high above a giant reflecting pool, hanging gardens and cocktail pods.

From anywhere within it, a different vista of the outer glass towers, of reflection upon reflection, dazzles and redazzles the visitor. This is the brainchild of John Portman Associates of Atlanta, designers of famed Peachtree.

They call it the "Jesus Christ school of architecture," for that is the name everyone invokes, and in no irreverent sense, upon first entering the atrium.

This is what architecture ought to be, one thinks. And inevitably: if the mind and hand of man are capable of this, surely a city can be saved.

NO ONE, of course, including its planners, thinks that the Renaissance Center alone will revitalize Detroit. Some people, in fact, are afraid it may do just the opposite, that instead of radiating a spirit of renewal outward it will become a thing unto itself, drawing off business energy from the rest of downtown and thus accelerating the decay it is designed to reverse.

Nor do buildings, however grandiose, a city make. A city is people, and if people cannot live decently in the city, if they cannot find work there, if they are afraid to walk its streets, the decay goes far deeper than brick or stone.

Last August, black gangs invaded a rock concert at Cobo Hall, within the very shadow of Renaissance Center, robbing, raping, terrorizing the white audience. For those who were there, or who merely read about it, it will be a long time before they venture downtown again for any reason.

Where were the police? Nearly 1,000 out of a force of 5,000 were laid off in July to help the city balance its budget. Where is the money that could have kept them? Gone north and east and west with Detroit's fleeing middle-class taxpayers, gone with the jobs Detroit lost or did not gain because of the recession.

Even more ominous for Detroit in this past summer of discontent was announced closing of 15 schools and the severe trimming of the budgets of others because citizens again defeated a tax increase, continuing the pattern of a decade. Despite special appeals to blacks and ethnic groups, few people even bothered to vote.

Yet a new beginning has to be made somewhere, and what a beginning is Renaissance Center. If it does more than pump new money into Detroit — if it can also inspire new pride in Detroiters, whose city still has much that is beautiful and much to offer in the way of culture — it will truly have earned its name.

If not, it will only stand as a magnificent monument to what could have been.

by DON OAKLEY

DETROIT — (NEA) — This is a city of vivid contrasts.

As sharply delineated as the soaring towers of a spectacular skyscraper complex — Renaissance Center — nearing completion on the riverfront. Or the flat squares of abandoned lots one can see from its vantage point.

As extreme as hope and despair, growth and decay, security and fear.

ONE GOES SOUTH from Detroit to reach Canada. One goes in any other direction to escape despair, decay and fear, as 20 per cent of Detroit's population, both black and white, have done since 1950 — but not as many blacks as whites, since the nation's fifth largest city, hard-pressed for that ranking by vigorous Houston, is now more than half black.

One goes up, however, literally up to the skies, to find rebirth, or the promise of it.

If it is possible to be unconcerned about the fate of Detroit, whose problems after all are only those of a hundred other cities, if on a magnified scale, it is impossible to be unexcited by the Renaissance Center.

At the core, a 70-story circular glass hotel — the Detroit Plaza — scheduled to be opened in March, 1977. Surrounding it, four lesser office towers, already partially occupied. At the base, a 14-acre "podium," with parking garages, restaurants, entertainment faciities and space for 100 retail stores in an enclosed three-level shopping mall.

A THIRD AGAIN as large as New York's Rockefeller Center, three times as large as Atlanta's Peachtree Center. At $337 million the largest privately financed project in history, the brainchild of Henry Ford II and 51 corporate members of the Renaissance Center Partnership.

Despite the massiveness of it all, and even amid the jumble and dirt of construction, the surprising impression is one of airiness and light. The best place to view the RenCen (as Detroiters, perhaps to reduce it to more humanly comprehensible terms, call it) is actually from inside it, from the atrium at the hotel's base. This is an eight-story skylighted expanse, crisscrossed by aerial walkways high above a giant reflecting pool, hanging gardens and cocktail pods.

From anywhere within it, a different vista of the outer glass towers, of reflection upon reflection, dazzles and redazzles the visitor. This is the brainchild of John Portman Associates of Atlanta, designers of famed Peachtree.

They call it the "Jesus Christ school of architecture," for that is the name everyone invokes, and in no irreverent sense, upon first entering the atrium.

This is what architecture ought to be, one thinks. And inevitably: if the mind and hand of man are capable of this, surely a city can be saved.

NO ONE, of course, including its planners, thinks that the Renaissance Center alone will revitalize Detroit. Some people, in fact, are afraid it may do just the opposite, that instead of radiating a spirit of renewal outward it will become a thing unto itself, drawing off business energy from the rest of downtown and thus accelerating the decay it is designed to reverse.

Nor do buildings, however grandiose, a city make. A city is people, and if people cannot live decently in the city, if they cannot find work there, if they are afraid to walk its streets, the decay goes far deeper than brick or stone.

Last August, black gangs invaded a rock concert at Cobo Hall, within the very shadow of Renaissance Center, robbing, raping, terrorizing the white audience. For those who were there, or who merely read about it, it will be a long time before they venture downtown again for any reason.

Where were the police? Nearly 1,000 out of a force of 5,000 were laid off in July to help the city balance its budget. Where is the money that could have kept them? Gone north and east and west with Detroit's fleeing middle-class taxpayers, gone with the jobs Detroit lost or did not gain because of the recession.

Even more ominous for Detroit in this past summer of discontent was announced closing of 15 schools and the severe trimming of the budgets of others because citizens again defeated a tax increase, continuing the pattern of a decade. Despite special appeals to blacks and ethnic groups, few people even bothered to vote.

Yet a new beginning has to be made somewhere, and what a beginning is Renaissance Center. If it does more than pump new money into Detroit — if it can also inspire new pride in Detroiters, whose city still has much that is beautiful and much to offer in the way of culture — it will truly have earned its name.

If not, it will only stand as a magnificent monument to what could have been.

U.S. arrests captain of oil tanker

by United Press International

The captain of the Liberian-registered tanker Olympic Games was arrested Wednesday on charges connected with the spill of 133,500 gallons of oil into the Delaware River south of Philadelphia.

The Olympic Games was one of five tankers of Liberian registry to run into trouble in or near American waters the past two weeks. The latest incident was reported Wednesday when the tanker Daphne carrying a 14 million gallon cargo ran aground on the south coast of Puerto Rico.

U.S. Atty. David W. Marston of Philadelphia said the captain, identified only as V. Vlimas, was taken into custody by U.S. marshals aboard the tanker Olympic Games, which was docked at a refinery in Marcus Hook, Pa. Marston said the captain was charged with violation of two federal pollution statutes. He said the statutes impose "strict criminal liability regardless of whether the spill was accidental or intentional."

Marston said the maximum penalty under the laws were a $12,000 fine and 12 years in prison.

THE TANKER, carrying about 17 million gallons of light Arabian crude oil, ran aground Monday as it attempted to dock at the refinery. The resulting 22-mile oil slick threatened wildlife, marshlands and the shorelines of three states.

In Puerto Rico, the U.S. Coast Guard said no oil had spilled from the 31,289-ton, Liberian-registered Daphne and crews were working to refloat the vessel in Guyanilla Bay, where it ran aground Tuesday night.

The Coast Guard boarded the Daphne to make sure the captain did not try to dump his cargo. A Coast Guard barge was en route to the scene to transfer some of the oil from the ship to make it lighter in an attempt to float it back into the Caribbean.

Capt. Kenneth G. Wiman, commanding officer of the Coast Guard unit in Gloucester City, N.J., Wednesday said the Delaware River spill was not as bad as first believed, but posed a serious threat to Canadian geese and ruddy ducks.

"Apparently it looks worse than it really is," Wiman said. "It doesn't look nice but it's certainly not the heavy concentration of oil that we first thought."

ABOUT 50 oil-covered geese and ducks were recovered from the Delaware and air cannons were deployed to the marshland areas in Pennsylvania, New Jersey and Delaware to scare birds away from the oil spill area.

Wiman said about 50,000 gallons of the oil had been contained in floating booms but only about 5,000 gallons had been cleaned up by six vacuum trucks on the Pennsylvania side of the river. He said the oil had split into two parts, and a lighter portion was evaporating.

The oil slick was drifting south with the tide and moving toward the New Jersey side of the river, the Coast Guard said. The latest reports indicated the slick stretched from near Paulsboro, N.J., to Delaware City, Del.

The oil had washed up on the shore at Paulsboro and Pennsville, N.J., and Claymont, Del.

Environmental Protection Agency chief Russell Train, investigating the Delaware River oil spill site, called on the government to toughen standards on foreign tankers entering American ports.

"THE TIME HAS come for the U.S. to set more stringent standards with the number of foreign vessels coming into our waters," he said. "The United States has been reluctant to set standards, but with the vast amount of oil coming into the country, the time has come to set more stringent regulations."

• In New York, testimony continued into the 7.6 million oil spill from the Liberian tanker Argo Merchant in the Atlantic off Nantucket Island last Dec. 15. It was the worst oil spill in the history of the American Atlantic coast.

George Papadapolous, captain of the vessel, has testified the ship's radio direction finder, a short-range navigational aid, indicated the Nantucket light nhip, marking tne shallow waters of the shoal, was dead ahead. He later learned the light ship was behind him.

An element of mystery was injected into the case Wednesday when Papadopoulos testified that on the ship's departure from Venezuela on Dec. 5, much of the entry in the ship's log for that day was erased.

"I don't know what it was," he said. "It had nothing to do with the condition of the vessel. It had nothing to do regarding any damage."

Environmental officials in Massachusetts said the Argo Merchant would cover about a third of the water surface over Georges Bank, one of the world's richest fishing grounds. Scientists said most of the spill would remain on the surface and not damage the seabed.

• In Connecticut, Coast Guard officials said cleanup of shoreline areas affected by a 2,000-gallon spill in the Thames River Monday might not be finished until next week, depending on the weather. The oil leaked from a crack in the bow of the Liberian tanker Oswego-Peace.

An intimate New Year's Eve

If you want to avoid the bustling, maddening whirl of big parties this New Year's Eve, invite a few favorite people to your home for an intimate evening of conversation.

A make-ahead buffet goes a long way toward relaxing entertaining for the host or hostess. This menu includes a lobster dish which can be prepared in advance and assembled at the last minute, a salad with "house dressing" and a delicious do-ahead cake. Limeade and a cheese tray round out the meal.

STUFFED SOUTH AFRICAN ROCK LOBSTER

- 6 (4 to 5 ounce) frozen rock lobster tails
- ¼ cup butter or margarine
- ¼ cup chopped green pepper
- ¼ pound mushrooms, sliced
- ⅓ cup flour
- 1¼ cups milk or half and half
- ¼ cup dry sherry
- Salt and pepper

Drop frozen rock lobster tails into boiling salted water to cover. When water reboils, boil for 5 minutes. Drain and drench immediately with cold water. With scissors remove underside membrane and pull out meat in one piece. Reserve shells. Dice rock lobster. In a saucepan, melt butter and saute green pepper and mushrooms for 5 minutes or until soft. Stir in flour. Gradually stir in milk and sherry. Stir over low heat until sauce bubbles and thickens. Stir in rock lobster pieces. Season to taste with salt and pepper. Re heat until bubbly. Spoon mixture into reserved shells. Serve at once garnished with parsley sprigs. Makes: 6 servings.

CALYPSO SALAD DRESSING

- 1 clove garlic, peeled
- 1 slice soft bread
- 1 can (1 pound) stewed tomatoes
- ⅓ cup salad oil
- 2 tablespoons vinegar
- ½ teaspoon salt
- ¼ teaspoon pepper
- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 2 teaspoon Angostura aromatic bitters

Cut garlic in three or four pieces and insert in bread. Let stand half an hour and remove garlic. Mix tomatoes, oil, vinegar and seasonings. Add bread and beat until thoroughly mixed. Serve as dressing for mixed green salad.

ANGOSTURA LIMEY

- ¾ cup lime juice
- 1 quart ginger ale, chilled
- 1 quart club soda, chilled
- 1 teaspoon Angostura aromatic bitters
- Superfine sugar
- Green food coloring, if desired

Pour lime juice into a large pitcher. Stir in ginger ale and club soda. Stir in bitters, sugar to taste. If desired, add food coloring. Add ice cubes and stir until cold. Pour into punch glasses to serve. Makes: 64 ounces. Can be "spiked" with alcohol, if desired.

BLUE ANGEL CAKE

- 1 package (14½ ounces) angel food cake mix
- 1 package (3 ounces) raspberry gelatin
- 1½ cups water
- 1½ cups dry-pack frozen blueberries
- 2 cups (1 pint) heavy cream
- ⅓ cup confectioners' sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Prepare angel food cake mix according to package directions. Bake in a 10 by 4-inch tube pan according to package directions. Cool cake and remove from pan. Prepare raspberry gelatin according to package directions using only 1½ cups water. Chill until mixture is slightly thickened. Fold in blueberries. With a sharp knife make the hole in the center of the cake larger by cutting 1 inch from the inside of the cake. Dice removed cake and fold cubes into gelatin. Place cake on a serving platter and fill hole in center with gelatin mixture. Chill until firm. In a bowl, mix cream, sugar and vanilla. Beat until cream is stiff. Spread mixture on sides and top of cake. Decorate cake with additional blueberries. Chill until ready to serve. Makes one cake.

DANISH BLUE CHEESE BALL

- 8 ounces blue cheese
- 1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese
- 4 eggs, hard cooked and chopped
- Paprika
- Crackers

Mash blue cheese until soft and creamy. Add cream cheese and beat until well blended and fluffy. Stir in eggs. Season, if necessary, with salt and pepper. Shape mixture with the hands into a large ball. Dust with paprika. Place on serving platter and surround with crackers. Serve with a spreader.

THE CHEESE TRAY

Danish Blue Cheese: blue-veined, sharp distinctive flavor.

Samsoe: round, regular holes, firm texture, mild nutlike flavor.

Tybo: mild flavored (with red rind).

Danish Blue Cheese Ball: (see recipe).

Danbo with caraway seeds: light yellow, mild flavor, firm texture (also comes without seeds).

Danish Fontina: mild to full flavor (with red rind)

Creamy Havarti (center of tray): creamy in texture, flavor and color, a favorite of mild cheese lovers.

- 1 teaspoon sugar
- 2 teaspoon Angostura aromatic bitters

Cut garlic in three or four pieces and insert in bread. Let stand half an hour and remove garlic. Mix tomatoes, oil, vinegar and seasonings. Add bread and beat until thoroughly mixed. Serve as dressing for mixed green salad.

ANGOSTURA LIMEY

- ¾ cup lime juice
- 1 quart ginger ale, chilled
- 1 quart club soda, chilled
- 1 teaspoon Angostura aromatic bitters
- Superfine sugar
- Green food coloring, if desired

Pour lime juice into a large pitcher. Stir in ginger ale and club soda. Stir in bitters, sugar to taste. If desired, add food coloring. Add ice cubes and stir until cold. Pour into punch glasses to serve. Makes: 64 ounces. Can be "spiked" with alcohol, if desired.

BLUE ANGEL CAKE

- 1 package (14½ ounces) angel food cake mix
- 1 package (3 ounces) raspberry gelatin
- 1½ cups water
- 1½ cups dry-pack frozen blueberries
- 2 cups (1 pint) heavy cream
- ⅓ cup confectioners' sugar
- 1 teaspoon vanilla

Prepare angel food cake mix according to package directions. Bake in a 10 by 4-inch tube pan according to package directions. Cool cake and remove from pan. Prepare raspberry gelatin according to package directions using only 1½ cups water. Chill until mixture is slightly thickened. Fold in blueberries. With a sharp knife make the hole in the center of the cake larger by cutting 1 inch from the inside of the cake. Dice removed cake and fold cubes into gelatin. Place cake on a serving platter and fill hole in center with gelatin mixture. Chill until firm. In a bowl, mix cream, sugar and vanilla. Beat until cream is stiff. Spread mixture on sides and top of cake. Decorate cake with additional blueberries. Chill until ready to serve. Makes one cake.

DANISH BLUE CHEESE BALL

- 8 ounces blue cheese
- 1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese
- 4 eggs, hard cooked and chopped
- Paprika
- Crackers

Mash blue cheese until soft and creamy. Add cream cheese and beat until well blended and fluffy. Stir in eggs. Season, if necessary, with salt and pepper. Shape mixture with the hands into a large ball. Dust with paprika. Place on serving platter and surround with crackers. Serve with a spreader.

THE CHEESE TRAY

Danish Blue Cheese: blue-veined, sharp distinctive flavor.

Samsoe: round, regular holes, firm texture, mild nutlike flavor.

Tybo: mild flavored (with red rind).

Danish Blue Cheese Ball: (see recipe).

Danbo with caraway seeds: light yellow, mild flavor, firm texture (also comes without seeds).

Danish Fontina: mild to full flavor (with red rind)

Creamy Havarti (center of tray): creamy in texture, flavor and color, a favorite of mild cheese lovers.

Need a rest? Relax with hot rum

by LOIS SEILER

During the hectic holiday season, Dick and Rita Klein, Arlington Heights, like to snatch a few minutes to relax in front of their fireplace and sip hot buttered rum. Rita makes a big batch of the basic batter, keeping it on hand in her refrigerator. The drink is easily made by placing a couple of tablespoons of the batter in individual mugs and adding rum and hot water. Each drink is served with a sprinkling of nutmeg and a cinnamon stick.

She serves this novel beverage as an after-dinner drink, for drop-in guests or for bridge club.

BECAUSE HOT buttered rum is sweet, Rita serves it to her bridge club with something nippy, such as a curry dip with vegetables. Her dip has a mayonnaise base seasoned with garlic, curry powder, tarragon vinegar, onion and horseradish. Carrot sticks, celery, cauliflowerets and cucumbers are used for dipping.

To wind up the holidays this weekend, consider one of Rita's specialties, Shrimp Chowder. It is a nice change from rich and hearty holiday foods.

While shrimp is expensive, the tasty chowder costs no more than a roast and is a meal-in-one. It needs only a tossed salad and hard rolls as accompaniments and is a favorite of the Kleins' three sons.

AFTER HOT CHOWDER, a cool and light dessert is preferred. Rita suggests one of her seasonal favorites, vanilla ice cream balls rolled in red and/or green tinted coconut. She places a birthday candle in the middle of the balls and brings them lighted to the table. It is an easy yet festive finale.

Rita acquired all of these recipes from family and friends in the Kleins' native state of Iowa. Active at Berkley School, Rita is on the PTA board and serves as a lunchroom supervisor. She plays league tennis at the Berkley Racquet Club, and in her spare time likes to sew, read and play bridge.

THOUGH THEIR HOLIDAY schedule may be hectic, Rita and Dick Klein, Arlington Heights, can usually find a quiet moment to enjoy some hot buttered rum and a crackling fire. The rum drink is exceptionally easy to fix since Rita prepares a basic batter to last through the winter months and adds only hot water and rum at the last minute. Cinnamon sticks and nutmeg are finishing touches.

HOT BUTTERED RUM

1 pound, butter, softened
4½ cups brown sugar, firmly packed
1½ cups honey
1 tablespoon nutmeg
1 teaspoon cinnamon
1 teaspoon ground cloves

Mix all ingredients together with a spoon. Store in covered container in refrigerator or freezer. (Will keep in refrigerator up to 6 months.)

When ready to serve, mix 2 tablespoons batter with ¼ cup hot water in mugs. Then add 1½ ounces rum. Fill cup with hot water and stir. Sprinkle with nutmeg and add cinnamon stick.

CURRY DIP FOR VEGETABLES

1 cup mayonnaise
1 teaspoon garlic salt
¼ teaspoon garlic powder
1 teaspoon curry powder
1 teaspoon tarragon vinegar
1 teaspoon grated onion
1 teaspoon horseradish

Mix all ingredients together and store in refrigerator, covered, several hours or overnight. Serve with carrot sticks, celery, cauliflowerets and cucumbers.

Spicy mix adds punch to coffee

A blend of spices, liqueur and coffee make flavorful after-dinner sipping for company or for yourself.

SPICED COFFEE LIQUEUR

3¼ cups water
1 package (1 pound) dark brown sugar
2 cups granulated sugar
2 whole cinnamon sticks, each 3-inches long
6 whole cloves
2 ounce jar (1 cup) instant decaffeinated coffee
1 quart 80 proof vodka

In a large saucepan combine water, sugars, cinnamon and cloves. Bring to the boiling point; boil rapidly for 5 minutes. Gradually add coffee stirring until dissolved; cool. Blend in vodka. Cover and let stand for 24 hours. Strain out cinnamon and cloves. Pour into individual bottles and cover tightly. Makes about 2 quarts.

SHRIMP CHOWDER

¼ cup butter or margarine
4 large onions, peeled and sliced in rings
1 cup boiling water
6 medium potatoes, pared and cubed
1 tablespoon salt
½ teaspoon pepper
1½ quarts milk
2 cups grated Cheddar cheese
2 pounds raw, shelled and deveined shrimp
3 tablespoons snipped parsley

About an hour before serving, saute onion slices in hot butter in a Dutch oven until tender. Add boiling water, potatoes, salt and pepper. Simmer, covered, 20 minutes or until potatoes are tender. Do not drain.

Meanwhile, heat milk with grated cheese until cheese has all melted and milk is hot. Do not let mixture boil.

Add shrimp to potatoes and cook until they turn pink, about three minutes. Add hot milk-cheese mixture. Heat chowder, but do not boil. Then sprinkle with parsley. Serves 8 generously.

Easy foods for crowds

Couples and neighbors can drop in on each other for a very special holiday get-together without anyone going to a great deal of effort.

Older couples, for example, can keep a budget in line by sharing a progressive party with their friends. Each couple or single individual, in the group entertains for hors d'oeuvres, soup, salad, sandwiches, casserole or dessert and coffee. Following are several easy recipes for entertaining.

GRASSHOPPER PUNCH

1 (14-ounce) can sweetened condensed milk, chilled
1/3 cup green creme de menthe
1/3 cup white creme de cacao
1 (32-ounce) bottle club soda, chilled
Vanilla ice cream

In a two-quart punch bowl or pitcher, combine sweetened condensed milk, creme de menthe and creme de cacao. Slowly stir in soda. Serve with scoops of ice cream. Refrigerate leftovers. Makes 1½ quarts and recipe can be doubled or tripled.

QUICK TRICK DIP

1 can (10¾ ounces) condensed cream of onion soup
1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese, softened
¼ cup chopped green pepper
2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
1/8 to ½ teaspoon hot pepper sauce
Dash pepper

In bowl, gradually beat soup into cream cheese until smooth. Add remaining ingredients. Chill 4 hours or more. Serve as a dip with crackers or chips. Makes about 2 cups.

EASY DOES-IT CASSEROLE

4 tablespoons butter or margarine
2 cans (10¾ ounces each) condensed cream of mushroom soup
4 cups cubed cooked ham
3 cups cooked elbow macaroni
2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen mixed vegetables, cooked and drained
1 can (16 ounces) tomatoes, cut up
1 teaspoon Worcestershire
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
1/8 teaspoon pepper

In large heavy pan, cook onion in butter until tender; add remaining ingredients. Pour into 3-quart casserole. Bake at 300 degrees for 1½ hours; stir. Makes about 11 cups, 6 to 8 servings.

GRANDDAD'S DELIGHT

2 cans (5 ounces each) boned chicken or turkey, cut up
¼ cup chopped walnuts
2 tablespoons mayonnaise
2 tablespoons sweet pickle relish
10 slices white or pumpernickel bread

In a bowl, combine all ingredients except bread. Spoon about 3 tablespoons mixture on each of 5 slices bread. Top with remaining slices bread. Cut into quarters. Makes 20 appetizer sandwiches.

PARTY TIME SNACKS

1 can (about 7 ounces) tuna, drained and flaked
1 package (3 ounces) cream cheese, softened
½ cup undrained crushed pineapple
¼ cup chopped radishes
1/8 teaspoon pepper
Generous dash celery salt
10 slices bread

In bowl, combine all ingredients except bread. Spread about 3 tablespoons mixture on each of 5 slices bread. Top with remaining slices bread. Cut into quarters. Makes 20 appetizer sandwiches.

MINCEMEAT TREAT

1 1/3 cups prepared mincemeat
½ cup sour cream
Vanilla ice cream or canned peaches

In saucepan, combine mincemeat and sour cream. Heat; stir occasionally. Serve over ice cream. Makes about 1½ cups sauce, 6 servings.

PEAR CRUMBLE CUSTARD

2 cups diced, cored, pared firm pears
½ teaspoon grated fresh lemon rind
1 tablespoon fresh lemon juice
1 cup uncooked oats, regular or quick-cooking
4 eggs
½ cup sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ cups milk
¼ teaspoon vanilla

In greased 1½ quart baking dish mix pears, lemon rind, lemon juice and oats. In large bowl beat eggs, sugar, salt, milk and vanilla until blended. Pour over cereal mixture. Bake in 350-degree oven 40 minutes, or until knife inserted in center comes out clean. Cool. Makes 6 servings.

Easy foods for crowds

Couples and neighbors can drop in on each other for a very special holiday get-together without anyone going to a great deal of effort.

Older couples, for example, can keep a budget in line by sharing a progressive party with their friends. Each couple or single individual, in the group entertains for hors d'oeuvres, soup, salad, sandwiches, casserole or dessert and coffee. Following are several easy recipes for entertaining.

GRASSHOPPER PUNCH

- 1 (14-ounce) can sweetened condensed milk, chilled
- 1/3 cup green creme de menthe
- 1/3 cup white creme de cacao
- 1 (32-ounce) bottle club soda, chilled
- Vanilla ice cream

In a two-quart punch bowl or pitcher, combine sweetened condensed milk, creme de menthe and creme de cacao. Slowly stir in soda. Serve with scoops of ice cream. Refrigerate leftovers. Makes 1½ quarts and recipe can be doubled or tripled.

QUICK TRICK DIP

- 1 can (10¾ ounces) condensed cream of onion soup
- 1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese, softened
- ¼ cup chopped green pepper
- 2 teaspoons Worcestershire sauce
- 1/8 to ½ teaspoon hot pepper sauce
- Dash pepper

In bowl, gradually beat soup into cream cheese until smooth. Add remaining ingredients. Chill 4 hours or more. Serve as a dip with crackers or chips. Makes about 2 cups.

EASY DOES-IT CASSEROLE

- ½ cup chopped onion
- 4 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 2 cans (10¾ ounces each) condensed cream of mushroom soup
- 4 cups cubed cooked ham
- 3 cups cooked elbow macaroni
- 2 packages (10 ounces each) frozen mixed vegetables, cooked and drained
- 1 can (16 ounces) tomatoes, cut up
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire
- 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1/8 teaspoon pepper

In large heavy pan, cook onion in butter until tender; add remaining ingredients. Pour into 3-quart casserole. Bake at 300 degrees for 1½ hours; stir. Makes about 11 cups, 6 to 8 servings.

GRANDDAD'S DELIGHT

- 2 cans (5 ounces each) boned chicken or turkey, cut up
- ¼ cup chopped walnuts
- 2 tablespoons mayonnaise
- 2 tablespoons sweet pickle relish
- 10 slices white or pumpernickel bread

In a bowl, combine all ingredients except bread. Spoon about 3 tablespoons mixture on each of 5 slices bread. Top with remaining slices bread. Cut into quarters. Makes 20 appetizer sandwiches.

Baked Olive Cheese

Baked dish an unusual appetizer

Wondering what to serve as a party appetizer? A combination of cheese and olives bakes into a delicious spread, which can be made ahead and refrigerated until serving time.

BAKED OLIVE CHEESE

- 1 container (15 or 16 ounces) ricotta cheese
- 1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese
- 2 eggs
- ½ cup chopped Spanish stuffed green olives
- 1/3 cup slivered toasted almonds
- ¼ cup sliced scallions

Beat cheeses until smooth; beat in eggs. Stir in olives, almonds and scallions. Grease an 8 by 4 inch loaf pan. Line with waxed paper and grease again. Pour in cheese mixture. Bake in 350-degree oven 1 hour and 15 minutes or until set. Cool 15 minutes in pan. Then remove from pan by inverting onto rack; peel off waxed paper. Cool to room temperature and then chill thoroughly. Place on a tray. Garnish top with "flowers" made from olive slices and scallions and take to your hostess or a friend as a gift. Serve as a spread with assorted crackers. Makes one loaf. (Baked olive cheese will keep three days.

From salt to war fare

Do you feel a need to season your meats with salt? Primitive man didn't. He ate his meat raw and got all the salt he needed. But when man began boiling and stewing his meat, the salt got lost in the cooking water, so he had to find a salt lick. Salt became very important to him — it represented health, friendship and even virtue.

Many salt "tales" evolved. Did you hear the one about the early Christian who sprinkled some "virtuous" salt on the evil tail of the devil? Old Lucifer, in order to exorcise the good spirit, had to chew off his tail. And if you believe that, you may believe the more modern story of how to catch a chicken. Sprinkle some salt on its tail. that'll stop it dead in its chicken tracks. Question: Do we Americans eat too much salt today? Answer: About 10 times more than we should.

But a Meat Association source says that figure is misleading because it's carcass weight and not the total animal weight we actually eat, which is less than the minimum of three ounces a day recommended by the department of agriculture.

If it's true that an army travels on its stomach, then that's one more reason why we won the American Revolution. The Red Coats ate only meager rations like black and green salted pork and wormy bread which had been sent across the Atlantic Ocean. Americans ate fresh-killed pork, lamb and mutton that was near at hand and their bread was fresh-baked.

Baked Olive Cheese

Baked dish an unusual appetizer

Wondering what to serve as a party appetizer? A combination of cheese and olives bakes into a delicious spread, which can be made ahead and refrigerated until serving time.

BAKED OLIVE CHEESE

- 1 container (15 or 16 ounces) ricotta cheese
- 1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese
- 2 eggs
- ½ cup chopped Spanish stuffed green olives
- 1/3 cup slivered toasted almonds
- ¼ cup sliced scallions

Beat cheeses until smooth; beat in eggs. Stir in olives, almonds and scallions. Grease an 8 by 4 inch loaf pan. Line with waxed paper and grease again. Pour in cheese mixture. Bake in 350-degree oven 1 hour and 15 minutes or until set. Cool 15 minutes in pan. Then remove from pan by inverting onto rack; peel off waxed paper. Cool to room temperature and then chill thoroughly. Place on a tray. Garnish top with "flowers" made from olive slices and scallions and take to your hostess or a friend as a gift. Serve as a spread with assorted crackers. Makes one loaf. (Baked olive cheese will keep three days.

From salt to war fare

Do you feel a need to season your meats with salt? Primitive man didn't. He ate his meat raw and got all the salt he needed. But when man began boiling and stewing his meat, the salt got lost in the cooking water, so he had to find a salt lick. Salt became very important to him — it represented health, friendship and even virtue.

Many salt "tales" evolved. Did you hear the one about the early Christian who sprinkled some "virtuous" salt on the evil tail of the devil? Old Lucifer, in order to exorcise the good spirit, had to chew off his tail. And if you believe that, you may believe the more modern story of how to catch a chicken. Sprinkle some salt on its tail, that'll stop it dead in its chicken tracks. Question: Do we Americans eat too much salt today? Answer: About 10 times more than we should.

Do we also eat too much meat? According to one source, the average American ate 180 pounds of meat in 1975 — about one-half pound daily.

But a Meat Association source says that figure is misleading because it's carcass weight and not the total animal weight we actually eat, which is less than the minimum of three ounces a day recommended by the department of agriculture.

If it's true that an army travels on its stomach, then that's one more reason why we won the American Revolution. The Red Coats ate only meager rations like black and green salted pork and wormy bread which had been sent across the Atlantic Ocean. Americans ate fresh-killed pork, lamb and mutton that was near at hand and their bread was fresh-baked.

Merry evening requires festive fare

Is it really the time to celebrate a New Year and jot down all kinds of New Year's resolutions? Since it is, prepare for some entertaining with a tasty, non-alcoholic punch and vegetable relishes with a dip. Even infrequent party-givers will find this combination winning.

Merrytime Punch and Dip

MERRYTIME PUNCH

1 cup boiling water
2 tea bags
3 whole cloves
1 three-inch cinnamon stick
1 can (46 ounces) low sugar Hawaiian punch, chilled
2/3 cup pineapple juice, chilled
1 bottle (12 ounces) club soda, chilled
Christmas Ice Mold*

In a small bowl, pour water over tea bags and spices. Let steep 5 minutes; remove tea bags. Chill the tea and spices until serving time. Strain spiced tea into punch bowl. Stir in punch and pineapple juice. Stir in club soda. Add Christmas Ice Mold. Ladle into punch cups.

Makes about 2¼ quarts or enough for 18 four-ounce servings.

*Christmas Ice Mold: Place a 1-quart mold or bowl in freezer to chill. Then pour in about ½ cup cold water. Freeze until thin coating of ice forms. Arrange a few half lime slices and maraschino cherry halves in an attractive pattern in mold. add about ¼ inch cold water; freeze. Fill mold to top with cold water; freeze until hard. To unmold, run cold water over mold. Float ice mold, fruit-side up in punch bowl.

VEGETABLE RELISHES WITH GARLIC-HERB DIP

1 cup low fat cottage cheese
¼ cup low fat plain yogurt
1 garlic clove, sliced
1 teaspoon prepared spiced mustard
2 teaspoons lemon juice or vinegar
½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon tarragon, crumbled
4 to 6 drops hot red pepper sauce
1½ teaspoons chopped parsley
Cucumber and carrot slices, cauliflowerets, celery sticks and radish roses

In electric blender container, combine cottage cheese and the next seven ingredients. Cover and blend on low speed 30 seconds or until smooth. Add parsley; whirl just to blend. Turn mixture into serving dish; cover. Chill several hours or overnight to blend flavors. Serve with choice of vegetable relishes such as cucumber slices.

Makes 1¼ cups dip.

Casseroles stretch use of turkey

The turkey has just begun, it seems, to be thought of as a staple ingredient for a variety of dishes.

Now that it is available in a variety of cuts as well as in a range of weights, it is logical for cooks to turn to this less expensive nutritious bird when planning family meals.

The next time you have leftover turkey, whip up a celery turkey Divan using a white sauce and topping it with Parmesan cheese.

CELERY TURKEY DIVAN

1 can (10-¾ ounces) condensed chicken broth
1 cup Medium White Sauce*
¼ cup minced onion
4 cups cooked sliced turkey
½ cup grated Parmesan cheese

Cut off celery leaves reserving ¼ cup chopped leaves. Trim base of stalk. Separate stalk into ribs. Cut ribs into 4-inch lengths. In a large skillet heat broth. Add celery lengths. Bring to the boiling point. Reduce heat and simmer, covered, until celery is crisp-tender, about 5 minutes. Drain, reserving broth (about ½ cup); set celery aside. Combine reserved broth with white sauce, onion and celery leaves; set aside. Arrange turkey slices in bottom of a well-buttered 12 by 8 by 2-inch baking pan. Spoon half of the reserved sauce over turkey. Top with reserved celery lengths and remaining sauce. Sprinkle Parmesan cheese over all. Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until hot and bubbly, about 30 minutes. Makes 4 portions.

*Medium White Sauce

In a small saucepan melt 2 tablespoons butter. Stir in 2 tablespoons flour. Cook and stir over medium heat for 1 minute. Stir in 1 cup milk or half and half, ½ teaspoon salt and 1/8 teaspoon ground white pepper. Cook and stir until thickened, about 3 minutes.

A portrait of pregnant Susie-Q

More unwed teens choosing birth

by BILLIE BACHHUBER

Susie-Q is a woman-child . . . immature, naive, idealistic, romantic. But she is not a "bad girl."

Of nearly one million teen-age girls who become pregnant every year in the United States (Planned Parenthood Federation has labeled it an epidemic), Susie is one of the 200,000 who give birth out of wedlock. She may be as young as 12, as old as 19. Half the Susies are under 17.

According to Planned Parenthood, there are nationwide about 300,000 unwed teen mothers each year, about 100,000 of whom choose to abort. But more and more of these young girls are bearing their babies.

In Illinois alone in 1975, there were 13,748 such live births recorded by the Illinois Family Planning Council, a private nonprofit agency funded by state and federal governments to give family planning assistance.

"IT APPEARS THAT 15 to 20 per cent of pregnant adolescents we see are choosing to have their babies," says Diane Wilkinson, Health project coordinator for the Palatine Youth Committee, who counsels with Northwest suburban young people at The Bridge and Crossroads Clinic.

And religious agencies such as Catholic Charities and Lutheran Child and Family Services report that the majority of girls they see eventually do give birth.

Who are these young mothers? And why are their members increasing?

They do share some characteristics, but there is no stereotype, the professionals who help them are agreed.

"More and younger girls are becoming pregnant because society gives them permission — sexually-oriented movies, TV, magazines and books, advertising, for example — without giving safeguards and education," suggested Ms. Wilkinson.

BUT IT APPEARS THAT even if she knows about birth control, Susie-Q. often ignores it. To protect herself, she must admit she is having sexual relations. "That makes her a bad girl in her own eyes, and she is only 'loving someone, feeling good,' passionate, romantic," says Diane.

Agencies don't see Susie until she is too far along in pregnancy for abortion, often a deliberate delay so she cannot abort. She wants that baby!

"Children themselves, they have an unrealistic, glamorous idea of motherhood," explained Judy Bemis, supervisor of the Unmarried Parent Unit of Lutheran Child and Family Services, an agency serving metropolitan Chicago.

Most typically, Susie comes to Lutheran Services when she is six months pregnant, very often with no prenatal care at all.

"THERE IS AN INCREDIBLE amount of denial involved," said Ms. Bemis. "Susie knows she is pregnant but is afraid to tell her parents. Her parents won't believe teen-age Susie is having a sexual life, so they tell themselves she's just 'getting chunky!' "

The reality is that more and more adolescents do have a sexual life, say those who counsel these burgeoning numbers of unwed teen-age mothers.

Pregnancies are increasing at an alarming rate, particularly among girls 15 and younger. While the birth rate and the number of abortions are declining across the country, both are on the rise among teens, reported Ms. Wilkinson of The Bridge.

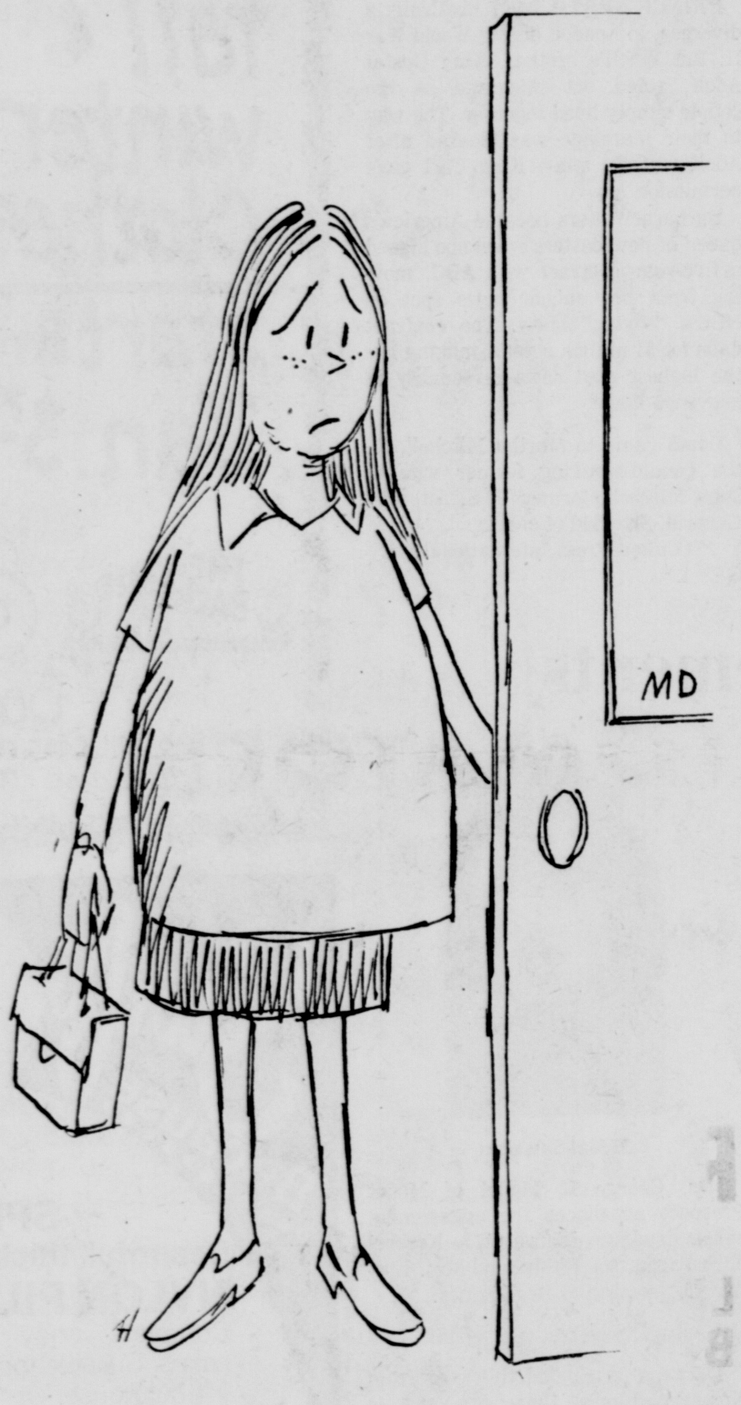
Once pregnant, any unmarried girl may obtain assistance in Chicago and suburbs just by making a phone call . . . if. "If she admits she's pregnant, if she's aware she can get such help and many other ifs," noted Diane. "Sometimes it is not easy for these girls to seek help."

SUSIE-Q CAN BE SURE of nonjudgmental response and of confidentiality from these professionals. They'll help her explore the options, arrange medical care, legal assistance and alternative living quarters if necessary, find financial aid.

If Susie initially can't get to the agency she approaches, most will send someone to her.

Diane Wilkinson says there is no Susie-Q stereotype, but she does note patterns.

Susie is probably 15 or 16. She hasn't had a pregnancy test but is fairly sure she is pregnant though she thought it couldn't happen to her, a common teen assumption, said Ms. Wilkinson. If she confides in anyone at all before 16 weeks into her pregnancy, she most likely tells her best girl friend.



IF SHE TELLS HER boyfriend, he is supportive during the decision making, but if she opts to keep the baby, he sometimes splits. His parents are not supportive and may ask, "How do you know it's your baby?" And if the couple marry, the marriage seldom works out.

This young unwed pregnant teen lives with her mother, more often divorced than widowed. True or not, Susie thinks her mother neither loves nor understands her.

Because Susie's father is absent, her behavior with males is inappropriate. "Susie does not feel good about herself," explained Ms. Wilkinson. "Sex can feel good to someone who is not feeling good about herself and who is looking for love. Often, however, the girl gets little pleasure, has sex to please her boyfriend."

Susie Q goes to a clinic for confidential testing, later may go to a family physician or her mother's gynecologist. Her first question after pregnancy is confirmed: "Where can I get an abortion?"

BUT BECAUSE OF HER religion or her idealism, knowing she is too far along to be aborted, Susie may later declare, "I'm having my baby! My parents (or parent) are really mad at me. I am being kicked out of the house."

She may live temporarily in a foster home, but more likely in the Northwest suburbs, Susie will stay within her own environment, living at home, cared for by Chicago area doctors and having her baby in a local hospital.

Lutheran General Hospital and Crossroads Clinic in Palatine both provide low cost maternal care and counseling. Other hospitals offer help through their social services departments.

Pregnant Susie receives guidance from her own personal social worker, in group rap sessions, at family meetings and gets moral support whenever she needs it. In school she might be helped through homebound study or be part of some other special program designed to help unwed mothers.

THE THRUST OF counseling for Susie now is past the point of abortion. She must review her options. Shall she keep the baby or put it up for adoption?

"Choosing to place her baby for adoption is an unselfish choice. Most kids do not think unselfishly. Sometimes her parents convince Susie, or she may decide herself through counseling that adoption is better for her baby," said Ms. Wilkinson.

"We believe the girl will make the best decision if she has all the information. For example, what will life be like for her and her child financially? Will she continue her education? Working and/or going to school, has she someone to care for her baby? Will there be time for social life?" asked Judy Bemis at Lutheran Child and Family Services.

Susie's social worker is with her from the beginning and that relationship is what helps her work through to a decision. Her social worker-friend stays with Susie through this period of real ambivalence and beyond . . . as long as Susie needs that support. And whatever she decides, Susie is given moral support, financial and legal advice from a good adoption agency.

"WITH US SUSIE can't sign anything until 72 hours after the birth of her baby. She then may sign surrender adoption papers," said Ms. Bemis. "If a girl is involved with anyone who asks her to sign anything before that time, she's involved with a crook!"

"A major concern in some independent adoptions is that sometimes girls are coerced into going where they are paying the most to get a baby," said Pay Haynes of Adoption Information Services, a state agency with 11 voluntary adoption agencies working together with the Illinois Department of Child and Family Services.

"Legitimate agencies support Susie in what she wants to do, letting her know there are families who want her baby."

Young mothers who plan to give up their babies for adoption are thinking of the child's best interest, but once they see their infants, they sometimes change their minds and keep them. That usually doesn't work out, said Judy Bemis of Lutheran Services. She cited two examples.

ONE SUCH TEEN mother who planned to marry eventually kept her baby. But her boyfriend decided he couldn't handle the responsibility and he left. When the infant was six months old, Susie and her family (most families are supportive says Ms. Bemis) gave the child up for adoption.

Another teen mother living at home with her parents decided after all that it was in the child's best interest to be adopted.

"Both these mothers and their families are now feeling pain. Girls who wait to relinquish their babies and those who do so at birth must work through a sense of loss, of grief," explained Ms. Bemis.

Even though there is help after a teen pregnancy occurs, many girls are not receiving assistance, even in the Northwest suburbs, said Diane Wilkinson.

"UNLESS A YOUNG person gets plugged into a program cooperating with other good agencies, or is in school, Susie may go far into her pregnancy without prenatal care. We need greater community involvement to help these kids."

"Lots of parents do not want sex education in the schools or birth control information available to their kids. But kids are having sex. They are not sexually responsible people and the worst kind of sex is irresponsible sex!" Judy Bemis speaks forcibly.

Diane Wilkinson sees some hope here where she cooperates with local education programs and professionals.

"I see some hope of changing attitudes. If the educated have more understanding and are less judgmental, they are more likely to spread information to younger and less educated people. Policymakers must recognize this need!"

Meantime, those who counsel and work with more and more pregnant Susie Q's, their boy friends and families do what they can to help them cope with "the facts of life."

Political gains for women marked Bicentennial year

by GAY PAULEY

Women marked the Bicentennial with a bevy of accomplishments.

They ranged from the newscaster who became a million dollar baby with a new network contract to the $14,000-a-year secretary whose scandalous involvement with a U.S. representative knocked him from the pinnacle of congressional power and forced him to resign in disgrace after 28 years in the House.

But the most significant story of the year concerned accomplishments of women in politics in general, where they were voters, campaigners, candidates and instigators of the historic debates among the men seeking the presidency and vice presidency.

IT WAS THE LEAGUE of Women Voters that dreamed up and carried through on the three presidential debates, the first televised debates since the 1960 Kennedy-Nixon appearances, and the first ever televised between the vice presidential nominees. All were the first to be sponsored by an outside organization.

"We are no longer a band of earnest reformers in the wake of the parade," said Ruth Clusen, league president. "We're leading the parade and we intend to keep it that way."

For women, it was a year of more wins than losses, whether in government or the private sector, in which women set records for their numbers in jobs outside the home and made inroads into the once male-dominated occupations.

THE BIGGEST WINNER of all, of course, was Rosalynn Carter, the wife who had for nearly two years campaigned for her husband from town to town, hamlet to hamlet. Now at 49, Mrs. Carter will become the nation's second youngest first lady — Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis was the youngest.

It also seems that Mrs. Carter will be one of the most influential. Carter has said he will send her on diplomatic missions "to let folks know we care about them and to bring back to me a report on what we should do to correct a mistake or strengthen an alliance or friendship."

Mrs. Carter's leap from Plains to Pennsylvania Avenue will mean other impact type of assignments. She long has been concerned about care for the mentally ill and problems of the aged.

BUT THE JIMMY and Rosalynn watchers see her behind-the-scenes influence as more wide-ranging. Carter long has used his wife as a sounding board on matters of policy and judgment of people.

Women fared well politically in the elections. The only major loss was that of the outspoken Bella Abzug, the New York Democratic member of the House who quit to seek the Senate nomination. She opposed David Patrick Moynihan, the professor turned ambassador, but lost to him by a narrow margin.

The nation got its second woman governor. Dixy Lee Ray, former chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission, and a Democrat, was elected governor of Washington. The other is Ella Grasso of Connecticut.

NO WOMAN WON A Senate seat although both Mrs. Abzug and Congresswoman Patsy Mink of Hawaii sought the posts. The Senate has been without a woman member since 1972, when Margaret Chase Smith, Maine Republican, retired.

The Mink and Abzug resignations, plus the retirement of Leonor Sullivan of Missouri, will change the total after Jan. 20 to 18, 13 Democrats and five Republicans.

The greater gains among women in office seemed at the state legislative level, where their numbers increased by 10.7 per cent.

"We are encouraged," said Betsey Wright, director of the National Women's Education Fund. "The voting confirmed our observation that the progress of women in electoral politics is steady, although slow."

THE WOMEN LOST a major force in politics when Mary Louise Smith, the first woman chairman of the Republican National Committee, announced her resignation effective Jan. 20. Mrs. Smith had thought the Fords would reside in the White House another four years.

The women's liberation movement made steady progress but minus the razzle-dazzle that marked 1970, the 50th anniversary of women's suffrage. But there was one major setback from the U. S. Supreme Court, as interpreted by women's rights advocates.

The court ruled, 6 to 3, that employers do not have to include pregnancy benefits as part of their sickness and accident insurance plans for workers. The court ruling also struck down a policy adopted by the federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission in 1972 that had labeled exclusion of pregnancy benefits as discriminatory.

A portrait of pregnant Susie-Q

More unwed teens choosing birth

by BILLIE BACHHUBER

Susie-Q is a woman-child . . . immature, naive, idealistic, romantic. But she is not a "bad girl."

Of nearly one million teen-age girls who become pregnant every year in the United States (Planned Parenthood Federation has labeled it an epidemic), Susie is one of the 200,000 who give birth out of wedlock. She may be as young as 12, as old as 19. Half the Susies are under 17.

According to Planned Parenthood, there are nationwide about 300,000 unwed teen mothers each year, about 100,000 of whom choose to abort. But more and more of these young girls are bearing their babies.

In Illinois alone in 1975, there were 13,748 such live births recorded by the Illinois Family Planning Council, a private nonprofit agency funded by state and federal governments to give family planning assistance.

"IT APPEARS THAT 15 to 20 per cent of pregnant adolescents we see are choosing to have their babies," says Diane Wilkinson, Health project coordinator for the Palatine Youth Committee, who counsels with Northwest suburban young people at The Bridge and Crossroads Clinic.

And religious agencies such as Catholic Charities and Lutheran Child and Family Services report that the majority of girls they see eventually do give birth.

Who are these young mothers? And why are their members increasing?

They do share some characteristics, but there is no stereotype, the professionals who help them are agreed.

"More and younger girls are becoming pregnant because society gives them permission — sexually-oriented movies, TV, magazines and books, advertising, for example — without giving safeguards and education," suggested Ms. Wilkinson.

BUT IT APPEARS THAT even if she knows about birth control, Susie-Q. often ignores it. To protect herself, she must admit she is having sexual relations. "That makes her a bad girl in her own eyes, and she is only 'loving someone, feeling good,' passionate, romantic," says Diane.

Agencies don't see Susie until she is too far along in pregnancy for abortion, often a deliberate delay so she cannot abort. She wants that baby!

"Children themselves, they have an unrealistic, glamorous idea of motherhood," explained Judy Bemis, supervisor of the Unmarried Parent Unit of Lutheran Child and Family Services, an agency serving metropolitan Chicago.

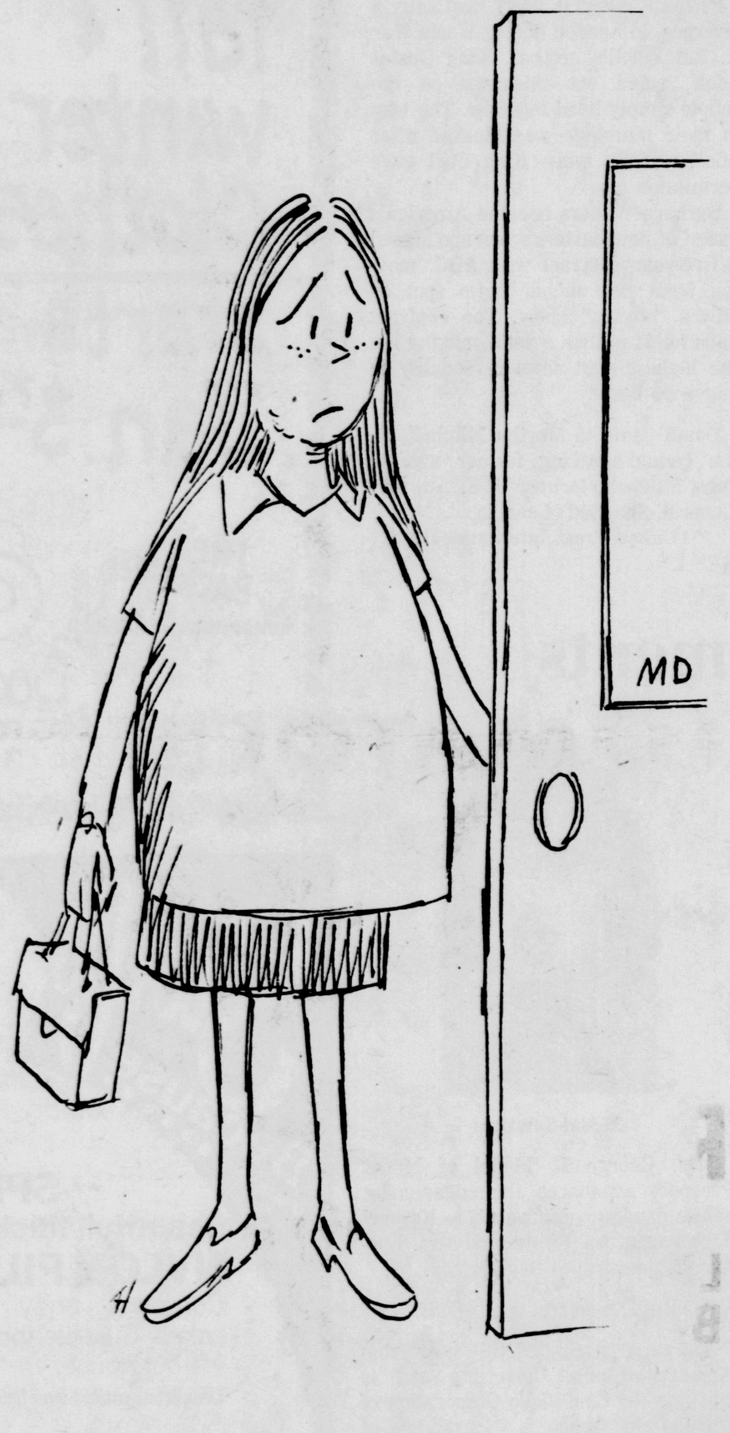
Most typically, Susie comes to Lutheran Services when she is six months pregnant, very often with no prenatal care at all.

"THERE IS AN INCREDIBLE amount of denial involved," said Ms. Bemis. "Susie knows she is pregnant but is afraid to tell her parents. Her parents won't believe teen-age Susie is having a sexual life, so they tell themselves she's just 'getting chunky!' "

The reality is that more and more adolescents do have a sexual life, say those who counsel these burgeoning numbers of unwed teen-age mothers.

Pregnancies are increasing at an alarming rate, particularly among girls 15 and younger. While the birth rate and the number of abortions are declining across the country, both are on the rise among teens, reported Ms. Wilkinson of The Bridge.

Once pregnant, any unmarried girl may obtain assistance in Chicago and suburbs just by making a phone call . . . if. "If she admits she's pregnant, if she's aware she can get such help and many other ifs," noted Diane. "Sometimes it is not easy for these girls to seek help."



SUSIE-Q CAN BE SURE of nonjudgmental response and of confidentiality from these professionals. They'll help her explore the options, arrange medical care, legal assistance and alternative living quarters if necessary, find financial aid.

If Susie initially can't get to the agency she approaches, most will send someone to her.

Diane Wilkinson says there is no Susie-Q stereotype, but she does note patterns.

Susie is probably 15 or 16. She hasn't had a pregnancy test but is fairly sure she is pregnant though she thought it couldn't happen to her, a common teen assumption, said Ms. Wilkinson. If she confides in anyone at all before 16 weeks into her pregnancy, she most likely tells her best girl friend.

IF SHE TELLS HER boyfriend, he is supportive during the decision making, but if she opts to keep the baby, he sometimes splits. His parents are not supportive and may ask, "How do you know it's your baby?" And if the couple marry, the marriage seldom works out.

This young unwed pregnant teen lives with her mother, more often divorced than widowed. True or not, Susie thinks her mother neither loves nor understands her.

Because Susie's father is absent, her behavior with males is inappropriate. "Susie does not feel good about herself," explained Ms. Wilkinson. "Sex can feel good to someone who is not feeling good about herself and who is looking for love. Often, however, the girl gets little pleasure, has sex to please her boyfriend."

Susie Q goes to a clinic for confidential testing, later may go to a family physician or her mother's gynecologist. Her first question after pregnancy is confirmed: "Where can I get an abortion?"

BUT BECAUSE OF HER religion or her idealism, knowing she is too far along to be aborted, Susie may later declare, "I'm having my baby! My parents (or parent) are really mad at me. I am being kicked out of the house."

She may live temporarily in a foster home, but more likely in the Northwest suburbs, Susie will stay within her own environment, living at home, cared for by Chicago area doctors and having her baby in a local hospital.

Lutheran General Hospital and Crossroads Clinic in Palatine both provide low cost maternal care and counseling. Other hospitals offer help through their social services departments.

Pregnant Susie receives guidance from her own personal social worker, in group rap sessions, at family meetings and gets moral support whenever she needs it. In school she might be helped through homebound study or be part of some other special program designed to help unwed mothers.

THE THRUST OF counseling for Susie now is past the point of abortion. She must review her options. Shall she keep the baby or put it up for adoption?

"Choosing to place her baby for adoption is an unselfish choice. Most kids do not think unselfishly. Sometimes her parents convince Susie, or she may decide herself through counseling that adoption is better for her baby," said Ms. Wilkinson.

"We believe the girl will make the best decision if she has all the information. For example, what will life be like for her and her child financially? Will she continue her education? Working and/or going to school, has she someone to care for her baby? Will there be time for social life?" asked Judy Bemis at Lutheran Child and Family Services.

Susie's social worker is with her from the beginning and that relationship is what helps her work through to a decision. Her social worker-friend stays with Susie through this period of real ambivalence and beyond . . . as long as Susie needs that support. And whatever she decides, Susie is given moral support, financial and legal advice from a good adoption agency.

"WITH US SUSIE can't sign anything until 72 hours after the birth of her baby. She then may sign surrender adoption papers," said Ms. Bemis. "If a girl is involved with anyone who asks her to sign anything before that time, she's involved with a crook!"

"A major concern in some independent adoptions is that sometimes girls are coerced into going where they are paying the most to get a baby," said Pay Haynes of Adoption Information Services, a state agency with 11 voluntary adoption agencies working together with the Illinois Department of Child and Family Services.

"Legitimate agencies support Susie in what she wants to do, letting her know there are families who want her baby."

Young mothers who plan to give up their babies for adoption are thinking of the child's best interest, but once they see their infants, they sometimes change their minds and keep them. That usually doesn't work out, said Judy Bemis of Lutheran Services. She cited two examples.

ONE SUCH TEEN mother who planned to marry eventually kept her baby. But her boyfriend decided he couldn't handle the responsibility and he left. When the infant was six months old, Susie and her family (most families are supportive says Ms. Bemis) gave the child up for adoption.

Another teen mother living at home with her parents decided after all that it was in the child's best interest to be adopted.

"Both these mothers and their families are now feeling pain. Girls who wait to relinquish their babies and those who do so at birth must work through a sense of loss, of grief," explained Ms. Bemis.

Even though there is help after a teen pregnancy occurs, many girls are not receiving assistance, even in the Northwest suburbs, said Diane Wilkinson.

"UNLESS A YOUNG person gets plugged into a program cooperating with other good agencies, or is in school, Susie may go far into her pregnancy without prenatal care. We need greater community involvement to help these kids."

"Lots of parents do not want sex education in the schools or birth control information available to their kids. But kids are having sex. They are not sexually responsible people and the worst kind of sex is irresponsible sex!" Judy Bemis speaks forcibly.

Diane Wilkinson sees some hope here where she cooperates with local education programs and professionals.

"I see some hope of changing attitudes. If the educated have more understanding and are less judgmental, they are more likely to spread information to younger and less educated people. Policymakers must recognize this need!"

Meantime, those who counsel and work with more and more pregnant Susie Q's, their boy friends and families do what they can to help them cope with "the facts of life."

Political gains for women marked Bicentennial year

by GAY PAULEY

Women marked the Bicentennial with a bevy of accomplishments.

They ranged from the newscaster who became a million dollar baby with a new network contract to the $14,000-a-year secretary whose scandalous involvement with a U.S. representative knocked him from the pinnacle of congressional power and forced him to resign in disgrace after 28 years in the House.

But the most significant story of the year concerned accomplishments of women in politics in general, where they were voters, campaigners, candidates and instigators of the historic debates among the men seeking the presidency and vice presidency.

IT WAS THE LEAGUE of Women Voters that dreamed up and carried through on the three presidential debates, the first televised debates since the 1960 Kennedy-Nixon appearances, and the first ever televised between the vice presidential nominees. All were the first to be sponsored by an outside organization.

"We are no longer a band of earnest reformers in the wake of the parade," said Ruth Clusen, league president. "We're leading the parade and we intend to keep it that way."

For women, it was a year of more wins than losses, whether in government or the private sector, in which women set records for their numbers in jobs outside the home and made inroads into the once male-dominated occupations.

THE BIGGEST WINNER of all, of course, was Rosalynn Carter, the wife who had for nearly two years campaigned for her husband from town to town, hamlet to hamlet. Now at 49, Mrs. Carter will become the nation's second youngest first lady — Jacqueline Kennedy Onassis was the youngest.

It also seems that Mrs. Carter will be one of the most influential. Carter has said he will send her on diplomatic missions "to let folks know we care about them and to bring back to me a report on what we should do to correct a mistake or strengthen an alliance or friendship."

Mrs. Carter's leap from Plains to Pennsylvania Avenue will mean other impact type of assignments. She long has been concerned about care for the mentally ill and problems of the aged.

BUT THE JIMMY and Rosalynn watchers see her behind-the-scenes influence as more wide-ranging. Carter long has used his wife as a sounding board on matters of policy and judgment of people.

Condition of heart determines exercise

I read an article in the paper where two heart specialists were discussing heart disease. They said heart ailments could best be treated with exercise and diet rather than using drugs. They did not mention what kind of exercise or diet a heart patient should use. I wish you would give me some facts on dieting and exercise that a person could best use. I am real anxious to know what comments you would give on this subject.

In articles and on TV programs the short space of time often prevents a complete presentation of the problem. Exercise, diet and not smoking are all important in preventing heart disease and strokes. They are not the answer, however, in some forms of heart disease, and they do not replace properly used medicines.

A person's exercise program depends entirely on what condition the heart is in. When a person has had a heart attack and the valves in the heart have been damaged to the point he can't walk the length of a hospital ward, it is foolish to talk about jogging to cure his damaged heart. A patient with rheumatic heart disease and damaged valves may need an operation and not an exercise program. There is literally no form of heart disease, though, that is benefitted by obesity. The same applies to smoking cigarets.

I think anyone who knows he or she has heart disease should not start an exercise program without discussing it with his or her doctor, familar with how much heart damage is present.

There is a great deal of difference in what you can say to the public about exercise for people who have never had a heart attack and those who have heart damage already. However, my rule of thumb is to tell people to walk. If you can't walk a city block at a normal pace without trouble, you must follow carefully what your doctor says about exertion, and don't try to do anything he does not recommend.

Otherwise most people can gradually increase their walking program. Those who can build up to walking an hour a day which can be done in divided sessions such as morning and evening — usually gain health benefits. I don't recommend progressing beyond a walking program without an evaluation of your status by your doctor. Those who then appear to be able to tolerate it can be encouraged to progress to more vigorous activity, such as jogging.

There are two issues of The Health Letter on exercises for the heart and circulation, Volume I numbers 11 and 12. Readers who want this program can send 50 cents for each issue, with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for them. Just address your letter to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Exercise is like any other form of treatment. It can be very beneficial, but if used wrongly it can be damaging. Diet is in the same ball park. A diet that controls calorie intake and provides a low-fat, low-cholesterol menu is often helpful. The crash efforts, often containing excess fat, are not. A gradual loss of excess fat is the sensible way to improve your health without damaging your body.

Dear Dorothy: My son, a college freshman, is remodeling his room and wants to hang a map on one wall. None of us can figure how to get it onto a piece of plywood. Can you help?—Mrs. George Scully

Take it in steps. First, have a piece of plywood cut the same size as the map. If it's a giant map, it may take two pieces of plywood, but the lumber dealer can get them to fit perfectly. Once it's in place, shellac the plywood. The shellac acts as a sealer so the board won't soak up the glue. When that's dried properly, mix one-third water thoroughly with two-thirds white casein glue. When it's smooth, spread this on the map with a clean paint brush and then put the map on the plywood. So there won't be any bubbles, you'll need either a good rubber roller or a Squeegee—and smooth very carefully from the top down. It isn't easy, but such maps do make handsome wall decorations.

Dear Dorothy: When I make banana cream pie, the bananas turn black. Would sprinkling lemon juice on the bananas help? Does it make any difference if the filling is warm or cold?—Ruth Arnold

First, the filling should always be cool. Lemon juice helps, but it's simpler if you don't slice the bananas until the moment you're ready to put them into the pie.

Dear Dorothy: Sounds a bit silly, but I'm having endless trouble getting pencil marks off my white uniforms. There are still traces of the marks even after laundering. Help, please.—Myra Hutsell

Use a pencil eraser to get off as much of the markings as you can. Then rub in either the detergent with a grease-cutting solvent, or the strong detergent liquid and launder.

Women making political gains

IN BELFAST, IRELAND, housewives spoke out and demonstrated to bring peace back to a divided land. The Women's Peace Organization was founded in August by Mrs. Betty Williams and Miss Mairead Corrigan, after three young children were crushed to death by a wounded gunman's getaway auto.

The leaders said the next phase of their campaign to end the seven years of violence in Northern Ireland, would be at the local level. "We must rebuild peace street by street," said Miss Corrigan. The funds donated to their campaign, including the nearly $250,000 special peace award in Oslo, Norway, would be channeled into community projects designed to bring the Protestants and Roman Catholics together.

Back to the U. S. scene:

Rosie the Riveter gave the impetus in World War II. And women, once started into the labor forces en masse, kept on going. Running the home no longer would be the primary duty of increasing numbers.

OTHER FACTORS WERE women's liberation, with the new job opportunities, plus the spiral of inflation making two paychecks in the family a necessity instead of a luxury.

This year alone, the number of women working increased by 1.6 million, bringing the total to 38.6 million. Working women now make up half the nation's feminine population.

People make news, and the ones who did in 1976 were varied. They married, divorced, separated, were involved in national headlines, and of course some of the famous died.

There was Elizabeth Ray in the nation's capitol. Miss Ray rocked official Washington with revelation that she got her $14,000 a year job on the staff of Rep. Wayne Hays, D., Ohio, ostensibly as a secretary but actually to serve as Hays' mistress.

Hays, 65, who relished a reputation as "the meanest man in Congress" — an acid-tongued master of insult — at first denied Miss Ray's story entirely.

Later, he admitted involvement and ultimately, was forced out as chairman of the administration and Democratic campaign spending committees, his health broke, and he resigned.

PATTY HEARST CONTINUED in the news. In November, Miss Hearst, the newspaper heiress, was freed from prison after her family posted bail totaling $1.5 million. Miss Hearst had been in prison 14 months but was released in custody of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Randolph A. Hearst, pending appeal of conviction for bank robbery.

Two royal families figured in the news of women '76. Princess Margaret and the Earl of Snowdon separated after a marriage of 16 years. Divorce apparently was not planned because it might embarrass her sister, Queen Elizabeth II, who is "supreme Head on Earth" of the Anglican Church, which frowns on divorce.

In Sweden, a commoner wed her prince after a 33-year-wait. Prince Bertil, of Sweden, who's 64, and Lillian Craig, 61, were married in the presence of King Carl XVI Gustave after a love affair that began in 1944.

PRINCE BERTIL MET his Craig, a divorcee, in London during World War II. But Bertil's brother, King Gustaf Adolf, ruled out marriage so the couple simply lived together. The way to their marriage was cleared after Adolf's death, when King Carl gave permission.

Barbara Walters became America's queen of newscasters when she signed a five-year contract with ABC, moving from her anchor news spot on NBC's "Today" show. The contract calls for $1 million a year, making her the highest paid news personality in television history.

Death came to Martha Mitchell, 57, the candid-speaking former wife of John Mitchell, former U. S. Attorney General. She died of cancer.

Engagements

Morrissey-Houghton

Karen Jean Morrissey and Thomas Dennis Houghton are engaged and planning a summer 1977 wedding, according to news from Karen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Morrissey of Rolling Meadows. Tom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Houghton of Lake Villa.

Both graduated from high school in 1971, Karen from Forest View and her fiance from Grayslake.

She now works for Kemper Insurance Co., Long Grove, and he is with Memco, Arlington Heights.

Medal-Sawalski

Mrs. George L. Medal of Mount Prospect announces the engagement of her daughter, Margaret, to Norbert J. Sawalski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norbert C. Sawalski of Des Plaines.

A July '77 wedding is planned.

Margaret graduated this year from Northern Illinois University and is working for Cine-Video Corporation of Illinois. Her fiance, a '76 graduate of DePaul University, is a buyer for Burrows Hospital Supply Co.

Gottschalk-Meimann

A February 1977 wedding is planned by Elizabeth Gottschalk of Mount Prospect and Robert Meimann of Nevada, Iowa. Their engagement and approaching marriage are announced by Elizabeth's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George L. Gottschalk.

Robert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Meimann, will graduate in '77 from Iowa State University. His bride-to-be is a graduate of Prospect High School and this year earned a degree from Iowa State. She now works for Wendy's Hamburgers in Ames, Iowa.

I don't recommend progressing beyond a walking program without an evaluation of your status by your doctor. Those who then appear to be able to tolerate it can be encouraged to progress to more vigorous activity, such as jogging.

There are two issues of The Health Letter on exercises for the heart and circulation, Volume I numbers 11 and 12. Readers who want this program can send 50 cents for each issue, with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for them. Just address your letter to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.

Exercise is like any other form of treatment. It can be very beneficial, but if used wrongly it can be damaging. Diet is in the same ball park. A diet that controls calorie intake and provides a low-fat, low-cholesterol menu is often helpful. The crash efforts, often containing excess fat, are not. A gradual loss of excess fat is the sensible way to improve your health without damaging your body.

Dear Dorothy: My son, a college freshman, is remodeling his room and wants to hang a map on one wall. None of us can figure how to get it onto a piece of plywood. Can you help?—Mrs. George Scully

Take it in steps. First, have a piece of plywood cut the same size as the map. If it's a giant map, it may take two pieces of plywood, but the lumber dealer can get them to fit perfectly. Once it's in place, shellac the plywood. The shellac acts as a sealer so the board won't soak up the glue. When that's dried properly, mix one-third water thoroughly with two-thirds white casein glue. When it's smooth, spread this on the map with a clean paint brush and then put the map on the plywood. So there won't be any bubbles, you'll need either a good rubber roller or a Squeegee—and smooth very carefully from the top down. It isn't easy, but such maps do make handsome wall decorations.

Dear Dorothy: When I make banana cream pie, the bananas turn black. Would sprinkling lemon juice on the bananas help? Does it make any difference if the filling is warm or cold?—Ruth Arnold

First, the filling should always be cool. Lemon juice helps, but it's simpler if you don't slice the bananas until the moment you're ready to put them into the pie.

Dear Dorothy: Sounds a bit silly, but I'm having endless trouble getting pencil marks off my white uniforms. There are still traces of the marks even after laundering. Help, please.—Myra Hutsell

Use a pencil eraser to get off as much of the markings as you can. Then rub in either the detergent with a grease-cutting solvent, or the strong detergent liquid and launder.

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to Dorothy Ritz in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Women making political gains

successor during a military coup.

IN BELFAST, IRELAND, housewives spoke out and demonstrated to bring peace back to a divided land. The Women's Peace Organization was founded in August by Mrs. Betty Williams and Miss Mairead Corrigan, after three young children were crushed to death by a wounded gunman's getaway auto.

The leaders said the next phase of their campaign to end the seven years of violence in Northern Ireland, would be at the local level. "We must rebuild peace street by street," said Miss Corrigan. The funds donated to their campaign, including the nearly $250,000 special peace award in Oslo, Norway, would be channeled into community projects designed to bring the Protestants and Roman Catholics together.

Back to the U. S. scene:

Rosie the Riveter gave the impetus in World War II. And women, once started into the labor forces en masse, kept on going. Running the home no longer would be the primary duty of increasing numbers.

OTHER FACTORS WERE women's liberation, with the new job opportunities, plus the spiral of inflation making two paychecks in the family a necessity instead of a luxury.

This year alone, the number of women working increased by 1.6 million, bringing the total to 38.6 million. Working women now make up half the nation's feminine population.

People make news, and the ones who did in 1976 were varied. They married, divorced, separated, were involved in national headlines, and of course some of the famous died.

There was Elizabeth Ray in the nation's capitol. Miss Ray rocked official Washington with revelation that she got her $14,000 a year job on the staff of Rep. Wayne Hays, D., Ohio, ostensibly as a secretary but actually to serve as Hays' mistress.

Hays, 65, who relished a reputation as "the meanest man in Congress" — an acid-tongued master of insult — at first denied Miss Ray's story entirely.

Later, he admitted involvement and ultimately, was forced out as chairman of the administration and Democratic campaign spending committees, his health broke, and he resigned.

PATTY HEARST CONTINUED in the news. In November, Miss Hearst, the newspaper heiress, was freed from prison after her family posted bail totaling $1.5 million. Miss Hearst had been in prison 14 months but was released in custody of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Randolph A. Hearst, pending appeal of conviction for bank robbery.

Two royal families figured in the news of women '76. Princess Margaret and the Earl of Snowdon separated after a marriage of 16 years. Divorce apparently was not planned because it might embarrass her sister, Queen Elizabeth II, who is "supreme Head on Earth" of the Anglican Church, which frowns on divorce.

In Sweden, a commoner wed her prince after a 33-year-wait. Prince Bertil, of Sweden, who's 64, and Lillian Craig, 61, were married in the presence of King Carl XVI Gustave after a love affair that began in 1944.

PRINCE BERTIL MET his Craig, a divorcee, in London during World War II. But Bertil's brother, King Gustaf Adolf, ruled out marriage so the couple simply lived together. The way to their marriage was cleared after Adolf's death, when King Carl gave permission.

Barbara Walters became America's queen of newscasters when she signed a five-year contract with ABC, moving from her anchor news spot on NBC's "Today" show. The contract calls for $1 million a year, making her the highest paid news personality in television history.

Death came to Martha Mitchell, 57, the candid-speaking former wife of John Mitchell, former U. S. Attorney General. She died of cancer.

Engagements

Morrissey-Houghton

Karen Jean Morrissey and Thomas Dennis Houghton are engaged and planning a summer 1977 wedding, according to news from Karen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John E. Morrissey of Rolling Meadows. Tom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Houghton of Lake Villa.

Both graduated from high school in 1971, Karen from Forest View and her fiance from Grayslake.

She now works for Kemper Insurance Co., Long Grove, and he is with Memco, Arlington Heights.

Medal-Sawalski

Mrs. George L. Medal of Mount Prospect announces the engagement of her daughter, Margaret, to Norbert J. Sawalski, son of Mr. and Mrs. Norbert C. Sawalski of Des Plaines.

A July '77 wedding is planned.

Margaret graduated this year from Northern Illinois University and is working for Cine-Video Corporation of Illinois. Her fiance, a '76 graduate of DePaul University, is a buyer for Burrows Hospital Supply Co.

Gottschalk-Meimann

A February 1977 wedding is planned by Elizabeth Gottschalk of Mount Prospect and Robert Meimann of Nevada, Iowa. Their engagement and approaching marriage are announced by Elizabeth's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George L. Gottschalk.

Robert, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lester Meimann, will graduate in '77 from Iowa State University. His bride-to-be is a graduate of Prospect High School and this year earned a degree from Iowa State. She now works for Wendy's Hamburgers in Ames, Iowa.

Making poinsettia rebloom

by Mary B. Good

Who wants a poinsettia after Christmas? Evidently, lots of people do, because after last week's column, there were inquiries about bringing the poinsettia back one more time for a rebloom.

Flowers may not be as large or as beautiful a second season, but it is the thrill of challenge that motivates poinsettia enthusiasts. After flowering is over for the season, the plant will have developed side shoots below the bracts which will grow up above the old flowering stem. To have a well-shaped plant for next year, cut back the original stem of the plant from four to six inches in total height, removing the old flower and one or two side branches. All this takes place in February or early March. Place the plant in a well-lighted location, watering and fertilizing as you would any growing foliage plant.

WHEN ALL DANGER of spring frost is over and night temperatures are 50 degrees F or above, let the plant vacation outdoors in a slightly shaded area until Sept. 15. Oct. 1 becomes the critical period for reflowering. At that time the poinsettia requires uninterrupted darkness for 14 hours each and every day, at 60 degrees, and a daytime temperature of 70 degrees. Keep the plant evenly moist, but not soaking wet. During the 10 hours that the poinsettia is receiving light, it must be intense, bright light. About mid-December of next year, color will show in the bracts if all went well, and the plant can be brought back into the normal light and dark cycle of the home. So you can see, re-blooming poinsettia is tricky, and if you can pull it off, Joel Poinsett would be proud of you!

PROPER CARE will lengthen the life of the cut flower arrangements you received for the holidays. Hot water in the vase is recommended (as hot as your hand will comfortably stand). A florist flower preservative will also add life to the arrangement.

If you want to re-do a wilted arrangement, evergreen clippings from your garden can be combined with fresh flowers to complement your decorating theme for the holiday season. Use water-absorbent florist foam to stem your greens and flowers.

Thoroughly soak a block of florist foam and tape it to the container. Form the lines of your arrangement with evergreens, holly or boxwood. And whatever greens you choose, make certain they are inserted deep into the block of holding substance. Pour hot water over the block and into the bowl of your container. It will be absorbed quickly. If evergreens are used in their natural state, freshen them from time to time by sprinkling or misting with water.

Cut flowers and greens should be used well into winter to perk up spirits and lend a beautiful glow to home surroundings. Face it, when the Christmas tree and all the tinsel and ribbons come down, it might look pretty blah around your pad!

THE CLEVER homemaker can bring much of her garden into wintertime decorating. Here, store-bought roses augment evergreen clippings and pine cones from the garden.
